TOKYO CLAIMS CAPTURE OF WAKE ISLAND

NIGHT ATTACK ON OUTPOST CARRIED OUT IN HEAVY GALE

Two Japanese Destroyers Sunk in Final Fighting—Washington Admits Radio Communication Is Severed.

TOKYO, Dec. 24 (Official radio recorded by AP)—Japanese reports said today that Wake Island was occupied completely at 1 a. m. yesterday (10 a. m., St. Louis time, Monday) in a night assault by Japanese naval forces defying blazing American defense guns, raging seas and a violent gale.

(The Navy Department in Washington, announcing the probable loss of Wake Island, said the Japanese lost two destroyers in the final attack. A Domei broadcast from Tokyo to the same effect was reported by Reuters news agency.)

In the Philippines, Tokyo reports acknowledged, the Japanese were locked in a fierce struggle but they declared successes at all points "and absolute supremacy of sea, air and land" indicated the Philippines' "inevitable" capture.

A Japanese naval communique said 20 American planes were destroyed by Japanese aircraft in attacks on the islands Sunday and Monday.

Three of the planes, said to be of "large type," were shot down in air combats and the rest were destroyed on the ground, the communique declared.

U. S. Defenses In Hawaii Isle Again Intact

Quick Replacements Made; Report on Raid Losses.

By ROBERT J. CASEY
The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1941.

HONOLULU, Dec. 23—(Delayed)—It can be revealed now—and with a deep breath of relief on the part of at least one correspondent—that the defenses of Hawaii are once more intact and adequate. Reinforcements in men and material have arrived in the islands, the damage to Army installations has been repaired, and the planes damaged and destroyed in the Dec. 7 attack have been rebuilt or replaced by new ones. The air force today is reported to be as strong as it was before the Sunday morning of the Japanese assault.

Honolulu probably will take this news with no show of surprise nor great concern, because optimism apparently had been rampant since the cleanup began the day after the battle. But there are a few people who will find it a pleasant subject for meditation as they sit in the darkness of hot hotel buildings and strain their ears to catch the Christmas carols coming over someone's portable radio in a basement down the street.

Correspondents View Damage.

The Army opened the gates of military establishments all over the island of Oahu today and turned newspaper correspondents loose to see for themselves what havoc had been wrought by Japan's sudden return of American scrap iron in the form of bombs. This bit of frankness effectively finished the rumors:

1. That the Army and Air Force had been completely destroyed.
2. That more hundreds of soldiers had been killed in bed than was officially announced.
3. That no United States planes got off the ground after the first wave of attack.
4. That carelessness had been shown in the grouping of planes at either Hickam or Wheeler Field.
5. That the destruction had been great enough to make the peril of the islands, now definitely alert and constantly remembering that it is possible to get stabbed in the back, even greater than it was in the day when no one suspected the Japanese would even come as far east as the international date line.

Trace Bomber Route.

Our inspection tour first followed the route of the visiting bombers across Hickam Field, along a line of hangars still cluttered with fire-twisted girders and half-melted debris of expensive planes. It was interesting to note that the invaders knew what they were doing and did not waste ammunition.

Two hangars that had been empty were untouched. Sheds, scattered living quarters, office buildi-

F. D. R., CHURCHILL KEEP EYE ON VICHY AS THEY PLAN WAR

MILITARY EXPERTS WORK ON STRATEGY

Broad Outline Will Be Submitted to Full Council — Evidence of Allied Unity.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—Watching for a Nazi coup that would put French bases and the French fleet under control of Hitler, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill devoted their Christmas eve today to work on a long-range plan for Axis downfall.

Naval matters have been figuring prominently in the British-American consultations, and any change in the status of the French fleet would present a grave complication for the Allied plans for the future war at sea.

Both the United States and Great Britain have shown great concern over the Vichy Government's ultimate disposition of the French fleet ever since France fell.

More Conferences Held.

The British naval, military and air force experts held conferences today, then met with their American counterparts before joining in a general United States-British war council.

Sir Gerald Campbell, director general of the British information service here, said the British-American experts were engaged in working out a "broad outline" of the war strategy. The outline, he added, will be submitted to the full war council. It concerns "strategical and operational planning in all theaters of war."

Campbell also said the Churchill and Roosevelt broadcasts were "outwardly and audibly a measure of world-wide friendship," adding:

"While there are growing rumors of dissension in the enemy high command, the fighters for freedom are reaching here in Washington an even closer unity of purpose."

First Secret Meeting.

The President, Churchill and members of the high commands were in session for an hour and three-quarters at the White

ALLIES MUST WIN BY A KNOCKOUT, CHURCHILL SAYS

Key to Whole War Is U.S.-British Resolution, He Asserts in White House Interview.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain asserted at an unprecedented White House press conference late yesterday that the Allies must deliver an external knockout to Hitler and not bank on internal collapse of Germany.

The key to the whole conflict, he said, is the resolute manner in which the American and British democracies are throwing themselves into this war. It would be imprudent, he cautioned, to indulge in facile optimism. He had not the slightest doubt of Allied victory.

Churchill proved himself the equal, if not the superior of President Roosevelt at handling oral questions at a session attended by more than 200 reporters. He was complete master of the situation. His quick-witted replies were as apt as the President's; he lived up to his reputation as a phrase-maker, and he answered or avoided embarrassing questions with incomparable ease. He seemed thoroughly to enjoy the 15-minute interchange between himself and correspondents, while Roosevelt watched the proceedings with pleasure and approval.

Introduced by Roosevelt.

The President talked for five minutes before introducing his guest. In sketching the preliminary work of the American-British conferences Roosevelt said other nations, notably Russia, China, The Netherlands and the British Dominions would be kept informed. He described the Latin-American republics which have not formally declared war on Axis as active non-belligerents. The whole progress of the conferences, the President said, is very satisfactory.

Churchill wore a semi-formal braided jacket, subdued stripe trousers, black shoes, a soft white shirt and a polka-dot blue bow tie. In his right lapel were the colors of a military decoration. He started the conference with a heavy

CHURCHILL GLEEFUL OVER WHITE HOUSE 2-EGG BREAKFAST

In England His Ration Is One a Week—Rest of Morning Meal a Delight.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—The sight of two eggs on a breakfast tray filled Prime Minister Churchill with boyish delight, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt confided today. She said the White House's famous guest had interrupted war conferences with President Roosevelt to eulogize his breakfasts—of fruit juice, eggs, bacon, toast and coffee—just routine in many American homes.

In England he gets one egg a week on a ration just like everyone else there.

The Prime Minister, like many other Britons, likes a cup of tea with thin toast when he first wakes up. But after he gets his eyes open he wants a big breakfast with coffee.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that when talking to Churchill she had sympathized with him that it must be hard to be so far away from home on Christmas. She related that Churchill replied:

"Holidays and work days are just the same. Until this war is over, there is nothing else but work that can be in our minds."

30 FROM SUNKEN SHIP REACH HAWAII; NINE DAYS ON BOAT

HONOLULU, Dec. 24 (AP).—Thirty exhausted survivors of the freighter Lahaina, sunk by a Japanese submarine in the Pacific Dec. 11, reached a Hawaiian beach in a 20-foot lifeboat after nine and one-half days at sea, it became known today.

When they approached the shore at Spreckelsville, Maui Island, at dawn last Monday they were mistaken for an enemy landing party until they made their identity known.

Two of the crew died aboard the crowded lifeboat from exposure and exhaustion, and two others leaped overboard. One seaman died a few hours after the boat reached land.

Capt. Hanso Matthiesen said the submarine, described as about 200 feet long, fired from 2000 yards and then again from 300 yards. He estimated 12 of 25 shots fired struck the Lahaina.

$512,000,000 Bill Signed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—A $512,000,000 defense appropriation bill, carrying funds for a big expansion of defense housing and an outlay to build up emergency food reserves for Hawaii's civilian population, was signed into law today by President Roosevelt.

U. S. FREIGHTER TORPEDOED IN PACIFIC; SINKING

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24 (AP).—The Navy announced today that the McCormick Lines freighter Absaroka had been attacked by a submarine off the southern California shore and abandoned in a sinking condition.

A Navy spokesman said the first report of the torpedoing was received at 10:15 a. m., but he did not know when it occurred.

There were no further details.

Onlookers on shore watched as a crew of about 35 took to lifeboats. Shore observers reported that the enemy submarine remained on the surface and appeared to have been crippled.

Capt. Olaf Eckstrom and his crew of 40 men from the Union Oil tanker Montebello arrived here today after their ship was torpedoed by a submarine yesterday off the coast of California. Another tanker, the Larry Doheny, owned by the Richfield Oil Co., fled to a cove and escaped yesterday after being fired on.

Capt. Eckstrom, a Norwegian, praised his crew who suffered from shock and exposure. The skipper, who had taken command of the Montebello only a few hours before it put out to sea, said the torpedo struck the only compartment of the tanker not loaded with gasoline. If any other had been hit, the ship would have been destroyed almost instantly, he said.

The explosion was so loud it awakened residents on shore six miles away.

Two Attempted Attacks.

In operations extending over hundreds of miles, the underseas craft also were reported to have attempted a second attack on the Standard Oil Tanker H. M. Storey

PHILIPPINE CAPITAL MAY BE DECLARED 'OPEN CITY' BY ARMY

Waterfront Raided, Considerably Damaged — Defenders Fighting Hard 'Against Great Odds' on Lingayen Gulf Front—Gen. MacArthur and Staff Take Field.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—The War Department announced today the appearance of enemy troop ships off Batangas on the west coast of Luzon Island, about 65 miles south of Manila, indicated the probability of another thrust in that region.

By R. P. CRONIN JR.

MANILA, Dec. 24 (AP).—The defenders of Manila, battling Japanese invasion army 125 miles north of the capital, faced a threat from a new direction today when the enemy succeeded in landing heavy forces 75 miles southeast of the city from 40 transports during the night.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his staff are taking the field at once in personal command of the fight against the Japanese invasion spearheads, Army headquarters announced.

An Army communique said the Philippine forces were "greatly out numbered."

Manila had four air raid alarms during the day, and after the fourth a nine-minute alarm which started at 5:21 p. m. (3:21 a. m. St. Louis time), one of the biggest fires here since the war began flared up in the Fort McKinley area.

Twenty United States fighter planes went into the air at the first sign of the raid and pursued the Japanese bombers to the south.

Large forces of United States tanks roared between cheering crowds lining the streets of Manila and headed toward the battlefields.

A communique issued from Army headquarters at 4 p. m. said American and Filipino troops were "resisting stubbornly" on both fronts, but added ominously:

"The enemy continues to land reinforcements."

The communique failed to say whether the invaders were making any progress toward Manila.

"Forty transports are off the coast at Atimonan," the communique declared. "Fighting is very heavy. United States armed forces of the Far East are behaving very well, but are greatly outnumbered.

"There is very heavy fighting in the north. Our troops there are behaving admirably against great odds."

Word from Atimonan by telephone said several transport loads of Japanese landed under cover of heavy fire from the sea.

Observers here expressed the view, however, that the only dangerous Japanese landing so far was that along the Gulf of Lingayen northwest of Manila.

They said that the Japanese push from Legaspi on extreme Southern Luzon had been stopped by blowing up bridges across deep ravines, and that the Japanese had made no advance from Aparri, in extreme Northern Luzon, where

Roosevelt, in Christmas Greeting, Expresses Confidence in Army, Navy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt, as Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces, sent a personal Christmas message to them today, voicing his confidence "that during the year which lies before us you will triumph on all fronts against the forces of evil which are arrayed against us."

The text of the message:

"To the Army and Navy:

"In the crisis which confronts the nation, our people have full faith in the steadfastness and the high devotion to duty demonstrated by the men in all ranks of our Army and Navy. You are setting an inspiring example for all the people, as you have done so often in the past. In sending my personal Christmas greeting to you, I feel that I should add a special measure of gratitude to the admiration and affection which I have always felt, and have expressed in other years. I am confident that during the year which lies before us you will triumph on all fronts against the forces of evil which are arrayed against us."

To the Navy, Secretary Knox sent a holiday greeting which said "wherever our duties may take us, we are united—united in confidence in each other—united in devotion to our country's cause."

Faith in the future and confidence in the courage and devotion of American troops were expressed yesterday by Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, in his Christmas greeting to the armed forces.

"This year," he said, "my Christmas greetings to the armed forces of the United States are dispatched with a deep appreciation of the splendid manner in which all are meeting the grave responsibilities of the present crisis. Confidence in the devotion, the initiative, and the high courage of our troops gives us complete faith in the future."

POPE SETS FORTH 5 PRINCIPLES OF PEACE; CALLS FOR ARMS LIMITATION

In Broadcast He Says There Must Be No Place for Aggression, Oppression of Minorities, or Persecution of Religion.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 24 (Official Broadcast Recorded by AP).—Pope Pius XII, in his annual Christmas eve message to the world, laid down a five-point plan for future world peace, predicated on "an adequate and progressive" limitation of armaments.

The Pope, broadcasting over the Vatican radio, said that in the world of the future there must be no place for:

1. Any kind of aggression.
2. Oppression of minorities.
3. Designing nations seeking a monopoly on economic wealth.
4. Total war or armaments races.
5. Persecution directed against religious sects or churches because faith "is one of the rights of mankind."

"There must be a progressive limitation of armaments," he said. "True respect for treaties must be observed."

Equal Rights for All.

The principles of freedom and equality of rights for all people must underlie that new day, he continued.

"Great responsibilities for the future of mankind rest on statesmen of the world. We need men of courage, vision and conscience to reconstruct the world."

"Now," he said, "there is an unbridled impulse toward expansion, the idea that force creates right."

"In some countries," he added, "the atheist anti-Christian idea of state is spreading its tentacles. The war, far from mitigating these evils, aggravates them.

"The ruins of this war are only too evident."

Millions of persons are separated from their families and enduring great pain and sorrow while "harsh violence rages all over the world like a storm," the Pope lamented.

Wasteful Cost of War.

Christmastide rejoicing, the Pope said, "Resounds in strident contrast with the events about us whose roar over hill and dale creates a terrifying fracas, devastating land and homes . . . and throwing millions of men and their families into unhappiness, misery and death."

He said he looked with anguish not only on the horrors of the struggle but at its wasteful cost. While the health and strength of youth are weakened by "the present scourge," debts are rising to undreamed of levels and must inevitably lead to a contraction of "the forces of production in the civil and social field."

"The very idea of force," he said, "stifles and perverts the rule of law and offers the possibility and free opportunity to individuals and to social or political groups to violate the property and the rights of others, and permits all the other destructive forces to upset and agitate the civil atmosphere until it becomes a raging tempest, and you shall see the notions of good and evil or right and injustice lose their well-defined outlines, become blunted and confused and finally threaten to disappear."

"Civilization's Values Endangered."

He spoke of "men who have turned from Christ" and of souls without faith with the result that "all of civilization's values are endangered."

"The whole earth is awaiting the triumph of Christ," he said.

The Pointiff referred to "the new order which must arise out of the war," saying "this new order must be based on moral principles."

When the causes are sought for the calamities of the present, the Pope said, "the opinion is frequently ventured that Christianitq had failed in its mission."

But Christianity—"that Christianity which is rue and faithful"—has not failed, he added. Instead, men "have fashioned Christianity to their liking."

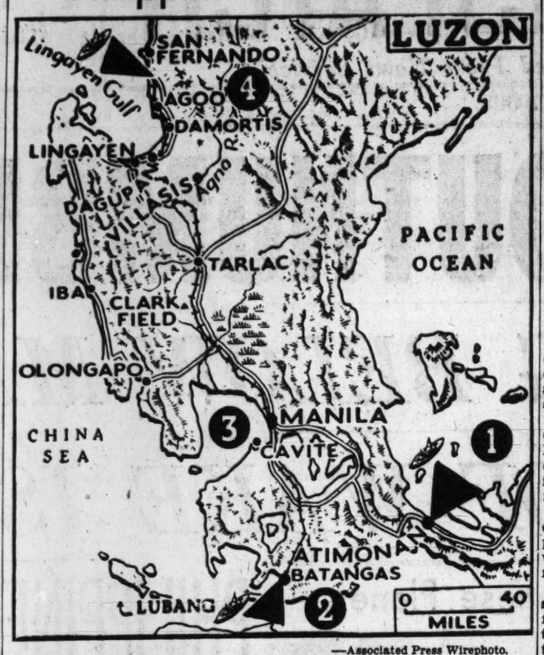
Philippine Battle Fronts



—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Army headquarters announced today that the American and Filipino troops were putting up a stubborn resistance at Atimonan (1) where a new Japanese invasion in heavy force occurred yesterday after an attempt to land off Batangas (2) was thwarted. Enemy troop ships today were again reported off Batangas. Manila (3) was subjected to another heavy bombing raid. There also was a stubborn defense in the San Fernando-Agoo-Damortis sector of the Lingayen Gulf battle (4).

American Forces on Luzon Outnumbered by Japanese

Any Japanese thrust from Atimonan, these sources declared, could be stopped just as the Legaspi push was, by dynamiting vital bridges and blowing out sections of the road through the mountains.

"Open City."

As the new threat to Manila developed, however, Army headquarters announced that military authorities were considering declaring the capital an open city to spare it from "any possible air or ground attacks." The announcement recalled that similar declarations were made with respect to Paris, Brussels, Athens, Rome "and other capitals."

Disclosure that such a step was under consideration followed by several hours a mid-morning raid on the Manila port area by nine Japanese bombers—the first on that section since the beginning of hostilities.

Great clouds of black smoke rolled up from the waterfront as the Japanese planes swept away over Fort McKinley in a rain of steel from anti-aircraft guns. One of the raiders was officially reported downed and several others were believed destroyed.

The all clear was sounded in Manila after 15 minutes. Considerable damage apparently was done to buildings along the waterfront.

Shortly after 1 p. m. the second alarm sounded. Eleven Japanese planes flew in from the south half an hour later and the all clear was sounded at 1:48 p. m.

The third raid alarm sounded shortly after 3 p. m. No enemy planes appeared over the city and the all clear came half an hour later.

Three Raiders Downed.

Emilio Quinton, an Associated Press office boy, describing the fourth attack, said:

"Many Japanese planes flew over. They were high up. About 15 American planes were in the air and two of them started a dog fight. The two Americans, roaring very loudly, went up under some of the Japanese. They curved and twisted quickly. Three Japanese bombing planes came tumbling down to the ground. When the Japanese planes hit, the fire started."

An Associated Press photographer reported in from the scene that some buildings were burning.

West Coast Attack.

An Army spokesman said that before landing at Atimonan the Japanese had made an attack on the southwest coast of the island near Batangas, but had been driven off.

Observers here interpreted the new Japanese thrust south of Manila as an attempt to force Gen. MacArthur to split his forces and thus weaken resistance on the vital northern front.

According to last reports the defenders there were holding a line north of Damortis, 120 miles from Manila, against the persistent hammering of strong Japanese forces which began landing from a fleet of 80 transports in the Gulf of Lingayen Sunday.

An Army spokesman said the Japanese air force was attacking at many points, apparently in a attempt to blast the American lines of communication.

He disclosed that in one assault Japanese bombers had damaged the steel bridge at Vilasis, 30 miles south of Damortis on the main highway to Manila, but said that the damage already was being repaired.

The bridge, longest in the Philippines, is the first reported hit by the Japanese in repeated bombing attacks on the many spans which dot the major Luzon highways.

The landing at Atimonan is the sixth attempted by the Japanese on the Island of Luzon since the war began Dec. 7.

Atimonan's Location.

Atimonan, situated on Lopez Bay on the narrow neck of land connecting the main part of Luzon with the southern bulge, is a town of about 13,000 known chiefly as a fishing center.

Though it is only 75 miles airline from Manila, an invading army would have to travel 150 miles to reach the capital, skirting around a large inland lake—Laguna de Bay.

The morning communique said nothing of the situation at Davao on Mindanao Island, south of Luzon, where the Japanese also have landed in force.

Press reports quoted refugees from Mindanao, however, as saying that seven Japanese troopships had been sunk in Davao Harbor and that the defense forces were giving a good account of themselves in land fighting.

A Filipino refugee who made his way to Manila from Legaspi said he had seen about 5000 Japanese soldiers there and about 300 at Naga, the provincial capital.

He said he had been forced to help unload machine guns and munitions from a Japanese troopship for two days. He was paid in Japanese currency, but the Japanese took his watch, baggage and money before letting him go, he said.

Army Communique

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).

THE text of a communique issued this morning by the War Department, outlining the military situation up to 8:30 (St. Louis time), follows:

1. Philippine theater: During the night the enemy landed in heavy force in the vicinity of Atimonan, 75 miles southeast of Manila on the Island of Luzon. The Japanese troops in this region are debarking from approximately 40 transports.

Several enemy transport troop ships have appeared off Batangas, south of Manila, indicating the probability of an attempted landing in that region.

Heavy fighting continues in the area of Lingayen Gulf, where the enemy is exerting great pressure. American and Philippine troops, though greatly outnumbered, are stubbornly resisting attacks.

Enemy air activity has been intense during the past 24 hours with several raids over Manila and the port area.

There is nothing to report from other areas.

Navy Communique

The Navy issued the following communique:

Atlantic theater — There are no new developments to report.

Eastern Pacific—The S. S. Larry Doheny was shelled by an enemy submarine, but reached port safely. Press reports of the sinking of the S. S. Montebello are confirmed.

Central Pacific — Radio communication with Wake has been severed and the capture of the island is probable. Two enemy destroyers were lost in the final landing operations.

Palmyra Island was shelled by an enemy submarine. Damage was negligible. There were no casualties. Johnston Island was also shelled by an enemy submarine with no damage to material and no casualities resulting.

The Hawaiian area was quiet.

Far East—There are no new developments to report.

FOUR JAP VESSELS REPORTED SUNK BY DUTCH SUBMARINE

BATAVIA, Dec. 24 (AP).—Netherlands Indies forces today reported sinking four Japanese vessels and the probable destruction of another in sea and air operations.

Dutch bombers attacked a concentration of Japanese ships off Kuching, capital of Sarawak, today and left one transport in sinking condition, an official announcement said.

Previously the Navy had reported three large Nipponese transports and a tanker had been sunk west of Borneo by a Dutch submarine last night.

(In London, Netherlands official sources said Dutch East Indies forces now had wiped out the entire enemy supply fleet which attacked Miri, one of two Japanese landing points in Sarawak.)

A communique said the ships were torpedoed on their way from Japan "and therefore had no opportunity to land their troops, war materials or supplies."

"It may be assumed," it said, "that considerable losses in men and material were inflicted on the enemy."

An army communique reported that Dutch fighter planes intercepted Japanese bombers at an undisclosed point over the outer islands and turned the raiders off before they could drop any bombs.

Amending its report yesterday of the sinking of a Japanese tanker off Davao, the invaded Mindanao island harbor of the Philippines, a communique said the ship was larger than the 10,000 tons previously estimated and that the bomb which scored a direct hit weighed half a ton.

During the air attack on Davao, carried out in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire and Japanese fighter resistance, the communique said, Dutch flyers scored direct hits on warehouses and docks along the waterfront.

Davao is about 600 airline miles from Manila and about 400 from outlying islands of the Dutch Archipelago. Hence, it is a closer target for The Netherlands and, conversely, a potential base for any Japanese invasion attempt against the Indies.

R. A. F. RAIDS JAP BASES IN MALAYA

By C. YATES McDANIEL

SINGAPORE, Dec. 24 (AP). — Britain's stiffened North Malaya defense line was said today to have held the Japanese jungle offensive virtually to a standstill for 48 hours while British airmen battered at Japanese bases.

A communique reported "some skirmishing" on the Northwestern Malaya front, but said there was nothing else to report from that sector other than the bombing yesterday of Ipoh, 300 miles north of Singapore on the main highway to Kedah Province, by Japanese raiders.

The Tokyo radio reported a second mass raid was made on Rangoon late yesterday, damaging five ships in the harbor. It said 21 British planes were shot down and that only two Japanese planes were lost.

State of Emergency Proclaimed in Bengal.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 24 (AP). — A state of emergency was proclaimed today in the Bengal presidency, the region of India closest to Burma, which has been subjected to heavy Japanese air assault.

BRITISH IN LIBYAN DRIVE TAKE BARCE, BENINA AIRDROME

Advance Units Believed to Have Cut Off Off Retreating Nazis From Italians in Bengasi.

CAIRO, Dec. 24 (AP).—British forces, "rapidly completing their occupation of Cirenaica," have captured the important Axis airdrome at Benina, 12 miles east of Bengasi, and the stronghold of Barce, about 40 miles farther east, the British announced today.

An imperial headquarters communique indicated that the army of Nazi Gen. Erwin Rommel, in headlong retreat westward, was showing signs of disintegration.

While the slower-moving main body of British forces was occupying Barce and the Benina airdrome, it said, faster armored vanguards "appear to have cut off retreating Germans south of Bengasi from Italian forces remaining in that port."

The communique said it still was impossible to tally Britain's accumulation of Axis prisoners and material but that "one small, mobile column alone took 500 prisoners yesterday and among masses of enemy material abandoned yesterday were found 17 more enemy tanks."

Making a departure from custom, the communique not only named specific units in the British drive—among them the Coldstream Guards, one of Britain's most noted regiments—but also told where they were operating.

Such information, observers commented, scarcely would be divulged to an enemy deemed capable of utilizing it.

An Axis hold-out garrison at Barce had been by-passed by the British vanguards pressing to keep pace with the German and Italian flight and the communique said it now had fallen to the Central India Horse Regiment.

Indian and British troops are pressing toward Bengasi in this area, the report added. The town is the Axis' last major position east of Tripoli and the British had expected Rommel to attempt a stand there.

Mobile columns which occupied the Benina airdrome included the British Rifle Brigade and Royal Horse Artillery, headquarters disclosed.

The communique said columns of the Coldstream Guards, the Royal Armored Corps and South African armored cars were attacking along the 40-mile line southwestward from Antelat to Agedabia near the coast of the Gulf of Sirte. Antelat is about 75 miles southeast of Bengasi.

PETAIN TELLS FRANCE PEACE IS 'FARTHER OFF THAN EVER'

Marshal Says His Efforts to Obtain German Release of War Prisoners by Christmas Have Failed.

VICHY, Dec. 24 (AP).—In a pessimistic Christmas message to his conquered nation, Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain declared today that peace is "farther off than ever" and said the families of France still were broken up by German detention of prisoners of war.

He said in his message, which was addressed principally to those French prisoners, that the war had been extended by the outbreak of hostilities in the Far East between Japan and the United States and Britain.

He told the prisoners his hopes that they could be released and returned to their homes by this Christmas had been disappointed, but he assured them he was working for their liberation.

This was being done, he said, "by showing our vanquishers of yesterday how much you seem to us to be worthy of esteem."

Of the world situation, Petain said:

"The war has not finished. On the contrary it has taken a considerable extension, ravaging new continents and every day bereaving thousands of families. Night grows darker over the world. And the much desired peace is farther off than ever."

BRITISH SKEPTICAL OF MOVE ON SPAIN

LONDON, Dec. 24 (AP).—A Foreign Office commentator labeled rumors of an impending German invasion of Spain a Nazi ruse today and said there was nothing to confirm either such a move or a report that Marshal Henri Phillippe Petain had resigned as French Chief of State.

His statement came amid speculation over Germany's next undertaking, spurred by Hitler's assumption of command of Nazi armies and a Reuters report that Petain had yielded his leadership to Admiral Jean Darlan, Vice-Premier, under intensified German pressure, presumably to get a French North African base or for other collaboration concessions.

The Reuters report, which came from "somewhere in Europe," was denied by a Vichy news agency, which quoted authoritative sources as calling it ridiculous.

The report spread as Spain and Turkey, at opposite ends of the Mediterranean, were figuring in speculation over Germany's next move.

"German Nerve Wars."

The commentator said it seemed evident that the Germans themselves were spreading rumors of a Nazi campaign in the Iberian Peninsula "probably with a view to producing another of those German nerve wars with which we have become so familiar."

He asserted that "there is no confirmation whatever of these reports" and said that any similar crop of rumors about an immediate Nazi thrust against Turkey should be treated with similar reserve.

He put the report of Petain's replacement by Darlan in the same category.

Advices in Bern, Switzerland, yesterday said German troops were moving through occupied France to join previously collected Nazi contingents on the Spanish border. Considerable military equipment was reported to have been piling up there over a period of months.

Subsequently, Istanbul reports said Germans there had been advised by their embassy to be ready to close their businesses "for a short time" in January. The British took that to be part of a German campaign to keep the Turks—and others—uneasy.

Petain-Goering Meeting.

Behind rumors concerning Petain lay an agreement generally believed here to have been forced from him by Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering at St. Florentin Dec. 1. At that time Petain allegedly promised the Germans all the bases they wanted in French Africa provided these could be reached without using interned remnants of the French fleet. Since then Petain has been pictured as stalling the Nazis with all sorts of excuses for failing to make good on the agreement because public opinion in French Africa was not ready for the step and because he wanted to judge the outcome of the British Libyan offensive.

Success of that drive which the British say soon may push the German armies in North Africa to the Tunisian border, is believed by observers here to have caused Berlin to put extreme pressure on France to open a back-door of escape from Tripolitania through French North Africa, as well as opening an avenue of supplies to Nazi troops in Libya.

TURKEY REPORTED REASSURED BY NAZIS

ISTANBUL, Dec. 23—(Delayed)—(AP).—A usually reliable unofficial source said today that German Ambassador Franz von Papen gave President Ismet Inonu of Turkey categorical assurances yesterday that Germany was not planning an attack on Turkey.

A reported regrouping of German air strength in Greece and Italy following the sudden German retreat in Russia had given rise to fears here.

BRITISH WIN BACK POINT IN CENTRAL HONGKONG SECTOR

Marines Credited With Counterblow—Japs Reported Feeling Pressure of Chinese Attacks.

SINGAPORE, Dec. 24 (AP).—British Marines on Hongkong Island were reported officially today to have won back one position from the Japanese, who appeared to be feeling effects of a Chinese attack from the rear

Some new Japanese gains on the island were indicated in reports from Hongkong but Royal Marines were said to have regained a position in the central sector which had been overrun Monday night. The situation generally was reported unchanged.

The British indicated the Chinese attack along the Cahton-Kowloon railway, and guerrilla activities which have been carried to within 14 miles of Hongkong, might have forced the withdrawal of enough Japanese to have given the besieged British some relief.

Small parties of British administrative military personnel, not normally equipped or trained for fighting, have taken up arms and are holding advanced posts against repeated Japanese attack. Their stand was described as isolated, but they were said to be holding out determinedly.

The British were said to be subjected to terrific Japanese bombardments.

King said: "We will do the best we can with what we've got . . . We will win through—in time."

NO-STRIKE PACT SIDESTEPS DISPUTE OVER CLOSED SHOP

Agreement for War Labor Board and Peaceful Settlement of All Issues Viewed, Therefore, as Union Victory.

By CHARLES G. ROSS
Contributing Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24. — The closed shop issue is not touched in the "agreement" which President Roosevelt yesterday, in glowing terms, declared had been reached by the industry-labor conference created by him last week to work out an over-all formula for industrial peace during the war emergency.

It does not minimize the importance of the compact, which binds labor and management to a no-strike, no-lockout policy, to say that the agreement between the 12 representatives of industry and the 12 labor union leaders who sat in the President's conference is not complete. The two sides remained deadlocked to the end, 12 to 12, over the crucial issue of the closed shop. The outcome therefore, while gratifying to a degree, does not represent the unanimous accord for which the President had hoped and which he said should be reached in one or two days.

The "thrilling" result for which he pleaded at the opening of the conference was not achieved.

Three-Point Agreement.

What happened was that the President, obviously despairing of a settlement of the closed shop issue, simply passed over that issue and accepted the three "general points of agreement" at which the conference had arrived. These points, as set out in his letter congratulating the conference and inferentially bringing it to an immediate end, are as follows:

"1. There shall be no strikes or lockouts.

"2. All disputes shall be settled by peaceful means.

"3. The President shall set up a proper war labor board to handle these disputes."

This formula had been offered as the basis of an agreement by one of the "moderators" of the conference, Senator Thomas (Dem.) of Utah, and had been accepted by the six CIO and six AFL men forming the labor membership.

Embraces Closed Shop Dispute.

The formula, it will be noticed, embraces "all disputes", and this means disputes over the extension of the closed shop as well as over wages, working conditions, etc. Here was the rub. The 12 industry representatives demanded a reservation excluding the closed shop as an arbitrable issue; a reservation, in other words, "freezing" open and closed shop conditions as they now are, except as they might be changed by direct negotiations between an employer and his employes.

To this demand the 12 labor men replied with a unanimous "no," and thus the issue stood, after parleys of nearly a week, till the President took matters into his own hands and proclaimed a "general" agreement.

In opposing arbitration of the closed shop issue, the industrialists relied heavily on the President's statement in the recent "captive" mine dispute that the Government never would forced the closed shop on an employer. The labor union representatives repiled that in the same speech the President suggested arbitration of the closed shop issue.

It was not put into words in any public statement, but the industrialists had disturbingly in mind the result of that arbitration. The miners' union, it will be recalled, lost the case before the National Defense Mediation Board and then won it at the hands of an arbitration board named by the President. The industrialists were trying to guard against similar union victories through arbitration.

Victory for Unions.

In these circumstances, Moderator William H. Davis and his associate, Senator Thomas, took their dilemma to the President and got his decision. Since this contains no mention of the employers' proposed reservation, the victory is clearly with the unions in their demand for the right to seek the closed shop in proceedings before the War Labor Board which the President is to set up.

The President stressed the "general" character of the agreement. "Governments," he said, "must act in general. The three points agreed on cover of necessity all disputes that may arise between labor and management.

"The particular disputes must be left to the consideration of those who can study the particular differences and who are thereby prepared by knowledge to pass judgment in the particular case."

This says in effect that the new War Labor Board, which the President undertakes to name "at once," will deal with each closed shop on its individual merits — which is the procedure used by the National Defense Mediation Board today.

Unqualified Peace Pledge.

While there is thus no removal of the closed shop from the field of controversy, there is clear gain for industrial peace in the unqualified pledge of the labor and industrial leaders that "all disputes shall be settled by peaceful means," without resort to strikes or lockouts.

When the President's letter was laid before the conference yesterday afternoon, all hands accepted his decision as final and the meeting broke up.

In announcing the result, Davis was at some difficulty in explaining a "unanimous agreement" in the face of an unbroken deadlock on the closed shop issue. The industrial group, he said, had told the conference the preceding day, before he went to the President with the conflicting proposals, that they would accept whatever orders the President might give. Davis emphasized that only one point remained in dispute between the union men and the industrialists; that the "area of agreement" was far greater than that of disagreement.

In a short speech for a news reel, William Green, president of the AFL, told of the absolute bar which had been placed on strikes, "for any cause whatsoever," and expressed pleasure at "the glorious outcome of a most important meeting."

Management Statement.

The 12 men representing employers issued a statement saying they accepted "the President's direction for a peaceful settlement of disputes and the establishment of a war labor board" but strongly urged that the board "should not accept for arbitration or consideration the issue of the closed shop, requiring that a person become or remain a member of a labor organization if he is to get or hold a job."

"We recommend," the employers' representatives added, "that for the duration of the war, employers shall not attempt to change the terms, in present contracts, which provide for the closed shop. Where a closed shop contract does not now exist, it may under the law be arrived at by voluntary negotiation. We indorse without reservation the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively.

"But it would be a serious mistake to abandon the principle that the right to work should not be infringed by Government through requirement of membership in any organization, whether union or otherwise.

"The closed shop is the most highly controversial and emotional question in industrial relations today. To accept it as an issue for Government arbitration would intensify agitation, increase labor disputes and divert the energy of both labor and management from the vital job of production."

President Philip Murray of the CIO said, "It shall be the purpose of the CIO and each local affiliated union to make effective the provisions" of the agreement and to lend "all of their power and influence toward prevention of strikes and other stoppages which interfere with production."

'CHRISTMAS' TAKES PLACE OF 'XMAS' ON AUDITORIUM SIGN

However, 'Tonite' Stays, 'Because It's Accepted Theatrical Spelling.'

Municipal Auditorium no longer wishes passersby a "Merry Xmas" —it's "Merry Christmas" now.

Foot-and-a-half-high letters bearing the briefer spelling had been raised among the holiday decorations of the auditorium's facade for the last eight years, but Percy M. Gash, manager, said he ordered "Christmas spelled the way it ought to be spelled" a few minutes after seeing the sign three days ago. The new letters were completed and set in place Monday, the same day a Post-Dispatch editorial called attention to the previous simplified version.

"I'm opposed to this simplified spelling business," Gash told a reporter. "I don't think 'X' ever stood for Christ, and I don't think it ever will."

Gash added, however, that the auditorium would continue spelling "tonight" as "tonite" on its signs "because that's accepted theatrical spelling."

MAN INJURED BY STREET CAR

Motorman Arrested, Denies Knowing He Hit Anyone.

Elija T. Anderson, an electrician, 5226 Raymond avenue, suffered a fracture of the skull when a street car struck him on the Hodiamont tracks at Raymond last night. Witnesses said the car went on without stopping.

Police later arrested William F. Jordan, 5851 DeGiverville avenue, who said he was the operator of a street car that had passed the intersection at the time of the accident. He said he had no knowledge of having struck anyone. Anderson is in City Hospital.

PRESIDENT NAMES DIRECTOR OF WAR TRANSPORTATION

Eastman Head of Agency Which Will Seek Most Efficient Use of Domestic Facilities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—To assure the most efficient use of domestic transportation facilities for successful prosecution of the war, President Roosevelt established yesterday an Office of Defense Transportation.

He told a press conference he had asked the Interstate Commerce Commision to grant a leave of absence to its chairman, Joseph B. Eastman, who will be director of the new agency.

The new office will deal with rail, motor, inland waterway, pipeline and air transport and with coastwise and inter-coastal shipping.

The agency will determine how existing facilities may best be used in handling an increased volume of traffic due to the war effort and will stimulate the provision of any additional facilities and equipment which may be needed.

It is charged with preventing traffic congestion and assuring orderly and prompt movement of men, materials and supplies to the points where they are needed. It must co-ordinate domestic traffic with ocean shipping to avoid congestion at ports and maintain a maximum flow of traffic.

Another problem within its jurisdiction is that of adequate storage and warehouse space. Furthermore, it will represent the defense interest of the Government in negotiating rates with domestic carriers.

Priority orders of the OPM will be taken into consideration by the new office in considering the relative importance of deliveries of defense supplies.

GOEBBELS MAKES RADIO APPEAL TO GERMANS ABROAD

Bern Dispatch Says He Called on Them to Serve Fatherland, Admitted Hard Task.

BERN, Switzerland, Dec. 24 (AP). —Paul Joseph Goebbels, Germany's Minister of Propaganda, appealed openly tonight to Germans in countries abroad to "remain at your posts!"

"You poineers," he said, "serve our fatherland."

Acknowledging that they would have to see their films in secret and to gather in secret, he assured his invisible column of listeners that "time will not witness a German breakdown" as in 1918.

But, he admitted, the German task at home is not easy, because of the air raids in many areas.

BABY FALLS INTO HOT WATER

Squirms from Mother's Arms and Is Scalded.

John Brodak Jr., 20 months old, suffered serious burns of the back and left arm yesterday when he squirmed from his mother's arms and fell into a pan of hot water, in the kitchen of the Brodak home, 5327 Fletcher drive, Jennings.

The child was suffering from a cold, and Mrs. Brodak was holding him over the pan so he could inhale the steam. The child was taken to Christian Hospital.

Spirit of 'Christmas as Usual' Pervades St. Louis Despite War

Traditional Celebrations to Be Held in Homes, Churches—25,000 Carolers to Make Rounds Tonight.

Liveliness and bustle marked preparations today for the Christmas holiday. Last-minute shoppers hurried about and bus and railroad stations were filled with travelers, many of them in military uniform.

Traditional celebrations will be held this evening and tomorrow in churches, homes and public institutions in a spirit of "Christmas as usual," or as nearly usual as possible in wartime.

The weather prediction was "fair and cooler" for tonight, with lowest temperature about 30 degrees. A forecast for tomorrow was not available because of war-time restrictions.

Special services will be held in many Protestant churches this evening and tomorrow. Midnight masses will be held tonight in all Catholic churches in the St. Louis archdiocese. Archbishop John J. Glennon will be celebrant of the mass at the St. Louis Cathedral, Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue.

A candlelight carol service will be held at Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets, at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon, with another service at 11 p. m.

Distribution of Food.

The Salvation Army distributed 1500 baskets of food to needy families today. Parties for underprivileged children are being given throughout this week at Salvation Army neighborhood centers.

For several days pupils at various schools have been distributing to needy children baskets of food collected by the pupils in their homes and from food dealers.

For the first time within the memory of attaches at the Children's Building there were no juveniles in the detention quarters for the Christmas holiday.

About 25,000 carol singers, in groups, will visit residential neighborhoods in the city and county this evening, starting as night falls and singing at every home which has a lighted candle in a window. The singers are sponsored by the Christmas Carol Association, which turns over donations to accredited charitable and welfare agencies for benefit of underprivileged children.

Carolers will sing this afternoon and evening at the St. Louis Service Men's Center at Municipal Auditorium. A Christmas dance, with music by an orchestra from Jefferson Barracks, will be given at the center tomorrow night, starting at 8 o'clock.

For days Union Station has hummed with unusual activity. Veteran railroad employes declared that pre-holiday travel this season was the greatest of any Christmas season within their memory.

Public buildings, exchanges, banks, courts and most businesses will be closed tomorrow. Public school children began an unusually long Christmas vacation today; the schools will not reopen until Jan. 5.

Postoffice deliveries tomorrow will be limited to special delivery mail, gift packages and perishable parcels.

Christmas at the 85 United Charities agencies will be celebrated in the traditional manner, with parties, gifts, dinners, carol singing and religious services.

Turkey dinners will be served at city institutions. An anonymous donor has provided cigars for prisoners in City Jail and a religious order has donated candy. An entertainment will be given in the jail this evenings.

The Safety Council asked that care be taken in the handling of Christmas trees and decorations to prevent fires and urged extra caution by motorists.

Leaves for Soldiers.

Many soldiers at Jefferson Barracks will receive leaves for this evening and tomorrow. Some will be entertained at Christmas dinners in St. Louis households. Band concerts will be given at the barracks tonight and there will be a turkey and ham dinner "with trimmings" and a wide variety of vegetable and deserts tomorrow.

At Scott Field, Army Communications School near Belleville, three-day passes are being granted to as many enlisted men as can be spared. Students will be free this evening and tomorrow, unless such leave interferes with the training schedule. A turkey dinner will feature the celebration tomorrow.

The local naval personnel may have 72 hours leave either for Christmas or for the New Year celebration.

The Marine Corps recruiting office in the Federal Building will remain open Christmas day but recruiting offices of the five other branches of the armed services will be closed for the day.

ORDER SUPPRESSING EGAN TRIAL SUBPENAS STANDS

Judge Moore Refuses to Set Aside Ruling in Union Electric Case.

Counsel for Louis H. Egan, former president of Union Electric Co. of Missouri, made an unsuccessful effort today to get United States District Judge George H. Moore to set aside an order suppressing subpenas for witnesses and records to be used by the Government in the trial of Egan and Union Electric Co. on charges of corrupt practices. The trial is set for Jan. 12.

Judge Moore issued the suppression order late yesterday at the request of United States Attorney Harry C. Blanton. Asking Judge Moore to set aside the order, Thomas Bond, attorney for Egan, asserted that the Missouri law requiring names of witnesses to be indorsed on an indictment should be observed. He contended that to keep the subpenas secret would interfere with preparation of the defense of his client.

Egan and the company are charged jointly with conspiracy to violate, and actual violations of, the corrupt practices section of the Holding Company Act by making political contributions.

DOUGHTON SAYS TAXES MAY TAKE ALL 'WE CAN GET'

Ways and Means Chairman Asserts This May Mean Rate Increases, Tapping New Sources.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—Chairman Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina said today the House Ways and Means Committee might have to write a new tax bill next year calculated to bring in "every dollar we can reasonably get" instead of a fixed amount of new revenue.

"We have to obtain all the money we can as expeditiously as possible," Doughton told reporters, "and that means perhaps tapping new sources of revenue, increasing some of the existing rates and tightening up wherever we can, especially administratively." The group will begin consideration of the new bill Jan. 15.

Both Doughton and Representative Treadway (Rep.), Massachusetts, another committee member, said scope of the measure could not be decided until the committee passed on recommendations by Treasury and Congressional statisticians.

Representatives Duncan (Dem.), Missouri, and Reed (Rep.), New York, members of the committee said the bill might take huge chunks out of individual and corporation incomes, without placing much emphasis on new excise levies.

Treadway said he had heard of a plan to take by taxation all income above a fixed figure.

Many committeemen avoided discussion of a general sales tax or a plan to withhold for the Government 15 per cent of all salaries at the source.

They also said it was premature to discuss suggestions that the 1942 tax bill be collected immediately on 1942 incomes. Federal taxes normally are collected in the year after which income is received.

Reed said some people might have to draw heavily on their savings to meet the new burden.

Dr. Albert G. Hart, economics professor at Iowa State College, recommended that the committee study the possibility of raising taxes equal to 90 per cent of Federal expenditures. On the basis of an annual outlay of $60,000,000,000, Hart would have $54,000,000,000 a year raised by taxation.

The last bill, designed to raise $3,600,000,000, increases probable Federal income this year to about $13,000,000,000.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Students' Definitions of an American.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AMONG the classes that I teach in Beaumont High School one is in American literature, a fourth-year, twelfth-grade subject, in which the students average about 17 years of age. For four months now, we have been reading and studying poems, articles and stories that deal with the problems, development and trends of American spirit, thought and action since colonial days.

One day last week I asked them to write a paper at the top of which were written the four words: "Definition of an American" and at the bottom of which were written these four words: "I am an American."

As I read through these salvos of creative writing that were handed to me, I got the feeling that the grownups of our country might well be inspired and enlightened by what the boys and girls said. So I am submitting sentences that I culled here and there from one and another of the papers:

"To be a good American, one should know how he is governed."—Kenneth Deluse.

"A free soul, he likes to express himself freely when he wants to."—Harry Martin.

"Yes, he realizes that his Government has faults, but he knows that these are nothing when compared to the blessings of freedom."—Doris Rose.

"Along with being a good citizen, he tries to vote for the right men and women."—Harold Veidt.

"He elects his leaders and should try to work with them instead of ridiculing them."—Marjorie Hunt.

"An American does not like to be told to do anything; he likes to think for himself."—Kennett Klein.

"He is independent and is willing to work (and work hard) for what he wants in life."—Eleanor Shelton.

"To me, an American, above all, is devoted to God."—Millicent Evans.

"He is a person who honors God and his country, the United States, before he values his own life."—Jane Shannon.

"This means that he does a thing for the personal satisfaction he gets from it."—Jeanette Scott.

"He uses the common sense he possesses to do the thing he thinks is best for himself and the ones with whom he associates."—Henry Schaefer.

"Striving to do his own personal best at all times, he is interested in things done by other Americans, and gives glory to them."—Clyde Shadley.

"He does not have ill-feeling toward rich people, because he himself knows and tries to be one."—Anonymous.

"There is a tendency for him to suffer a downfall when it comes to social activity."—June Handy.

"He solves the problem of manners by behaving, wherever he goes, exactly as he would in the living room of his own home."—Walter Becker.

Several of the students remarked that "an American is a sturdy fellow that nobody can push around," but that, "on the other hand, he never pushes a weaker person around."

Pre-Army Training for 16-20 Age Group.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

INDICATIONS are that the war will be a long, hard and total war and that to be successful we will need to employ every resource available to us and use it effectively and economically. To do so we must proceed with judgment and we must train for skill.

To acquire military skill takes time, and time is precious. Time can neither be purchased nor manufactured, so the only way to capitalize on time is to make good use of it. To use time well and to lower the cost of military training, it is suggested that steps be taken in the near future to organize military training units for boys from 16 to 20. This might be done by high school districts and should include all boys, whether the boys are enrolled in school or not.

The training could and should be done by ex-soldiers of the First World War, who have first-hand knowledge, experience and technical skill as a result of their active service, but who may now be physically unfit for active military duty. In order not to disrupt the boys' normal school training or other programs, the training work could be done on one or two evenings per week and on Saturday.

This proposal, if put into practice, should result in producing a well-trained young army almost ready for service as soon as the boys mature and develop some judgment as to how to take care of themselves.

CHRISTMAS EVE, 1941.

We are come to the eve of our first war Christmas. Most of us, it is true, have acted as though it were to be our last peacetime celebration. We thronged into the stores, and we piled the gifts—the sleds and skates, the toys and picture books, the pipes and neckties, the house coats and perfume bottles—higher than ever under the still undecorated tree.

We have hung the holly, and the mistletoe, and the blue juniper. We have set the red candles beside the golden-hearted poinsettia on mantel and table. We have polished the silver bowl for cream-foaming Tom and Jerry. We have stocked the kitchen with turkey and berries, with pudding and pie. We have littered the rugs with scraps of ribbon and tinsel and gay paper. We have made all the preparations for a good old-fashioned Christmas feast.

For the space of a few hours at least, we have, more or less deliberately, sought to shut out of our homes and our minds the worries of a weary world. But in this we have not been very successful. Our last-minute shopping was made doubly difficult because of our first experience with priorities. In the green and red of the holly, we could not help seeing the palm fronds of distant Pacific islands where, tomorrow, the Christmas incense will be the bitter smoke of burnt gunpowder. And then, many of those who have come to join our caroling are in uniform—home for a few days from ship and camp.

Mothers, who have a way of slipping into the background to drink in the Christmas joys they have prepared for others, perhaps late at night and over a hot stove, may find it hard to keep back a silent tear, even when there is an understanding handclasp. The world is not full of Spartans, and bravery is a difficult virtue when war comes to the feast.

In such a year as this, we might—all of us, Christian, infidel and Turk—find a moment for contemplating the real significance of this great feast of the Western world. It is the day of Christ, the Savior, the Prince of Peace, the Man of Good Will.

Who ever drew a better plan for "the bright new world, the glorious tomorrow," than He who commanded us to love our brothers? Is not that the kind of world we are determined to have? And, if it is going to be a long, grim business fighting through to that day on which all men will behave like human beings, was not Bethlehem merely a prelude to Gethsemane and Calvary, where the earlier victory was won?

And so, as the brazen midnight bells ring out, as dulcet voices intone the old Christmas hymns by the light of flaming tapers, we may give more than ordinary heed to the familiar words:

Oh, come all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant . . .

The first Christmas eve on the wind-swept hills of Judea was, after all, a bitter cold night, full of poverty and hardship. Then, too, Herod's treacherous soldiers were on the prowl. It became a feast—the great, shining star of the Western world—only because it was so full of promise and determination. And so:

God rest ye merry, gentlemen.

CIVILIAN REGISTRATIONS FOR WAR DUTY.

If the ratio of enrollments for civilian defense in St. Louis and the county should continue at the rate of the first day of recruiting, 56,000 persons will enroll from this area. Since 77,000 registrations are asked to fill out the civilian organization to full strength, a considerable increase is needed Friday and Saturday, the remaining two days of the enrolling period.

Undoubtedly many persons who plan to enroll found it inconvenient, if not impossible, to register in the last days of the Christmas rush, with its heavy demands on time. This rush will be a thing of the past Friday and Saturday. Registrations on those days should make up the number desired and more. Every civilian has work to do in winning the war, and the sooner he finds his place the better.

A SAILOR ON BOMBPROOF AIR BASES.

Enlisted men of the Navy very seldom write articles for the United States Naval Institute Proceedings, whose contributors are mostly officers, scientists, historians and the like. But last April, the Proceedings contained a 1500-word article by Laurence Sanger Davis, a radioman first class of Patrol Squadron 24, then based at Pearl Harbor. It was entitled "Give Us Bombproof Air Bases," and ended as follows:

> The title is not the usual cry for improvements and added defense of the war-scared civilian, but the earnest plea of a man-of-war's man who asks nothing better than to "spin-in" in the service of his country, but who wants to be in the air fighting when he gets it and not sitting on the ground sucking his thumb because the enemy has penetrated the defense, bombed his airdrome and destroyed his plane.

Radioman Davis admitted he was no engineer, but he advanced some plans for underground hangars and shelters. He admitted these would be very costly, but he cited lessons from abroad: "At air bases, especially those on outlying islands, the attacking air fleets have arrived before defense units can commence operations, and no matter how good they may be, there is certain to be a percentage of invaders who drop their bomb loads with effect."

If Patrol Squadron 24 was still based on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, here's a wager that Radioman Davis gave a good account of himself IF he wasn't left "sucking his thumb because the enemy destroyed his plane" on the ground. And Radioman Davis had a lot more foresight than the Congressmen who voted against fortifying Guam and against the defense measures before Hitler broke loose.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF INSULIN.

One per cent of all Americans, it is estimated by medical authorities, suffer from diabetes. Before the isolation of insulin, by Dr. F. G. Banting and Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod of the University of Toronto in 1921, less than 20 per cent of the persons who had the disease in serious form lived more than 10 years. From these percentages, it is possible to get an approximate idea of how many hundred thousands of persons in this country alone owe their lives to this wonder-working discovery.

This is the reason for the speedy action Congress has taken to protect the purity and potency of insulin, now that the patent held by the University of Toronto has expired, and the institution's careful supervision of manufacture by private concerns must come to an end. Yesterday, the day of the patent's expiration, and a week after introduction of the bill, President Roosevelt signed the act empowering the Food and Drug Administration to take over control of insulin manufacture. This is assurance that no variations, which may be fatal to users, will be permitted, as might have occurred if the process had become public property for unregulated manufacture.

The debt of diabetes sufferers now is a double one: First, to the scientists who provided the life-saving treatment, and, second, to the Government which acted promptly to protect its quality.

THE NO-STRIKE AGREEMENT.

After a four-day meeting, called at the urgent request of the President, labor and management representatives have agreed to bar strikes and lockouts for the duration of the war, and to settle all disputes by peaceful means. They have asked the President to set up a war labor board to handle the disputes. Mr. Roosevelt has "accepted without reservation your covenants," and has promised to proceed at once to set up a war labor board.

The conference, however, did not settle the closed shop issue. The industrial representatives asked for a reservation excluding the closed shop as an arbitrable issue; that is, they wanted to freeze open and closed shop conditions as they now stand, except as they might be changed by direct negotiations between an employer and his employes. To this, the employe representatives refused to agree.

Since American entrance into the war on Dec. 7, the strike situation in defense industries has been practically non-existent. What had become a matter of growing concern to the country—work stoppages of all kinds—ceased the moment Japanese bombs dropped on Pearl Harbor. Like all other citizens and groups, organized labor rallied to the colors and tackled the vast job of uninterrupted production necessary to victory.

Now this spontaneous action has been solemnly ratified by the meeting at Washington. Pledges both of employers and labor have been given with the utmost gravity—pledges of industrial peace and of the settlement of disputes by peaceful means. The country, like the President, will no doubt accept these pledges on their face. It will no doubt place its faith in the patriotism of employers and employes. As for the closed shop issue, labor will be held to strict accountability if it attempts unfairly to use the war as a means for extending its organizational gains, as distinguished from questions of wages and working conditions.

The establishment of a war labor board is no easy task. It must be so constituted as to have the full confidence of those who come before it for its decisions, as well as of the people as a whole. It must be fair and it must be strong. If it has these qualities, its decisions will enforce themselves.

Production of guns, planes, tanks and the million other things needed for our armed forces has become a matter of life or death—life or death for our soldiers and sailors, and life or death for the nation.

THE CHRISTMAS CAROLERS.

It came upon the midnight clear.
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold.

Christmas eve and upon the midnight clear, or the watchful hours before, the glorious song of old rings out again from hundreds of carolers singing in honor of the Child wrapped in swaddling clothes and in the cause of sweet charity.

The carolers are an old and charming custom in St. Louis, no less a part of the season here than the holly wreaths and the gay, fragrant, tinseled Christmas trees. It is always a delight to hear them sing the sweet old carols by which, generation after generation and even century after century, the Western world has expressed its joy at being privileged to hear "the glad tidings."

It will be a pleasure to hear them again this Christmas eve and to drop in the carolers' box the coins which, in the true spirit of Christmas, are used for charity. God rest you merry, gentlemen and gentlewomen who "proclaim the holy birth, and praises sing to God the King, and peace to men on earth."

Hitler has fired Gen. von Brauchitsch, but he can't do a thing about that Russian fellow, Gen. Winter.

CANADIAN-AMERICAN TEAMWORK.

As long ago as last April, the United States and the Dominion of Canada recognized that the war had confronted them with a joint problem and a joint task. The international committee, appointed as a result of that recognition, yesterday recommended a lifting of all tariffs and other barriers standing in the way of real, all-out collaboration for victory.

President Roosevelt has given his full approval to this proposal, already indorsed by the Canadian War Cabinet. And, no doubt, every American will do likewise. Our present national objective is not the protection of any particular industrial or commercial advantage we may hold. It is the quickest possible production of all the weapons necessary for the triumph over Hitlerism. It makes no difference when; or where or by whom these weapons are produced, if only they can be brought into play at the earliest possible moment.

To keep Canadian labor idle for lack of American materials, or vice versa, would be the height of folly. Restrictions, which may have their justifications ordinary times, should be suspended for the duration. The present need is teamwork.

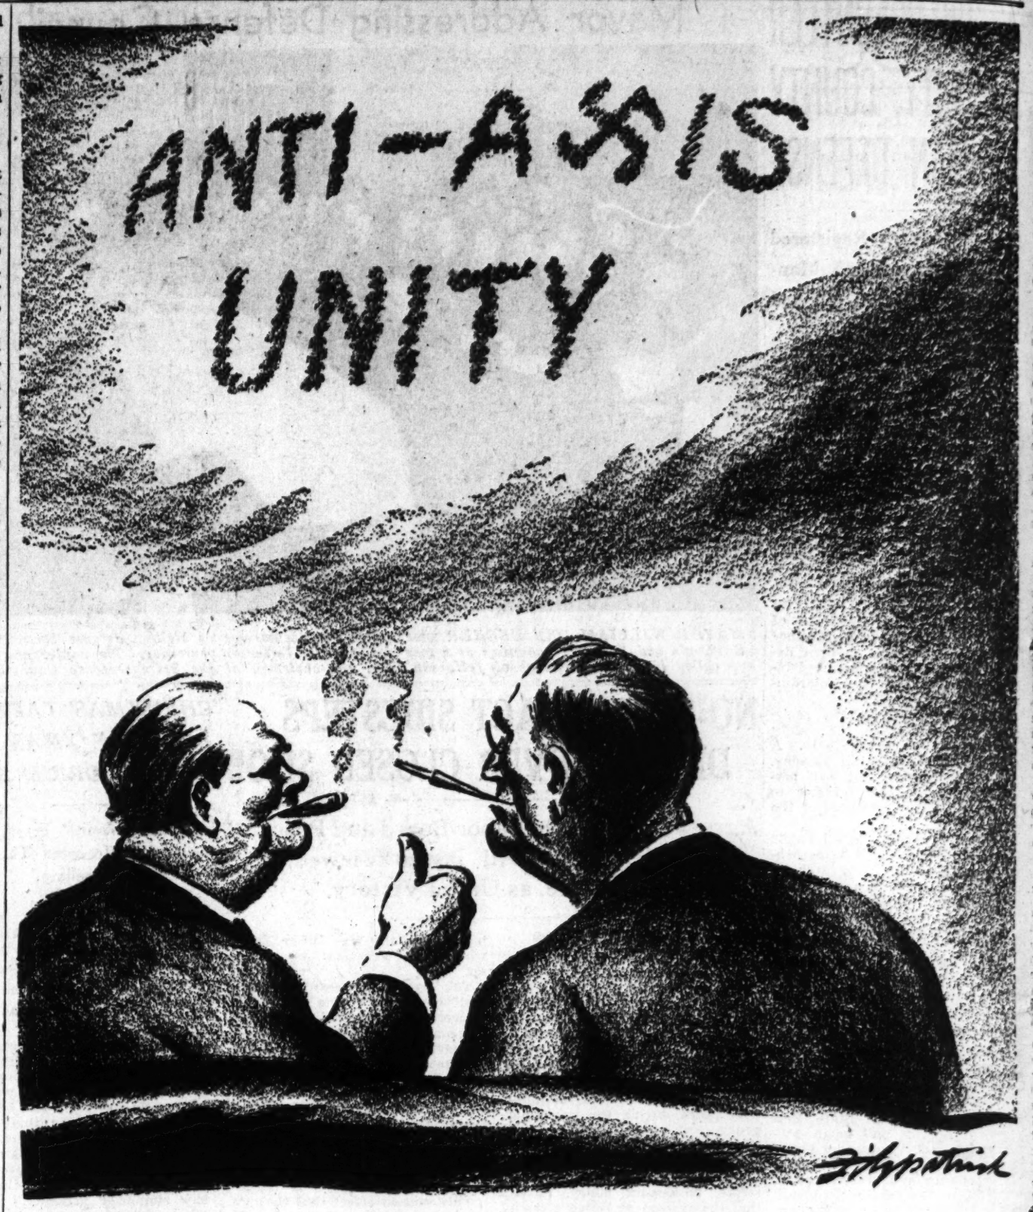
No doubt the next census of migratory workers will take in a lot of Government employes.

HARVARD BEATS YALE—AT CHESS.

Harvard's chess players can trap a Yale queen behind her own pawn with a bishop and a rook with all the skill of the old masters. They chase their knights across the squares with a calculated abandon that would be the envy of any quarterback—could the poor fellow but appreciate this brilliant broken-field work. So, in New York the other night, Harvard beat Yale, 2½ to 1½, to win the Belden-Stephens trophy. And the Crimson did it without the benefit of a single cheer, or, anyway, without a bowlful of spectators.

But no matter in how desperate a plight he may have found himself, no chess player's self-reliance ever dipped so low as to let him cast a pleading glance over his shoulder for a word of encouragement. Even in defeat, chess is its own reward, and its players are the real, everlastingly rugged individualists. For football players, with their brow-mopping retinue of attendants and their spirit-propping cheer leaders, they have the contempt of the truly superior snob.

All-out war requires some great sacrifices. There is actually talk that the South may have to get along without its traditional firecrackers this Christmas.



CONVERSATIONS IN WASHINGTON.

Christmas at the Jewel Box

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Illinois editor describes impressions on seeing "holiday card" portrayed in flowers at Forest Park greenhouse; red poinsettias, green foliage, rustic cottage and artificial snow make a rare picture, he says; tribute to St. Louis for its concern with beauty.

V. Y. Dallman, Editor-in-Chief, in the Illinois State Register, Springfield.

LET us turn for a moment from the grim tragedies of war to the beauty of flowers and the soul-stirring loveliness of Christmas.

Let me present to you a "Christmas card" which was spread out before my bewildered eyes in the huge Jewel Box—a great structure of glass in Forest Park, St. Louis.

Several lovers of flowers have tempted me for a long time to visit this Jewel Box, built like great steps of glass, meeting high overhead and accommodating a series of catwalks on either side, from which plants peep out upon a ceiling of clinging vines, most of them a rich, deep-green ivy, and with tendrils reaching out from the sides to intensify the beauty of this massive curtain-like ceiling.

It was Sunday morning, and, as we passed through the welcome entrance, the soft notes of a beautiful Christmas carol fell upon our ears. "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was sending its sweet pipe-organ appeal through a radio hidden behind a bank of palms and ferns.

We were in a cathedral of flowers of indescribable charm. The walls are masses of ficus trees, a species of the rubber plant, with foliage of deepest green. In the background is a little rustic cottage in a Christmas setting with a great bow of rich, red ribbon on the door and two tiny rustic lanterns blinking their lights of red through as many little rustic windows. The roof and entrance are covered with snow. A little waterfall bubbles through the rocks to a pretty brook, which is crossed by a lovely rustic bridge.

Fragrance, beauty, the loveliness of nature, the presence of God—all of these and more sublime thought filled one with emotion as he looked up and felt the soul-appeal of that "Christmas card."

I can't describe it. I asked for the person in charge and was happy to meet Henry Ochs, city floriculturist of St. Louis. He helped me in these thoughts. He laughed when I asked him why they let a half-dozen or more English sparrows fly about among the flowers and flutter happily in the snow. He said that was necessary to complete the living "Christmas card," and then we all laughed when he told me of the snow. He filled my hand with it and it was warm and soft and downy like so many tiny bits of feather.

That is the same kind of snow that is used in the snow scenes in Hollywood and which we all see in the movies. It is made of unbleached cornflakes. And when I asked this pleasant gentleman why the sparrows seemed so unusually interested in rolling and scratching in the snow, he said he throws grass seed into the snow and the sparrows rejoice and scratch for it and thus feed on the realities of Christmas.

This Jewel Box cathedral of flowers changes with the motifs of the garden. The poinsettia Christmas card was preceded by masses of every conceivable variety and color of chrysanthemums. In this Jewel Box famous paintings are reproduced in terms of living flowers. Some time ago, a lady from California requested that St. Michael's gorgeous painting, "Mission," destroyed in the San Francisco earthquake, be reproduced in flowers in this Jewel Box, and it was.

Another piece which startled lovers of flowers and art with its beauty was Nutting's "Blossom Time."

St. Louis is more than a city of baseball and beer. It is a city with a soul. It has the great St. Louis Symphony, the incomparable outdoor Municipal Opera, Shaw's Garden, magnificent Forest Park, its zoological gardens, its Municipal Auditorium and its cathedral of flowers, this Jewel Box, which reaches down into your very soul and makes you want to pray and sing in keeping with this Christmas card, "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

A Few Reflections on Cider

From the New York Times.

WINESAPS make the best cider. Say it firmly and you may spare yourself some of the argument. Not all of it, but some. Better yet, set out a jug of Winesap that has been allowed to assert its character just the proper length of time, pour a brimming glass and hand it to your visitor. Then there will be no more argument between you for perhaps an hour—time enough to bare the bottom of the jug.

There are acceptable variations, of course. Blends, really. Ben Davis for body, Baldwin or McIntosh for an undertone, Delicious or Gilliflower for aroma, just a touch of Hyslop or Red Hibernian for tang, and Winesap for the dominating flavor—there's a blend worth a second sampling.

Some dilute the Winesap with Jonathan or Northern Spy or York Imperial, with satisfactory result; but without one of these four dominating the whole, the mixture might as well be dosed with benzoate of soda and sent away to market. Need we add that the addition of the soda, "to make it keep," is the ultimate insult to the apple? The result is a lifeless liquid marked only by a dishonest color and a flat-flavored rebuke to all tamperers.

Cider should be had fresh from the press, the press of a man who has due respect for nature. In such a state, it is the very essence of a peaceful autumn, a drink as mild and soothing as fresh milk. Savor it then; but let your indulgence be only a sampling.

Set it aside and give it its own way for a time, until it begins to stir with life and individuality. Now note how it tingles the palate and frolics on the tongue. Watch it closely, and sample it day by day. The time will come, if you but wait and watch, when at the first sip you will know that here is moonlight and fire-glow, frosty sky and shimmering sun.

Into the apple go the rains of April, the blossoms of May, the sunlight of June, July's hot glow, the ripening of August, the maturity of September and October's vigorous tang.

From such a combination, naturally, can come an infinite variety of liquid phenomena. If handled with due respect and proper reverence, this is one of the most delightful beverages native to the land. You should start, of course, with Winesaps—here, have another glass!

Origins of Present Problems Traced to Late 19th Century

"A Generation of Materialism: 1871-1900," by Carlton J. H. Hayes. (Harper & Bros., New York.)

THIS volume of world history, says Dr. Hayes of Columbia University, "I could hardly have written before now. Born and prepared for college in the age which it attempts to recall, I saw those last three decades of the nineteenth century then, and for almost 30 years afterward, as a stage—indeed, a glorious stage in the progress of Europe and our Western civilization toward ever greater liberty, democracy, social betterment and scientific control over nature.

"I still see those decades thus, but I also now see them, even more clearly, as a fertile seed-time for the present and quite different harvest of personal dictatorship, social degradation and mechanized destruction. It is, in my opinion, this dual character of the age—at once a climax of enlightenment and source of disillusionment—which gives it peculiar interest and pregnant significance."

* * *

Dr. Hayes' span begins with the demonstration 70 years ago, in the Franco-Prussian War, that material might, not "mere heroism of soul," was decisive on the field of battle. It ends 30 years later in the cultural glow which shone so brightly that men failed to appreciate the true meaning of the Boxer affair, the "Yellow Peril," the war the British made on the Boers, the ouster of Spain and conquest of the Philippines by a new world power known as the United States.

Written, as are all volumes in the new Rise of Modern Europe Series, so as to embrace social, economic, scientific, intellectual and cultural development and trends as well as the political stuff of older histories, Dr. Hayes' book presents in their proper places Van Gogh and Gauguin, Cezanne and Degas, Anatole France and Flaubert, Henry James and Meredith, "the matchless Conan Doyle" and "in every European language, Nick Carter and countless other penny-dreadfuls, selling like hot cakes."

* * *

But what really fascinates the able historian who recounts this period is not only that its generation rode on the first electric street railway in Frankfurt, saw Pasteur and Wilhelm von Roentgen at work in their laboratories and knew Ibsen, Zola, Tolstoy and Tschaikowsky as contemporaries. It is that the age also had so different a side—Cecil Rhodes, the British Empire builder, and Carl Peters, the German Empire builder, Leopold II and Franz Joseph and William II—men of authority and power who did so much to shape the day and age in which we now live.

This study reminds us again that the 20-volume reappraisal of Europe, which is appearing under the editorship of William L. Langer of Harvard, is a major work of American scholarship. It is handsomely illustrated with well-chosen contemporary pictures of persons and events, and equipped with a critical discussion of source material. With this one, seven volumes have appeared, including all except one for the nineteenth century—the century of European history with so many American repercussions.

IRVING DILLIARD.

The Story of Ancient Thailand.

FOLLOWING up her book, "French Indo-China," Dr. Virginia Thompson writes of its neighbor in "Thailand: The New Siam" (Macmillan Co., New York). It is a well-written, authoritative, interesting volume about the little Kingdom that has just become a victim of Japanese imperialism. These are informative chapters on its long history, its government, religion, education and other institutions.

SOCIA

ILVER snowflakes glistened from frosty blue walls at the St. Louis Country Club last ight for Miss Ruth Audrey midt's debut party—the first of series of Christmas week balls. gay crowd of 600 guests ranging rom college students to friends of he host and hostess arrived late rom numerous dinners and found hemselves in a setting which va- ed from a formal floral array in he lounge to a dimly-lighted night lub, complete with five food bars, the marquee.

The party was given by Miss midt's uncle and aunt, Mr. and rs. William Harrison Luyties, whom she makes her home, headed the receiving line h the debutante, her sister, rs. William R. Tupper, the former iss Mary Lee Smidt, and her ousin, Clifton R. Scudder III, rs. Luyties' son, who is home om Yale, where he is completing s senior year.

Yellow predominated in flowers rranged as a background for the ceiving party. Yellow chrysan- emums banked the mantel of the unge and trailed off the ledge, rmonizing with Miss Smidt's colored gown. A pale yellow d faille bodice embroidered in d beads and sequins was com- ned with a matching bouffant lle skirt set on with a band of quins embroidery at the low astline. The low decolletage was tlined with a narrow tulle ill. During the reception Miss midt carried a round colonial uquet of yellow roses alternat- with rows of bouvardia frilled th gold tinted tulle and tied th gold ribbon. For dancing later e fastened yellow orchids at her oulder.

Mrs. Luyties was in white crepe mmed with gold nail heads and hite orchids, and Mrs. Tupper was gray satin brocaded with gray umes and adorned with gray os- ch across the bodice top. Her ers were lavender orchids at her shoulder.

Three orchestras played simul- neously in as many rooms as ncing began shortly after mid- ght. Twelve musicians were ted on a stage near the receiv- g line; 20 more occupied another the main dining room, and in marquee a smaller number was ouped around an organ on the essed platform. A stringed or- estra played as the guests greet- the guest of honor and host and ss, and later two bands of lling musicians played.

The food bars, climaxing the corative theme, represented oice viands of several countries. Chinese, with skull cap pigtail d a black loose blouse, presided r chow mein and chop suey in corner nearest the door. TOKYO CLAIMS CAPTURE OF WAKE IN NIGHT ATTACK with Wake Island had been severed and that "the capture of the island is probable," but that the Marines accounted for two enemy destroyers in the final fighting.

At the same time, the Navy announced that Palmyra Island and Johnston Island, both in mid-Pacific, had been shelled by enemy submarines with no casualties resulting. Damage at Palmyra was negligible, the Navy said, and there was no damage to material at Johnston.

No new developments were reported in either the Atlantic or Far Eastern theaters and the Hawaian area was reported quiet.

Announcement of the probable capture of Wake, 2320 miles west of Honolulu, came after its small marine garrison had been subjected to 13 air attacks and one previous attack by sea during which the defenders' aircraft destroyed one light cruiser and three destroyers.

Dec. 11—"The marine garrison on Wake Island has been subjected to four separate attacks in the last 48 hours by enemy aircraft and one by light naval units. Despite the loss of part of the defending planes and the damage to material and personnel, the defending garrison succeeded in sinking one light cruiser and one destroyer of the enemy forces by air action. The resumption of the attack and a probable landing attempt is expected. The Marine garrison is continuing to resist. The above report is based on information received up until noon, Dec. 11."

Dec. 12—"The resistance of Wake and Midway continues."

Dec. 13—"Wake and Midway continue to resist."

Dec. 14—"There have been two additional bombing attacks on Wake Island. The first was light but the second was undertaken in great force. Two enemy bombers were shot down. Damage was inconsequential. The Marines on Wake Island continue to resist."

Dec. 15—"Midway and Wake islands continue to resist."

Dec. 16—"Wake Island has sustained two additional bombing attacks. The first occurred in the afternoon and the second in the evening. The first attack was light, the second heavy. Wake and Midway are countering the blows of the enemy."

Dec. 19—"There have been two additional air attacks by the enemy on Wake Island. The first occurred on the night of the seventeenth-eighteenth and was comparatively light. The second was in greater force and occurred in the forenoon of the nineteenth. Wake Island continues to counter these blows."

Dec. 21—"Wake Island has sustained two additional attacks by enemy aircraft."

Dec. 23—"Wake Island sustained another strong air attack in the forenoon of the twenty-second. Several enemy planes were shot down. An enemy force effected a landing on Wake the morning of the twenty-third."

Dec. 24—"Radio communication with Wake has been severed and the capture of the island is probable. Two enemy destroyers were lost in the final landing operations."

Lately there has been no reference in the communiques to Midway.

MESSAGES OF SAFETY SENT BY ST. LOUISANS

Cablegrams or Letters Received From Several More in Pacific War Zone.

Many St. Louis families, regretful that members in the armed forces manning the nation's Pacific outposts could not be home for Christmas, were cheered today by holiday greetings and messages of safety from the war zone.

Letters and cablegrams from the theater of American-Japanese conflict told of firm confidence in ultimate victory. "Don't worry about us fellows," wrote Seaman Alvin Hoelting, Pearl Harbor, to his mother, Mrs. Amanda Hoelting, 2103A College avenue. "We can hold our own and then some."

Seaman Barnett M. Wolf, on a destroyer of the Pacific fleet, reported his safety in a cablegram to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wolf, 5044 Oleatha avenue, as did Seaman Lawrence Meier in a cable message to his wife, Mrs. Laura Meier, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Meier, 4450 Holly avenue.

Letter by Airmail.

An airmail letter from Hawaii reassured Mrs. Alta Farley, 2602A North Tenth street, of the safety of her son, Everett, former Police Headquarters janitor now serving in the Navy.

Both Robert Beckmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Beckmann, 4021 Green Lea place, and his cousin, William Beckmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Beckmann, Marissa, Ill., are safe at Pearl Harbor, where they are in naval service, Robert informed his parents.

Capt. Frederick V. Whitman, dental surgeon stationed at Fort McKinley in the Philippines, who was formerly a member of the staff of several Civilian Conservation Corps camps in Missouri, notified his wife, Mrs. Esther Whitman, 756 Barnard avenue, Lemay, that he was safe. Mrs. Mary Vasel, 5510 Eichelberger street, had similar word from her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Schumacher, who are in Honolulu. Schumacher, a former Pevely Dairy Co. employe, is a seaman on a destroyer.

Gets News of Son's Safety.

Mrs. Mabel LeMasters, 3222 Minnesota avenue, received a letter from her son, Robert F. H. LeMasters, serving with the Pacific fleet, saying he was safe.

Seaman Edward J. Arthur, also on a vessel operating out of Pearl Harbor, escaped uninjured in the Japanese surprise attack, he wrote his father, D. A. Arthur, 3341 Leola avenue.

Harold and Jack Grossman, brothers, 21 and 23 years old respectively, serving as firemen on the same ship, sent a joint cable from Honolulu annquncing their safety to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Grossman, 1342 Temple place.

An airmail letter written by Rudolph H. Dressler Jr., a machinist's mate, two days after the Japanese raid on Pearl Harbor, but received only yesterday, informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Dressler, 5029 Grave avenue, that he had escaped injury.

Radiogram to Sister.

Sergt. Everett M. Pennesen, with the Air Corps at Manila, sent a "safe and well" radiogram to his sister, Mrs. Harry J. Levy, 4910 Northland place. Mrs. William W. Greene, 9106 Delphine avenue, St. John's Station, received a similar cablegram from her son, Alvin Hartman, Air Corps mechanic at Honolulu, as did Mrs. Lula George, 3681A Market street, from her son, Pvt. Robert V. George, a marine stationed on Oahu.

Signalman Frederick H. Muetze, who had not been heard from since the Pearl Harbor raid, sent a "Merry Christmas" radiogram from his ship at sea to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Christian Muetze, 3539 Pestalozzi street.

Mrs. Laverne Christian, 2918 Miami street, received a letter confirming the safety of her brother, Sergt. Thomas Crabtree, who was transferred from Jefferson Barracks to Hawaii 17 months ago.

Churchill Asserts Allies Must Win by a Knockout

black cigar which he handled carefully to retain the ashes. The President, in a chalk-line striped gray suit, had his usual cigarette and holder. While the President spoke, Churchill listened attentively and at one point suggested to the President that Canada be included among the British dominions in line of enemy fire. Most of the time, he sat hunched forward with his fingers interlocked across his stomach.

Because of the many British and Canadian reporters attending the press conference for the first time, the President explained that the Prime Minister's remarks could be reported only in the third person, that is, no direct quotations. The Prime Minister, he explained, was perfectly willing to answer oral questions because he, like Roosevelt, sought new experiences.

Churchill Stands on Chair.

There had been several minutes delay while the reporters jammed into the conference room, and the President said he had told the Prime Minister that this was because identification was required to prevent wolves in sheep's clothing from getting into the room. The Prime Minister, he intimated, might find the American reporters wolves in comparison with the British lambs.

The usual informal atmosphere prevailed when Churchill acknowledged the introduction by rising.

"We can't see you," several reporters in the back rows shouted. Churchill obliged them by standing on his chair for a few seconds, while the reporters applauded. The questioning began immediately.

"What about Singapore?" was the first.

Churchill replied that the British were going to do their utmost at Singapore and its approaches until the situation became so favorable that a general offense in the Pacific could be started.

"Is not Singapore the key to the whole situation?" a front row reporter asked.

The Prime Minister quickly replied that while Singapore was highly important geographically and strategically, the real key was the resolute manner in which the British and Americans were throwing themselves into the conflict.

There were several questions on the possible collapse of Germany. The Prime Minister lightly countered that the democracies might get such a windfall but were not counting on it. He recalled that such a collapse did come in the last war, when the democracies found they had run out of Huns, but he pointed out later the Allies were not banking on an internal collapse but must have an external knockout.

Well and Poorly-Managed Wars.

"When will we lick them?" was another question shouted from the back row.

Quick as a flash, the Britisher retorted that if the campaign was well-managed it would take half as long as it would if badly managed.

Pressed for a definite answer on how long it would take "badly managed," he replied that he could not answer because the Allies don't mean to do it that way. He likewise declined to reply how long a well-managed campaign would take. Here he followed the Roosevelt technique—he listened to the question, indicated that he understood it, and did not reply.

"Do you a favor a war conference among yourself, President Roosevelt, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and Stalin?"

In principle, the Prime Minister replied with a chuckle that brought prolonged laughter from the reporters.

He scotched the idea that from the White House conferences may come a supreme commander of the Allied war effort. Such an appointment, he said, would be a very difficult thing to arrange because the most that could be done here was a broad blocking out, with the execution on the general strategy by the high military.

This war, he continued, is literally world wide and no man ever born, not even Napoleon, who knew nothing of air power, could be a world commander-in-chief.

Asked whether there would be an "allied supply command," the Prime Minister replied that there was close liaison between the British and the United States, and that Lord Beaverbrook, with his large staff from England, was in closest accord with American officials. The allocations, he added, would be made to fit the emergencies wherever they arose.

The rule, he asserted, is how much help can be given others; the rivalry should be in mutual helpfulness.

German Materials Ample.

The Germans, he said, still have ample materials; they accumulated a lot, their factories are running full blast and they have captured much. But quality, he added, is another thing; as the democracies go on improving materials, the Germans may not be able to keep up with them.

Oil was the only specific material Churchill would name as lacking in Germany. There are others, he said with a smile, but the problem is chiefly technical. Like the President, when in a similar situation, he indicated that he did not care for further questioning along this line.

The Prime Minister saw no long-range problem in the allocation of American supplies to the Middle East. He had a feeling, he said, that the production of munitions in the United States would develop on so great a scale that it would not be necessary to choose whether material should go to this or that place, but rather the question would be how to get it to all theaters of war.

Churchill, whose mother is an American, was asked whether he regarded this country's entrance into the war as one of the climaxes of history. With almost a Southern drawl, he replied that he sho' did.

On Russian Victories.

The recent Russian victories evoked the highest praise from the Britisher. Asked if he thought there might not be some trickery in the German retreat, he cautiously pointed out that the Germans had received a heavy rebuff at Moscow, which they thought they could take in a short time, and that they were now joggling back with enormous losses, to winter quarters where they would not be comfortable.

The Russians, under Stalin, he continued, have rendered an immense service to the Allied cause. His voice grave with sincerity, he said that he found it hard to describe his own feelings of relief in recent weeks at finding the Russians victorious on one front and the United States standing beside Britain all over the world.

For any one who lived through the incredibly lonely months of 1940, he continued, there is much in today's picture for which to thank God.

He did not know the direction of the next German attack, whether it would be in the Mediterranean or on England itself. He joked that he would like to know the answer to this question himself because the attack would surely come.

The present White House conferences, he said, while the President nodded approval, are concentrated on the present emergency and are not primarily concerned with economic and diplomatic questions which will arise after the war.

There are limits to physical endurance and just so many hours in a day, he said, and only after victory has been won can democracies be drawn into those complicated and not at all attractive jungles of postwar problems for the betterment of the common people of all lands.

Grants a Last Question.

The conference was closed by the usual "Thank you, Mr. President," but Churchill noticed that a woman reporter had not been able to ask her question. It was:

"Mr. Prime Minister, have you a Christmas message for the American people?"

With a chuckle, he replied that he had been told that he was to deliver such a message tonight and that he wouldn't give himself away.

The press conference yesterday was unprecedented because never before has a British Prime Minister answered the oral questions of reporters assembled at a regular White House press conference. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald held a press conference in the old British Embassy during the Hoover administration, and Churchill, while on a lecture tour, several years ago, held a conference with a small group at the new Embassy.

In London the Prime Minister does not meet regularly with the reporters. About twice a year he talks off-the-record to a small group of parliamentary correspondents. The British custom of questioning members of the Government in the House of Commons prevents officials from giving out information to reporters—Commons is jealous of its right to get information first hand.

Churchill handled himself like a veteran yesterday. He has, of course, had mass interviews before becoming a member of the Government. He is a former reporter, and when he was an Opposition member in Commons he was a demon interrogator of the Government.

ROOSEVELT APPOINTS MOVIE CO-ORDINATOR

Lowell Mellett to Represent Government—President Bars Censorship.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—With a declaration that he wanted no censorship of motion pictures, President Roosevelt has appointed Lowell Mellett, director of the Office of Government Reports, to the wartime post of Director of Government Films.

The appointment was announced yesterday by the motion picture industry's War Activities Committee. Committee Chairman George J. Schaefer disclosed last night that Committee Vice-Chairman Francis S. Harmon had been named to represent the movie industry in dealing with the Government.

The President, in his letter appointing Mellett, instructed him to act as liaison officer between the Government and the producers and distributers of films, and establish a clearance office for all the Government's civilian films.

"The American motion picture," the President wrote, "is one of our most effective media in informing and entertaining our citizens. The motion picture must remain free in so far as national security will permit.

"I want no censorship of the motion picture; I want no restrictions placed thereon which will impair the usefulness of the film other than those very necessary restrictions which the dictates of safety make imperative."

All officers and employes of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, a personnel of more than 500, contributed $2000, it was announced today by G. O. Hollocher, chairman of the bank's fund committee.

Firms which reported 100 per cent employe participation today and last evening, were: L. M. Stewart, Inc.; Kuhs-Buick Co.; Bitting, Jones & Co.; Bremen Bank and Trust Co.; Plaza Bank of St. Louis; D'Oench, Duhme & Co.; Dyson-Swetman, Inc.; and Kuhs-Meyer Motor Co.

A contribution of $1000 from the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, was reported at headquarters today. Two gifts reported last evening were $4000 from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat (corporation) and $2500 from Mrs. Emma H. Whittemore.

Contributions of the 5000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, collected yesterday in 150 local manufacturing plants following a brief shut-off of their power, were being counted today. H. A. Spitzer, chairman of the Apparel Manufacturing Association, estimated that the total would be larger than the $11,000 raised from the employes in the United Charities campaign.

Because the Red Cross campaign is organized and operated on a plan different from that of the United Charities, no daily compilation of totals is made, and no announcement of large new totals is expected before some time next week. Solicitation has been left to individual business houses, and many of these will report the gifts of firm, executives and employes in one announcement, though the sums will be stated separately. Gifts already announced have reached about $375,000.

Copies of a special edition of the Curtiss Wrighter, published for employes of the Curtiss-Wright airplane plant, were distributed yesterday. The edition was devoted to the Red Cross campaign, with the heading "Curtiss Workers Challenged."

FORTIFICATIONS ON ATLANTIC COAST COMPLETE, NAZIS SAY

Bases Either for Attack or Defense —Bombproof Shelters for Submarines.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—The British radio today quoted a German propaganda broadcast as saying that intensive fortification works along the Atlantic coast of Europe had been completed after 18 months, furnishing "a complete base and support for offensive operations against Britain."

The broadcast quoted the Germans as saying new naval and air bases had been created, many new batteries set up, bombproof shelters for submarines built and camouflaged shelters erected for land troops.

This will give the Germans not only an offensive base, but greater security against invasion of Europe, the German radio said.

ATROCITY STORIES BROADCAST BY JAPAN AGAINST U. S.

Propaganda of News Agency, Charging Misconduct of American Troops, Recorded in New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24. — Japan has begun an atrocity propaganda campaign against the United States. For the last two days the official Tokyo radio has broadcast dispatches of the official news egency Domei charging misconduct by United States forces in the Philippines.

The broadcasts are recorded in New York. Presumably something similar has been broadcast within Japan and to other countries.

There is no evidence from other sources that there has been any basis for the Japanese charges of atroticies.

ings, chalets and other such structures stood out in the midst of important wreckage without showing so much damage as a single smashed window or displaced roof tile. A big barracks, four stories of reinforced concrete — was badly smashed, but the stories of terrific carnage here proved to be untrue.

Nearly all the men were out of the building when the second wave of bombers, 15 minutes behind the one which had attacked the hangars, demolished the top story. The casualty totals in this case are complete and the total deaths in all army posts on the island to date run to little more than 200.

A study of the time charts at Wheeler Field, about 10 miles north of the naval base, indicated that the attacks were made here and at Haleiwa, another 10 miles to the north, at just about the same time. A high ranking officer at this field explained that the first attack had found the targets much easier to hit than they would ever be again.

Fires Started.

So the program here had been much the same as at Hickam. The bombers plastered the hangar line with incendiaries and socked the open-air parking places with 500-pound bombs. Then, when the fires were going well, the dive bombers came down to strafe the ground crews trying to drag the fighter planes out of the flames.

"In spite of that," said the officer, "we got 14 planes off from this field alone and they gave a good account of themselves. There was no opportunity to get away in formation, of course. It was up to every man to find his own target and do the best he could, and they did. Two green pilots ran into a squadron of the bombers off Haleiwa. One of these boys got four Jap planes, the other got two. If the 12others who got up had had a little more time, they would all have been aces. They had to pull back on the throttle to keep from running over these ships.

"One of our boys reported that they were pretty good shots, but they were easily outmaneuvered. They didn't make more than 150 miles an hour anywhere that I saw them around here. There were 40 of them in the echelon that came this way. When they had done their job they turned back. I saw no heavy bombers, nothing that couldn't have been brought here on a carrier. In the whole operation about 27 of them were shot down. Of the 14 of our ships that went up from this field, we lost two."

1939-1940 Models.

Officers who had examined the wreckage of the Japanese planes said that they had mostly been built in 1939 or 1940 on lines similar to an early type of United States Navy planes. Their engines were copies of an American design in common use. Their armament consisted largely of Japanese-made Lewis guns of first World War specifications.

"It would have been like shooting fish in a barrel for us if we had got five minutes' warning," said the officer who disclosed all this. "As it was the fish got a chance to do the shooting. But it won't happen again. We got back 12 of the 14 planes we sent up on the morning of the attack. In the next three days we took the wrecks apart and managed to make one good plane out of every three smashed up by bombs. We suffered few casualties among the pilot personnel, even in the dynamiting of the barracks and the strafing of the fields. We were able to asalvage most of our repair machinery and now we've got enough new stuff to bring us to a strength even greater than it was three weeks ago."

And you didn't have to take his word for it. You could look out across the field to where it ended, at the foot of a blue-green mountain, and see for yourself. You begin to feel that there are some tricks which even a Japanese magician can't do twice.

There aren't any weather forecasts any more, but if you were allowed to guess, you would probably figure it will be warm and pleasant for Christmas.

MONSANTO BUYS PLANT FOR SYNTHETIC-RUBBER CHEMICALS

Purchase of $6,500,000 Refinery in Texas for $450,000 Is Approved by U. S. Court.

Purchase by the Monsanto Chemical Co. of the $6,500,000 Texas City Sugar Refinery at Galveston, Tex., for $450,000, to be used in the manufacture of chemicals for synthetic rubber, was announced yesterday with the approval of the sale by the United States District Court in Galveston.

The refinery has been idle and in receivership for nearly 10 years. Monsanto officials told a Post-Dispatch reporter they could not issue information concerning the operation of the plant, under Government orders.

It had been announced last month at Washington, however, that the Defense Plant Corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, had authorized expenditure of $5,700,000 for new factories to make chemicals used by manufacturers of synthetic rubber, including $2,200,000 for a plant "in or near" Galveston to be operated by Monsanto.

SIX FILIPINO WAITERS TRY TO ENLIST HERE IN BODY

Three of Them at Park Plaza Rejected, but Are Hopeful of a Reclassification.

Incensed at the sudden Japanese attack upon their home islands, the six Filipinos employed as waiters at the Park Plaza Hotel went to their draft board in a body and sought to enlist, it was learned today.

Esteban Cariaga, one of the waiters, who resides at 4061A Olive street, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Dec. 8, the day after the Japanese launched their attack, the six men talked the situation over and decided they should all "get in the fight." Three of them were told that inasmuch as they already were in Class 1A they should be patient and would see service soon enough, and the other three were told they were either too old or had too many dependents to be drafted, Cariaga said. However, the latter group are hopeful that prospective reclassification will make them eligible for service.

R. A. F. Attacks German Sea Base at Brest, Objectives at Cologne.

FOLKESTONE, England, Dec. 24 (AP). — Germany's big cross-channel guns broke the peace of Christmas Eve by shelling the Kentish coastal district tonight.

Shells thundered across the moonlit channel during two periods of 15 minutes each. Buildings were shaken.

LONDON, Dec. 24 (AP).—British bombers attacked the naval base and German warships at Brest, France, and objectives at Cologne, Germany, last night, the Air Ministry announced today.

In occupied France, aircraft attacked docks at Dunkerque and Calais, and in Belgium the port at Ostend.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP MOVIES AMUSEMENTS

Two Holdovers, Three New Bills at Movies

TWO first-run theaters, the Fox and the Ambassador, are holding over their current programs for Christmas week; two others, Loew's and the St. Louis, have new programs today and the Missouri, ordinarily devoted to continued-run features, will bring in two new features tomorrow.

"How Green Was My Valley" and "Cadet Girl" are the features remaining at the Fox, "Nothing But the Truth" and "The Perfect Snob" make up the program at the Ambassador. "Tarzan's Secret Treasure" and "Miss Polly" are the Christmas selections at Loew's, "Tuxedo Junction" and "Marry the Boss' Daughter" those at the St. Louis. "Paris Calling" and "Target for Tonight" are booked together at the Missouri.

The newest Tarzan adventure, first on the screen in two years, has to do with the rascality of a group of men who enter the jungle on a safari and discover gold while there. The leader of the expedition is slain, Tarzan is left for dead and his wife and son are kidnapped. But rescue is effected through the aid of jungle friends. Johnny Weismuller plays his usual Tarzan role, Maureen O'Sullivan is Tarzan's mate and Johnny Sheffield the son.

"Miss Polly," Loew's second feature is a comedy co-starring ZaSu Pitts and Slim Summerville. The title character is a maiden lady who revolts against the restrictions of a puritanical community.

A special two-reel release on Loew's program, entitled "War Clouds In the Pacific," describes the political background of the Japanese belligerents, their preparations for war and possible strategy. It was compiled by the Canadian Government from material assembled by its own cameramen.

The Weaver Bros. and Elviry, hillbilly combination, are stars of "Tuxedo Junction," comedy at the St. Louis. Their adversary is a millionaire, Thurston Hall, who objects to the activity, musical and otherwise, on their truck farm, which is near his estate. "Marry the Boss' Daughter," on the same bill, also is a comedy, telling how Bruce Edwards goes from the West to New York, meets Brenda Joyce, goes to work for her father and eventually marries the daughter.

ELIZABETH BERGNER, Viennese actress of the London and New York stage and European motion pictures, makes her Hollywood debut with "Paris Calling," the new Missouri Theater feature. She is cast as a wealthy French girl who, after the collapse of France before the Nazis, enters a conspiracy to aid the Free French movement.

Figuring in the action also are two other members of the conspiracy, Gale Sondergaard and Edward Ciannelli, a French politician who has betrayed his country, Basil Rathbone, and an American aviator left in France when the British evacuated the country, Randolph Scott.

"Target for Tonight," the accompanying feature, is a short documentary, telling how the British R. A. F. makes air raids on Germany. All of the 30 officers and men seen in the picture are members of the R. A. F. and the raid in particular is one made last spring on a German oil depot at Freihausen, although other trips were made by the director and cameramen to get enough anti-aircraft fire.

The film was shown to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill during their meeting at sea last summer, has had a long run in London and is being released generally in this country through Warner Bros. facilities.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP — MOVIES — AMUSEMENTS

On the Film Front

By Harold Heffernan

Harold Hefferman.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 24.

THE undercover big news in Hollywood this week is that the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences will do an about-face and retrieve its annual banquet and Oscar awards, canceled last week because of the war situation.

Admission came from high and slightly red-faced figures in the Academy that a meeting of the board of governors will be held in January, at which time a motion will be made to revoke the cancellation and hold the affair, most glittering event on Hollywood's social calendar, some time in late February.

The Academy's surprise blackout action drew an indignant tirade from the entire film colony, West and East, scolded the Hollywood reporter editorially.

"We wouldn't be surprised to wake up some morning and find that the national emergency had gotten under the hides of our Hollywood leaders so deeply that they would be suggesting the production of motion pictures be discontinued for the duration of the war. Sounds silly, but no more so than the Academy's big gesture in calling off the Academy Awards dinner.

"We refuse to set ourselves up as an example to the masses that patronize our entertainment. We virtually tell them, 'We are going in mourning. We are not going to have dinners. We are going to refuse diversions and so far as possible we're going to keep those diversions from you.' To think that motion pictures should lead the way in killing glamour!"

Several members who voted against a banquet now admit that their action was hasty and ill-advised and that it would be better all around if the event were restored.

"This is no time to get hysterical," said one. "And calling off the Academy dinner was a hysterical move."

MICKEY ROONEY would like a great big church wedding—if he could like a great big church wedding—if he could stage it in comparative secrecy.

"A fellow hasn't got a chance to get married right around this town," he remarked on the set of his new Hardy picture. So, what's a fellow going to do? He's planning an overnight trip to Las Vegas soon after the first of the year and after that a honeymoon jaunt to the North Carolina home of bride-to-be Ava Gardner. Les Peterson, publicity man at MGM, will be Mickey's best man. It was another MGM publicity man, Otto Winkler, who "stood up" for Clark Gable two years ago when he and Carole Lombard eloped.

Christmas trees have taken a 100 per cent leap over last year's prices on Hollywood lots. Tall ones first stuck up in the middle of street intersections throughout Beverly Hills and in North Hollywood districts vanished overnight—by war emergency order.

Cancellation of the Rose Bowl game and the Tournament of Roses parade was a bitter blow to movie folks, but when word came that horse racing had been nixed for Santa Anita a move was started to establish a winter retreat for producers and directors. . . . That new daylight working schedule is no treat to Lon Chaney, who spends four hours getting into his "wolf man" makeup at Universal. That means Lon gets up at 3:30 a. m. He'll have the same schedule for his next assignment —"The Ghost of Frankenstein."

AS A COMPROMISE to thousands of fans who complained so bitterly about Laraine Day being killed out of the Dr. Kildare series, MGM has cast Laraine opposite the doctor (Lew Ayres) in "Fingers at the Window." This is not another Kildare, however.

Robert Armstrong was introduced to his co-star, Richard Davies, the day "Gang Busters" started at Universal. "I'm sure we've met some place before," said Armstrong. "That's right," returned Davies, "I used to grease your car at the Fernando service station." It was true. Davies, one of the most promising newcomers at the valley studio, worked as a "grease monkey" to pay his way through drama school.

BETTE DAVIS has not only forgiven the thankless pup that up and bit a chunk out of her nose a few months ago, but has taken another canine into her home—a Dachshund which she bought a few days ago. It's the first dog other than a Scotty that Bette has owned in 10 years.

Ronald Reagan and Jane Wyman are following Eleanor Roosevelt's advice and are making their kitchen a den where they'll retire during blackouts. Their new home won't be completed until April.

Blackout material and flashlights are still difficult items to buy in Los Angeles. Stores replenish stocks daily but are sold out by closing time. Stars residing in the fashionable Bel Air and Beverly Hills areas merely called in blackout experts who went over their establishments from basement to garret, leaving not a pencil of light from windows or doors —at prices ranging from $500 to $1200.

F. D. R., Churchill Keep Eye On Vichy as They Plan Wa

"Would you call the conference satisfactory?" Secretary of the Navy Knox was asked as he departed.

"No comment," said Knox.

"I won't be so shy," volunteered Secretary of War Stimson. "I think it was very satisfactory."

It was understood that strictly naval and military activities, as distinct from supply and economic questions, have been commanding the most attention in the talks to date. The importance that Churchill attaches to naval matters was evidenced by the fact that the Royal Navy furnished 34 of the 42 experts from the armed services who accompanied the Prime Minister here.

Battle of the Oceans.

Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, of the Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters today that American anxiety over the Philippines ought not to becloud the fact that the United States was also fighting a war in the Atlantic that may well be a great factor in the final victory as the battle of the Pacific.

Churchill's disclosure that there was complete unity of action between American and British forces in the Southwest Pacific received quick approval from George and other legislators who had been advocating just such co-ordination of effort.

George pointed out, however, that this co-operation was likely to be limited to the establishment of a master plan of strategy to be carried out by individual forces under the direction of their own national leaders. Churchill's statement that it would be difficult to establish a unified command, because of the wide-spread battlefront, seemed to bear out this idea.

Senator Norris (Ind.), Nebraska, said he hoped there was the closest sort of co-operation between American and British forces in the Far East. The United States was just as interested in beating back Japanese thrusts at Singapore as it was in defending the Philippines, he said, and the British had just as much at stake in both battles.

Importance of the Atlantic.

George declared that formulation of an all-over plan of Allied strategy was of supreme importance at this time, and predicted that carrying it out would necessitate extensive American participation in the battle of the Atlantic.

He pointed out that the route from South America across the sea to Africa, thence to the Middle East and to China and India, might even become the major supply line for Allied forces fighting in the Far East.

"We ought not to permit ourselves to forget for one moment that the final battle will be in the Atlantic," he admonished. "That is where we will win or lose this war."

George said he regarded Churchill's dramatic visit to Washington as a visible and tangible demonstration that United States-British naval and air forces have domination of the Atlantic which ought to be kept at all costs.

EDEN'S VISIT TO MOSCOW MAY BE MORE VITAL THAN CHURCHILL'S TO U. S.

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.

FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN'S visit to Moscow may be more important even than Prime Minister Churchill's coming to this country. The war cannot be won on the sea. It must be won on land and land warfare on our side is waged by Russia. Russian armies alone have shown the endurance, the strength and the morale to withstand the Germans. Russia alone seems in a position to exert such constant pressure upon the German front as to limit, if not prevent, German offensives elsewhere.

Will Moscow accept membership in an allied supreme war council, with the full exchange of information that such a position implies.? In the words of one Russian official, "it all depends upon the degree of confidence that can be established."

The Russians still distrust Britain and the United States to some extent. They have not ceased to wonder why the British and Americans did not ask for military solidarity in the Far East before Japan struck at Pearl Harbor.

POST-DISPATCH REQUESTS NEW OF WAR CASUALTIES REPORTED TO RELATIVES

IN VIEW of the announcement by the Navy Department that casualty lists would not be made public, and the announced intention of the War Department to adopt the same policy, news of the death or injury of men in the armed forces can come only from their relatives.

President Roosevelt suggested at his press conference Dec. 12 that individual newspapers might obtain such information from relatives after the next of kin had been notified. The Government is withholding casualty lists because their compilation might be of value to the enemy.

Persons in the St. Louis area who are notified of the death or injury of a member of the country's armed forces are requested to communicate this information to the City Editor of the Post-Dispatch. The telephone number is Main 1111.

WHEN the American gunboat Japanese aviators on Dec. 12 ents rushed to the Governmen customary procedure for the Forei was to deny a fact or, when this answer, "We have no information

Ordinarily the Foreign Office conferences were held three times a week, with the naval-office conferences once a week. As tension grew, the English language was dropped. For some time the Navy interpreter was a Harvard Phi Beta Kappa Japanese Christian. (He is now with the imperial household.)

The Army long since gave up having regular conferences, having come to the conclusion that it was impossible to expect foreign correspondents—other than those accredited to the Axis powers—to properly send out any "news" given them by Army spokesmen. The Army had three good press-relations men—Col. Saito, Col. Hiraoka and Col. Furujo, who committed hara-kiri after he became publisher of a newspaper in Manchuria. Nevertheless, they could not give out detailed information, but relied on official handouts.

The sinking of the Panay was the occasion for daily and almost hourly conferences with the Foreign Office. I had been privately advised by the late George R. Holmes of Washington that President Roosevelt might radio-telephone direct to the Emperor. I asked one of the Foreign Office spokesmen, Viscount Motono, how such a call would be handled. He replied:

"God cannot be disturbed."

I had been long enough in Japan to realize the significance of God-Emperor worship. I also realized the headline significance of such a statement but knew it was not exactly what he wanted to say. Rather, it was a domestic interpretation of what he meant to say, not a statement that would be understood in Western dialect.

Unprecedented Step.

In further conversation I gathered that any call from the White House would bring near-panic to the imperial household in Tokyo. There was no precedent. It was easy to imagine the consternation that would ensue, not to mention the wave of resignations and face saving. Yet realizing the numerous unprecedented things that Roosevelt had already done, it was not beyond the realm of possibility that he might at least attempt to speak directly to the Emperor.

Probably in such a case the imperial family's officials would have torn out the switchboard's telephone wires and then disappeared for good.

"God cannot be disturbed."

Several American correspondents were tempted to wire the White House to have Roosevelt put through his call. We were curious to know just what would happen. But the Panay already had been sunk. Probably we would have been sunk in its wake had our American initiative had its way and been discovered by the Japanese Foreign Office.

Foreign Office conferences with the press were a fairly recent innovation in Japan, anyway. They started around 1925 under the late Marquis Komura, meeting in a little barrack-like building from time to time. Since Japan was not on the front page in those days, the meetings were more social than political. They generally adjourned early to the nearby Tokyo Club bar.

The sessions were enlivened by the succession of Hiroshi Saito. Saito later became an outstanding ambassador to the United States and died at his post in Washington in 1939. Saito was always a favorite of the newspapermen, first in Tokyo and later in Washington.

A veteran of the Japanese Foreign Office, Saito understood the attitude of the rest of the world toward Japan. Gradually, while he was in Washington, he came to realize that he was not representing the Japan that he had known a decade before.

The stormiest occupant of the spokesman's chair in the Foreign Office in Tokyo had been Toshio Shiratori, who has advanced himself to the position of the leading behind-the-scenes adviser of the Cabinet.

Propaganda Campaign.

It was the custom each year for the Foreign Office spokesman to give a dinner party for the foreign correspondents. Japan has been spending millions of dollars each year in correcting what they call "misinformed foreign public opinion" and in fostering "a better understanding of Japan's peaceful policies in the Far East."

At one particular party, given when Eiji Amau was spokesman, a prepared speech on the gathering and distribution of news was solemnly read. He emphasized that no censorship existed in Japan! Obviously this declaration

EDEN'S VISIT TO MOSCOW MAY BE MORE VITAL THAN CHURCHILL'S TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.

FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN'S visit to Moscow may be more important even than Prime Minister Churchill's coming to this country. The war cannot be won on the sea. It must be won on land and land warfare on our side is waged by Russia. Russian armies alone have shown the endurance, the strength and the morale to withstand the Germans. said he hoped there was the closest sort of co-operation between American and British forces in the Far East. The United States was just as interested in beating back Japanese thrusts at Singapore as it was in defending the Philippines, he said, and the British had just as much at stake in both battles.

Importance of the Atlantic.

George declared that formulation of an all-over plan of Allied strategy was of supreme importance at this time, and predicted that carrying it out would necessitate extensive American participation in the battle of the Atlantic.

He pointed out that the route from South America across the sea to Africa, thence to the Middle East and to China and India, might even become the major supply line for Allied forces fighting in the Far East.

"We ought not to permit ourselves to forget for one moment that the final battle will be in the Atlantic," he admonished. "That is where we will win or lose this war."

George said he regarded Churchill's dramatic visit to Washington as a visible and tangible demonstration that United States-British naval and air forces have domination of the Atlantic which ought to be kept at all costs.

The Panay Incident

Article VIII

WHEN the American gunboat Panay was sunk near Nanking by Japanese aviators on Dec. 12, 1937, Tokyo's foreign correspondents rushed to the Government spokesman for a statement. The customary procedure for the Foreign Office spokesman in such cases was to deny a fact or, when this became too impossible, to simply answer, "We have no information on the subject."

Ordinarily the Foreign Office conferences were held three times a week, with the naval-office conferences once a week. As tension grew, the English language was dropped. For some time the Navy interpreter was a Harvard Phi Beta Kappa Japanese Christian. (He is now with the imperial household.)

The Army long since gave up having regular conferences, having come to the conclusion that it was impossible to expect foreign correspondents—other than those accredited to the Axis powers—to properly send out any "news" given them by Army spokesmen. The Army had three good press-relations men—Col. Saito, Col. Hiraoka and Col. Furujo, who committed hara-kiri after he became publisher of a newspaper in Manchuria. Nevertheless, they could not give out detailed information, but relied on official handouts.

The sinking of the Panay was the occasion for daily and almost hourly conferences with the Foreign Office. I had been privately advised by the late George R. Holmes of Washington that President Roosevelt might radio-telephone direct to the Emperor. I asked one of the Foreign Office spokesmen, Viscount Motono, how such a call would be handled. He replied:

"God cannot be disturbed."

I had been long enough in Japan to realize the significance of God-Emperor worship. I also realized the headline significance of such a statement but knew it was not exactly what he wanted to say. Rather, it was a domestic interpretation of what he meant to say, not a statement that would be understood in Western dialect.

Unprecedented Step.

In further conversation I gathered that any call from the White House would bring near-panic to the imperial household in Tokyo. There was no precedent. It was easy to imagine the consternation that would ensue, not to mention the wave of resignations and face saving. Yet realizing the numerous unprecedented things that Roosevelt had already done, it was not beyond the realm of possibility that he might at least attempt to speak directly to the Emperor.

Probably in such a case the imperial family's officials would have torn out the switchboard's telephone wires and then disappeared for good.

"God cannot be disturbed."

Several American correspondents were tempted to wire the White House to have Roosevelt put through his call. We were curious to know just what would happen. But the Panay already had been sunk. Probably we would have been sunk in its wake had our American initiative had its way and been discovered by the Japanese Foreign Office.

Foreign Office conferences with the press were a fairly recent innovation in Japan, anyway. They started around 1925 under the late Marquis Komura, meeting in a little barrack-like building from time to time. Since Japan was not on the front page in those days, the meetings were more social than political. They generally adjourned early to the nearby Tokyo Club bar.

The sessions were enlivened by the succession of Hiroshi Saito. Saito later became an outstanding ambassador to the United States and died at his post in Washington in 1939. Saito was always a favorite of the newspapermen, first in Tokyo and later in Washington.

A veteran of the Japanese Foreign Office, Saito understood the attitude of the rest of the world toward Japan. Gradually, while he was in Washington, he came to realize that he was not representing the Japan that he had known a decade before.

The stormiest occupant of the spokesman's chair in the Foreign Office in Tokyo had been Toshio Shiratori, who has advanced himself to the position of the leading behind-the-scenes adviser of the Cabinet.

Propaganda Campaign.

It was the custom each year for the Foreign Office spokesman to give a dinner party for the foreign correspondents. Japan has been spending millions of dollars each year in correcting what they call "misinformed foreign public opinion" and in fostering "a better understanding of Japan's peaceful policies in the Far East."

At one particular party, given when Eiji Amau was spokesman, a prepared speech on the gathering and distribution of news was solemnly read. He emphasized that no censorship existed in Japan! Obviously this declaration was so naive as to bring cheers and table rapping from the guests.

Amau was so overcome at this refusal to take his speech to heart that one of his aids instructed the newspaper representatives present not to refer to it in any manner! Copies of it, however, had previously been distributed to all the news representatives. Some had been released by correspondents and, as was anticipated, brought unfavorable editorial response from abroad.

It was such attempts to channel all comment and interpretation of Japanese affairs, coupled with the reign of terror, that most irritated and troubled the foreign correspondent. Many a time the Foreign Office spokesman would deny something that correspondents knew to be an established fact. Conditions for news gathering in Tokyo were much worse than reporting from European capitals.

Naturally this prompted correspondents to go to extremes to seek out any informed person who could give an intelligent reply or at least an explanation that would not insult the intelligence. For a long time we were aware that censorship was operating in the telegraph office, although officially it was strongly denied. The telegraph office would insist, "There is no censorship. Consequently there is no need to investigate your charge that words were eliminated from your cable."

Once in answer to a strong protest I had made about the heavy censorship of some important cable I was naively informed that undoubtedly the words had dropped off the wire in transmission across the Pacific!

Public 'Secrets.'

A few years ago, Linton Wells came through Japan from Moscow by way of Manchuria. In Tokyo I took him to several Japanese leaders for interviews, and naturally we attended sessions of the Foreign Office press conference. One day, reminiscent of school days, we were asked to remain after class.

The spokesman intimated the displeasure of Japanese authorities that Wells had written an article containing military secrets pertaining to Manchuria's railway system. He had reported the additional mileage of new tracks laid and had given the names of several new stations.

I could see that Wells had something in store for the Foreign Office spokesman. When the complaint ended he produced two time tables, one old, one new. Wells then explained that by comparing them he had been able to learn the additional mileage and the names of the new stations. After all, the Japanese-controlled Manchurian railway had published these time tables in English for the use of foreign tourists.

Subsequently on my next trip to Manchuria I discovered that all time tables in English had been done away with, and when I returned to Tokyo I found that all street maps of Tokyo had also been withdrawn.

Prior to Japan's Axis ambitions, which are almost entirely of military inspiration, Foreign Office officials were busy sending Japanese delegations as well as some sympathetic foreigners abroad to justify Japan's actions in Asia.

Regular attached newspapermen and correspondents were being accused of misrepresenting Japanese actions and motives.

One of Japan's foreign employes was Henry Kinney, adviser to the president of the South Manchurian Railway. He arrived in Japan from Hawaii, where he had been superintendent of schools. He became a colorful figure in the foreign and Japanese community and did as good a job as any American could have done under the circumstances in interpreting the complexities of Japanese methods and motives to the press.

At the height of the League of Nations condemnation of Japan's actions in Manchuria, Kinney was sent to Geneva. His theme was to show how Manchuria was to be pacified and benefited under Japanese influence.

En route to Geneva, before the train had left the Manchurian border, Kinney was kidnaped by bandits, from his own train, on his own railroad. Not only did they take his money, but his pants as well. Kinney and his fellow passengers had to walk long miles into Harbin clad only in underwear.

Axis Clock Episode.

The new order of things in Japan-controlled Asia disregards Greenwich mean time. As the Japanese Army moves westward on the continent of Asia they make everyone reset their clocks in accordance with Tokyo time. In consequence, in Peking at 9 o'clock winter breakfast may be in the light of a full moon.

This change of time was announced to the Chinese as "friendship time."

On completion of the new Yomiuri newspaper building in Tokyo I had an electrical engineering firm draw up plans for a large clock, intended to be a good-will gesture to the publisher who had collaborated so closely with me in the past. The design was sent on to my home office in New York and was instantly approved. The clock, when completed, weighed three-quarters of a ton. It measured six feet high, three feet thick, and had a double face, made to suspend from the corner of the building so it could be seen from all sides.

Large thermometers showed centigrade and Fahrenheit temperatures, illuminated by red and blue neon tubes. The three clock faces on the master dial showed corresponding time in Tokyo, New York and London. No such clock had been built or was in use in the Orient. We had both English and Japanese characters on the clock.

A dinner party was arranged for the presentation of the clock. From the conversation in Japanese that immediately took place between Shoriki, the publisher, and his staff, I gathered that something was amiss.

His managing editor told me in English that Shoriki preferred to have Berlin time and not London time. I said that could be done, but it would require drastic changes in its mechanism. I pointed out that there is an hour's difference between time in London and Berlin.

'Friendship Time.'

But that, I was immediately informed, was of no importance. It was not necessary for the clock to go back to the factory for alteration. All that was needed was to paint over the word London with the word Berlin!

I was told it would be known as Axis "friendship time."

Sometime later, on returning to Tokyo from a business trip, I couldn't understand a large piece of paper pasted on both faces of the clock, blocking out the numerals.

My questions disclosed that electric power in Tokyo had been considerably reduced in voltage to the point where none of the electric clocks in the city would work.

Even the newspaper's newsreel theater suffered, as the sound tracks of the films were run off so slowly that words in many cases became incomprehensible.

That lack of electric power would seem to indicate a strange shortcoming almost on the eve of war.

DEFENSE STAMPS CONVERTIBLE INTO TAX ANTICIPATION NOTES

New Series of the Latter, Will Be Available Through Banks Jan. 1.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—Defense savings stamps may be converted for use in payment of Federal income taxes, starting next Thursday.

The Treasury announced today that beginning Jan. 1 it would permit the stamps to be turned in for the purchase of tax anticipation notes, which range in price from $25 to $1,000,000.

The stamps cannot be turned in directly for taxes, but anyone who doesn't want to buy the tax notes may cash his stamps and use the money for taxes.

Originally, the Treasury hoped that the public would use the stamps only to trade in for defense savings bonds.

The Treasury also announced that a new series of tax notes, similar to those first placed on sale Aug. 1, will be available to the public through banks on Jan. 1. The tax notes, which earn a small amount of interest, may be used to pay all Federal income, excess profits, estate and gift taxes.

CHEAP FUEL FOR NEEDY AT CO-OPERATIVE YARD

Legal Supply at 20c a Bushel —Another to Be Opened Friday.

A co-operative coal yard supplying smokeless fuel to the needy at 20 cents for a bushel basket was opened today in the rear of St. Malachy's School, 2914 Clark avenue, under the sponsorship of a group proposing to establish several such yards. Leaders in the undertaking are John G. Steinle, Superintendent of the City Infirmary and the Rev. J. S. McHattie, assistant pastor of St. Malachy's Church.

The fuel on sale at the opening was Carbonite, a type of coke made from Illinois coal. A bushel basket of this fuel weighs less than a like basket of coal. Many of the customers today were children who hauled the fuel away in toy wagons.

Another yard will be opened Friday at St. Elizabeth's Church, Beaumont avenue and Pine street. This and the one opened today will serve Negro residential districts.

Steps have been taken by the sponsors of these distributing stations to organize the Consumers' Coal Co-operative which will operate the coal yards on a non-profit but self-sustaining basis. The cash-and-carry price for smokeless coal at the yard opened today is less than half the usual price charged by basket peddlers for coal of the quality required under the smoke ordinance for use in stoves and hand-fired furnaces.

A request from a resident of Glasgow, Scotland, for information on how St. Louis carried out its smoke elimination campaign was received yesterday by James L. Ford Jr., chairman of the Smoke Elimination Committee.

In a letter to Ford written Nov. 14, Geoffrey William Stead described Glasgow as dirtier than St. Louis ever was, spoke of the high morale of the British people under war conditions and said he hoped that when the war ends a campaign to eliminate smoke in Glasgow, based on the St. Louis plan, will be ready for launching.

FOUR BRITISH MERCHANT SHIPS SUNK BY U-BOATS, NAZIS SAY

Total of 23,500 Tons Claimed; Warship Reported Sent Down Identified as Unicorn.

BERLIN, Dec. 24 (Official radio recorded by AP).—German submarines have sunk four British merchant ships including one big transport and totaling 23,500 tons, the high command announced today.

It also identified the British aircraft carrier, reported Tuesday as having been sunk by a U-boat in the Atlantic, as the Unicorn.

(The Unicorn is not an aircraft carrier but a 14,000-ton fleet air arm supply and repair ship laid down in 1939 and not previously reported in action. The British denied officially yesterday that any of their carriers had been attacked but said an auxiliary vessel had been torpedoed while "on air protection duties with a convoy.")

"The British warship which was sunk by a submarine under Commander Bigalk has been ascertained to be the aircraft carrier Unicorn," the German communique said. "She is one of the latest ships of this kind, finished during the war and registered in British naval lists as a flying boat carrier."

PHONE CALL BY STALIN 'INSPIRED' RED CAVALRY TO THROW NAZIS BACK

MOSCOW, Dec. 24 (AP).

A PERSONAL telephone call from Premier Joseph Stalin inspired the Russian cavalry to make the counterattack which hurled the Germans back south of Moscow, Maj. Gen. P. Belov wrote today in Pravda.

The Nazis had broken through the Tula sector, passed Venev and reached the village of Piatnitsa, 110 miles southeast of Moscow, Belov wrote.

A counterattack was ordered, supported by tank forces which were delayed in reaching the front.

Then came the call from Stalin informing Belov's forces that they were to be granted the title of First Cavalry Guard Corps for their successes in the Ukraine and on the Moscow front.

Belov said his cavalry to a man took oath to drive the Germans back to "Hitler's doghouse" and sprang their fierce charge at once without waiting for the tanks.

RARE DOCUMENTS REMOVED FROM LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

MacLeish Says They Are to Be Protected "Against Any Danger, However Remote."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—The Declaration of Independence, the Magna Charta, the Gutenberg Bible and certain other documents of "extraordinary value" have been removed from exhibition cases in the gallery of the Library of Congress to "places of greater security," Librarian Archibald MacLeish said today.

He said the value of the documents "requires that they be given the greatest possible protection against any danger, however remote."

RUSSIANS MOVING ON OREL, TRYING TO CUT OFF NAZIS

Reds Advancing on City 200 Miles Below Moscow After Retaking Important Rail Center.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, Dec. 24 (AP).—The Russian Army of the Center bore down today upon Orel, the important communications center 200 miles below Moscow and midway between the capital and the key city of Kharkov in the Ukraine, in an offensive of steadily rising power.

Red forces, said military dispatches, were pushing the Germans on to the west after occupying Odoev, some 60 miles north of Orel itself, and were threatening to cut off the rear Nazi columns.

The Germans, it was estimated, left 1000 vehicles on the roads about Odoev when the remnants of Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian's Second Tank Division fled to Orel.

Guderian himself, the highly publicized expert in tank warfare, was reported to have left the eastern front for Germany amid a developing crisis among the German high command.

On the front, where the story was again one of Russian successes, Soviet forces earlier had announced the recapture of the railway junction of Gorbachevo, 150 miles south of Moscow, and driving on to Odoev.

At the same time fresh successes were reported farther north, where Russian troops, seeking to re-establish rail connections between Leningrad and Moscow, were said yesterday to be driving the Germans back across the Volkhov River.

Izvestia's Moscow front correspondent reported that Soviet troops had recaptured 94 populated places on the southern sector of the Moscow front in the past two days.

Izvestia said the Russians entering Gorbachevo seized two trainloads of ammunition and military equipment and captured a fuel depot.

The high water mark of the German advance in the Gorbachevo sector was well east of the Moscow-Kharkov Railway.

The morning Soviet communique said that one Russian unit on the western front had killed 1650 Germans in two days. Another unit, capturing several villages, reported killing 800 more German soldiers.

Latest gains in material included 70 carts, 36 guns, 330 trucks and 12 tanks.

Reports from the Leningrad front that the Russians had crossed the Volkhov River at some points indicated the right wing of the German forces which for months have been holding the Soviet Union's second city in a grip of steel had been driven back at least 50 miles. The river, southeast of Leningrad, links Lake Ilmen with Lake Ladoga.

At the extreme southern end of the long battlefront, heavy fighting on the Crimean Peninsula was reported by the Moscow radio, with the Russians repelling repeated German attempts to break through to Sevastopol.

REDS CROSSING ICE OF LAKE LADOGA

BERLIN, Dec. 24 (Official broadcast recorded by AP).—Continued Russian attacks which at some places drove gaps in German defense lines were reported today by the German high command.

The communique said these local breaches were broken off with heavy casualties by Nazi counter-attacks, and that German thrusts elsewhere broke up massed Red Army preparations for assault.

The communique said Moscow was raided last night and that German planes struck at the Russians from icy Lake Ladoga to the Black Sea.

Oil supplies were reported set afire and railways hit in attacks on the Black Sea port of Tuapse. Other Russian rail lines on the southern front were said to have been bombed.

The Germans said Russian columns crossing the ice on Lake Ladoga were bombed heavily, day and night. Hits were reported on supply trains on the line north of Murmansk.

U. S. Bomber Downed Four Planes, Damaged Two Transports in Pacific

By RUSSELL BRINES

MANILA, Dec. 24 (AP).—The story behind a terse official announcement crediting Maj. Emmett O'Donnell Jr., with the destruction of four Japanese airplanes was disclosed today as new tales of heroic deeds by American aviators filtered in from outlying airdromes.

Maj. O'Donnell, whose home is in New York City, was piloting a big bomber on a flight against Japanese naval units off Legaspi, it was learned, when he was attacked by a swarm of fighter planes.

In the face of heavy odds, he kept on his course, maneuvering his plane so skillfully that four of the speedy Japanese fighters racing in for the kill were picked off by his crew—an ususual feat for a bomber.

Maj. O'Donell then pressed home his attack on the Japanese sea forces despite heavy anti-aircraft fire and scored bomb hits on two transports before turning his bullet-riddled plane for home, with one of his crew dead and seven wounded.

Two more tales of devotion to duty were disclosed in details of the first stunning attack on Iba Dec. 8.

First Lieut. Frederick C. Roberts Jr. of Easton, Pa., was sent aloft to intercept a fleet of Japanese bombers in this attack and downed two of them.

He was forced down when his plane ran out of gasoline. Making his way back to his airdrome, which was still under heavy attack, he reorganized stunned survivors of the bombing, commandeered transportation and superintended the removal of wounded to Manila.

MAJ. EMMETT O'DONNELL JR.

Second Lieut. James E. Alsobrook of Magnolia, Ark., assisted Lieut. Roberts in the rescue work under constant bombing and machine-gun fire.

When the makeshift ambulances had departed, Alsobrook organized the remaining ablebodied men into a unit and marched them 25 miles to another post where they formally reported for duty.

First Lieut. Walter L. Coss of New Brighton, Pa., was aloft on reconnaissance when he encountered 17 Japanese pursuit planes which riddled his ship with bullets.

Coss was forced to bail out and landed in unfamiliar territory, where he spent considerable time gathering military information which he telephoned to headquarters before returning afoot to his air base.

SOLDIER, DUCK HUNTER, BAGS JAPANESE PLANE WITH RIFLE

Lieutenant From Delaware Shoots Pilot Through Head During Attack on Pearl Harbor.

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 24 (AP).—Lieut. Stephen Saltzman, former Wilmington man and a duck hunter, reminded of a duck in flight when a Japanese aviator flew over him during the attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7. He grabbed a rifle, shot the pilot through the head and watched his plane crash. The Army cited Lieut. Saltzman for gallantry in action.

Writing about it in a letter received by his parents yesterday, the soldier expressed the hope that perhaps now the family would stop teasing him about his duck hunting.

Said he: "It came in mighty handy."

Only Goal Is Scored By N. Smith

Victory Over Minneapolis Club Is Tenth for St. Louis on Home Ice This Season.

By W. J. McGoogan

Alex Wood, goalie of the St. Louis Flyers, today had his sixth shutout of the season to his credit, while the team has won its eighth straight game and its tenth in succession on home ice, following the 1 to 0 victory over the Minneapolis Millers, at The Arena, last night.

It was not a particularly thrilling victory for the Flyers. What with the Christmas atmosphere in evidence everywhere, the players on both teams appeared rather sluggish.

And the fans, 1738 of them, who forgot the trimming of trees and the wrapping of packages, to attend the contest, were not very enthusiastic.

For the first two periods you would have thought you were attending a class in knitting. The fans, on the verge of boredom, began to clap for action as the third session opened.

Flyers Go to Work.

In response to the crowd's appeal, the Flyers went to work and after less than three minutes they rushed the Miller net.

Nakina Smith, helped by Barton and McManus, shoved the disc past Hub Nelson for the only goal of the game. But that was enough to win.

Following that tally, action speeded up with the Millers trying their best to break down the St. Louis defense but to no avail with Wood turning in a sterling performance in the net.

There were only five penalties, three against the Flyers and two against the Millers.

27 Saves for Wood.

Wood was called upon to make 27 saves to 26 for Nelson in the battle of goaltenders. On one occasion, Nelson came out of his net to make a stop in a careless manner to impress upon his defense the fact that he didn't think he was getting proper support.

Nakina Smith, of all people, was the bad boy of the Flyers, being sent to the penalty box twice with McManus getting the other St. Louis penalty. Dick and McCully each were set down for the visitors. None of the penalties had any bearing on the result.

Flyers on Way North.

The Flyers today are traveling toward the north being scheduled to play in St. Paul, Christmas night and in Minneapolis, Sunday night. They return home to face Fort Worth at the Arena, New Year's night.

Fred Hergert and Walter Brenneman will not make the trip. Hergert still has a cut on his hip and Breneman is out for from six to eight weeks with a broken arm.

Vernon Ayres, huge Flyer defense man, was injured in last night's game but the club physician pronounced the injury as only a strained groin and said he didn't think it would keep Ayres out of action.

The players were pleased with a receipt of a cash bonus from Arena officials, owners of the club.

DALLAS, Dex., Dec. 24 (AP).—Tulsa's Oilers and the Dallas Texans battled to a 2-2 overtime tie in an American Hockey Association game last night.

Hall Loses First Match in Billiard Tourney to Westhus

Defeated for the first time in 12 matches, Allen Hall dropped into a three-way tie with Harold Wills and Bill Schlamp for the lead in O'Donnell's three-cushion handicap billiard tournament last night. Hall lost to Bud Westhus, 42 to 36.

Westhus, who has no chance to gain the title, was defeated by Wills in another match, 38 to 31. Wills will meet Schlamp next Tuesday and the victor will oppose Hall for the title.

It's Two Workouts a Day for Fordham in Preparation for Game

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Dec. 24 (AP).—Fordham's Roaming Rams eyed the scenery yesterday but Coach Jim Crowley eyed the scales and ordered strenuous drills to lop pounds from the visiting gridmen before their big date with Missouri in the Sugar Bowl.

The players, who wore straw hats as a stunt when they left New York with the mercury around 20 degrees, found the headgear unexpectedly appropriate as they stepped off the train into summery weather with the temperature at 70.

Coach Crowley, so tired after the long journey that he took to bed for a couple hours of rest during the morning, was more concerned over the football game than the Southern atmosphere and ordered two-a-day practices to begin today.

Plenty of Hard Work.

"We'll have plenty of work," he said, "and will get in a couple of hard scrimmages. We're a bit overweight because of a layoff after the regular season and cold weather recently in New York that kept down our practice sessions."

The team will work out on the St. Stanislaus school field.

Of his New Year's day opponents, the Missouri Tigers who are training at Edgewater Park some 25 miles eastward, Crowley said, "everybody who has seen them says they're a great team. I've talked to a couple of coaches who say Missouri was the best team they met—and they played tough schedules."

Fordham was the last of the four mighty teams training in this area for post-season games in New Orleans. The Eastern All-Stars are at Biloxi, Miss., and the Westerners who will face them Jan. 3 in the Shriner's benefit game are at Baton Rouge, La.

Tigers in Touch Bowl Game With All-Stars

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 24 (AP).—The East All-Stars played a "touch Bowl" game yesterday with the Missouri Tigers, who are prepping for the Sugar Bowl game with Fordham at New Orleans New Year's day.

In the East team, which will play in the East-West game Jan. 3 at New Orleans, engaged in a light dummy scrimmage and a touch-tackle practice with Missouri. Coaches Andy Kerr and Bernie Bierman gave an unconditional "okay" on the workout.

"The All-Stars passed for the most part, with Len Krause of Penn State making some good catches. Bob Westfall of Michigan penetrated for nice gains on spinners in the running plays.

Coach Don Faurot of Missouri alternated four teams. The Tigers showed fine spirit and their running attack looked good. There were no injuries on either squad. The team also worked on its pass attack.

The light but fast West All-Stars opened practice sessions at Baton Rouge, La., by tuning up a forward pass attack.

Coaches Orin (Babe) Hollingberry of Washington State, Biff Jones of Nebraska and Bernie Moore of Louisiana State have one of the lightest all-star squads in the history of the charity game and plan to bank on deception and passes.

Gary Cooper to Pla. Lead in Gehrig Film

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 24.—Samuel Goldwyn formally announced yesterday that Gary Cooper would play the lead in the Lou Gehrig picture. Goldwyn's final decision was based on six months sampling of public opinion with Cooper leading in polls conducted by Cosmopolitan Magazine, Movie and Radio Guide, The Sporting News and consulting more than 1000 sports writers.

Santow May Go To Bowl Contest— As a Spectator

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 24 (AP).

ARTHUR SANTOW, star Missouri Tiger end, may be in New Orleans for the Sugar Bowl game after all—but just as a spectator.

Santow, ill for two weeks with pneumonia, was released from the University Hospital last night and said he would spend the holidays at his Michigan City, Ind., home.

He plans to leave, however, in time to watch the Missouri-Fordham contest from the stands.

Spink Is Named to National Sport Body

J. G. Taylor Spink of St. Louis, publisher of The Sporting News, national baseball weekly, and The Sporting Goods Dealer, monthly trade publication, has been notified of his appointment to the National Sports Board of the Physical Fitness Division, Office of Civilian Defense. Spink will represent the sporting goods industry on the National Sports Board, which is headed by Grantland Rice.

The St. Louis publisher conferred recently in Philadelphia with officials of the Physical Fitness Division, Office of Civilian Defense. The division is headed by John B. (Jack) Kelly, formerly Olympic champion oarsman. Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York is chief of civilian defense.

Under direction of the National Sports Board, an extensive program of demonstrations by leading sports figures is being carried out, seeking to promote greater mass participation in sports and recreation for national physical fitness.

Kansas State Loses.

BOZEMAN, Mont., Dec. 24 (AP).—Phenomenal guarding by Dan Mizner and trick shots by Jinx Anderson gave Montana State College a 45-38 victory last night over Kansas State College, Big Six Conference member on a Western barnstorming tour.

A. B. C. Will Pay Off in Cash, Not In Defense Bonds

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 24 (AP).

DR. JOEL BERNHARD, Ohio executive committeeman of the American Bowling Congress, said yesterday that while virtually every bowling league in the nation would pay off prize funds in defense bonds this season, the national tournament opening here March 3 would remain on a cash award basis.

Bernhard explained that to put the A. B. C. on a defense bond award basis would require a vote of the entire board of directors whose next meeting is scheduled for late in the national tournament.

He predicted, however, that much of the tournament's more than $300,000 in prize money would find its way into the defense effort through purchase by the winners of defense bonds and stamps.

Bruins and Brooklyn Winners

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—A short two weeks ago Mervyn (Red) Dutton ordered his non-winning Brooklyn Americans to turn their backs to the bright lights of New York City and find apartments in the quiet along the Gowanus Canal in Brooklyn.

The Americans were in the throes of a 10-game losing streak in the National Hockey League at the time and Dutton was desperate.

He promised the bachelor members they could come across the bridge to New York only on game nights and that on all other evenings he personally would chaperone them after dark. In addition, he instituted 8:30 a. m. practice sessions—preceded by at least eight hours of sleep.

Apparently his threats have brought results. The second night after his edict the Americans lost to the New York Rangers, 3 to 2, in an overtime struggle, but since then they have compiled a two-game winning streak.

Probably the most surprised persons in the Garden last night were the players of the two teams as the Americans downed the third place Chicago Black Hawks, 4 to 3, for their second straight triumph.

After a drab first period the two clubs jammed five tallies into the second with Chicago leading, 3 to 2, as the last canto got under way. Then Mel Hill and Harry Watson each got their second goals of the night and the Americans hopped into undisputed sixth place.

The Hawks kept third place because the threatening New York Rangers were downed by the league leading Boston Bruins, 3 to 2. By their triumph the Bruins increased their lead over the Toronto Maple Leafs to a game and a half.

The deciding Boston counter was made by Roy Conacher on a pass from Bill Cowley. It was his eighteenth assist of the season and raised his point total to 22, three more than Bryan Hextall of the Rangers.

Cowley was the league champion a year ago and recently predicted he would repeat.

N. Smith Second In Scoring Race

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 24 (AP).—Nakina Smith, St. Louis Flyers' veteran ice man, set a season's scoring record during the past week by counting two goals and seven assists, thereby boosting himself into a tie with Kenny Stewart of the Kansas City Americans for leadership of American Hockey Association scoring.

Figures released today by the association showed that each had 27 points.

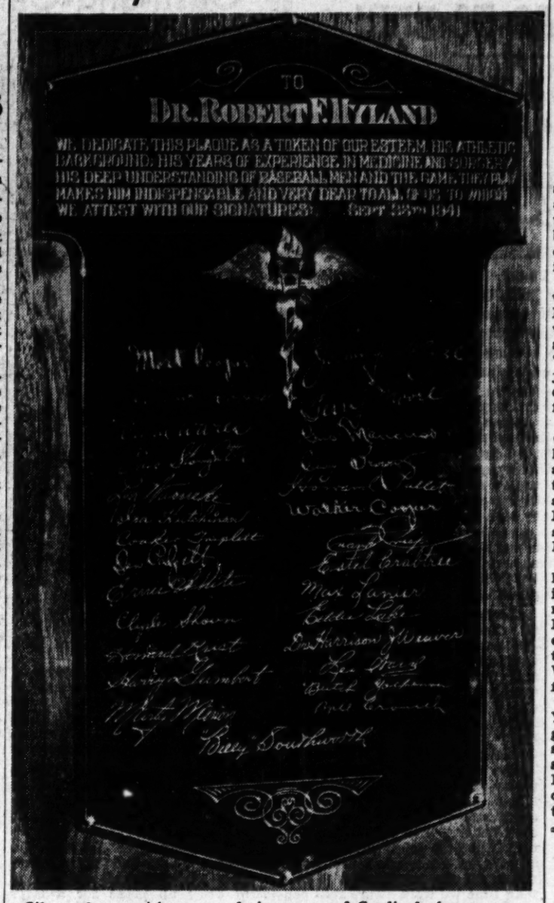
Banks, Chess Star, To Play at the Y

Newell W. Banks, world's leading exponent of simultaneous chess and checkers, will play all comers and give an exhibition at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Banks is the blindfold checker champion and holds the world's speed record title of 20 games in two hours, 25 minutes. The old record which he broke was seven hours, 30 minutes. Of the 20 games he won 17 and drew three.

At the Century of Progress in Chicago, Banks played 140 games simultaneously in 145 minutes, averaging approximately a move per second, winning 133 of the games and drawing seven.

"Merry Christmas, Doctor!"



Silver plaque with engraved signatures of Cardinal players, presented to Dr. Robert Hyland, the club surgeon, in appreciation of the help he gave the injury-riddled team during the 1941 season in its fight with the Brooklyn Dodgers for the pennant.

Cards Pay Tribute To Their Surgeon.

TERRY MOORE, key man of the Cardinal ball club and one of the great defensive center fielders of all time, called on Dr. Robert Hyland, the club surgeon, as a one-man committee yesterday.

Terry, grinning shyly, didn't try to make much of a speech. He let the gift he carried do that for him.

"The fellows wanted you to know how much they appreciated what you have done for them," Capt. Moore explained, as he took a silver plaque from a cloth bag and held it up for the doctor to see.

With signatures of all the players engraved on silver, the plaque tells of the important part the surgical department played in the gallant fight the Redbirds made for the 1941 pennant, and it also speaks of Dr. Hyland's profound understanding of baseball players and their problems. Dr. Hyland won't get any Christmas present that he'll value more than the one Terry Moore presented.

The surgical service did play a big part in the Cardinal struggle. Walker Cooper was returned to duty after suffering a fractured shoulder bone. Morton Cooper underwent an arm operation and quickly recuperated and helped in the stretch drive. Jimmy Brown was back in record time after suffering a hand fracture. Martin Marion, who played every game of the season, waited until the race ended and then had a fractured finger repaired. There was scarcely a man on the roster who wasn't in the season's parade to the office of the chief surgeon.

Terry Moore Now Georgia Farmer, Sir.

MOORE, who usually winters in St. Louis, now owns a farm near Augusta, Ga., where he has been busy during the off-season, with improvements on the farm house and plans for putting his 120 acres into cultivation.

How about that bean ball that put Terry out of action late in the 1941 race? Had he recovered from the effects of the costly accident?

"No, not entirely," Terry replied. "I still have dizzy spells in the morning, but I notice improvement from week to week, and I'm sure I'll be all right by the time the next season starts. I haven't had time to do any running, but I've been working, climbing ladders to paint the house, and except for a little dizziness in the mornings, I'm all right."

Moore is in unusually fine off-season condition. Last year he was many pounds overweight, at this time, but now he's down to 185 pounds and delighted with the fact that he won't have to pound gymnasium floors to combat winter bulge.

Had the Cardinals won the 1941 pennant, Terry easily might have won the most valuable player award. It was the loss of his services that finally sidetracked the Cardinals in their pennant drive. That's the players' opinion, by the way. If you ask them what beat them, they'll tell you it was that curve, thrown by the lefthanded Art Johnson at Braves' Field, that darted and struck Moore on the side of the head. Several key games that were lost, including that victory Whit Wyatt scored at Sportsman's Park, probably would have been victories, with Terry Moore patrolling center field.

Christmas Letter To Don Santa Claus Barnes

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 24, 1941.

"Dear Don:

"One year ago you had something up your sleeve. It was a Christmas present for the Brownie stockholders and the St. Louis fans. Remember? We know it's not becoming to look a gift horse in the mouth or a Christmas present in the price tag, but just the same we feel that you ought to be warned.

"Don't do it again, Don. Shop more carefully if you're going to jam something into the stocking tonight. Johnny Allen did all right with the Dodgers, but what he did for the Browns is another story. You know what we mean, Don. If you have something up your sleeve, be sure this time it isn't a pain in the neck.

Yale Post May Go to Williamson

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 24 (AP).—If Ivan B. (Ivy) Williamson, former Michigan end and an assistant here for eight years, wants to be Yale's next head football coach, reliable sources disclosed yesterday, all he has to do is say so.

The youthful, slim Williamson, who developed all-America Larry Kelley and several other crack wingmen here, was reported by observers close to the situation to "have the inside track" for the job suddenly vacated by Dr. Emerson (Spike) Nelson, head coach for one year.

Whether he'll accept the post (and there were some who doubted he would want the "headache") awaits a conference here "after the holidays" between Williamson and Athletic Director Ogden Miller. Both were out of town, Williamson at Bowling Green, O., and Miller at Chicago.

From a service standpoint, Williamson is a veteran at Yale, originally having been hired by Raymond W* (Ducky) Pond in 1934. He was an end on the Michigan eleven for three seasons, and captain in his senior year when the Wolverines won the Big Ten conference championship.

The resignation of Nelson, whose Yale eleven won only one of eight games last fall, was interpreted in some quarters here as presaging sweeping changes to come in the Eli sports set-up. Football was destined, according to the reports, to be the chief victim.

Indians Proved Season's Biggest Disappointments

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—The doubtful honor of being dubbed the No. 1 disappointment of the year goes to the Cleveland Indians without much of an argument.

By a margin of almost two to one, the Indians beat out Lou Nova of the cosmic punch in the opinion of 85 sports writers participating in the Associated Press' annual poll. Thirty-one of the experts said the Tribe's slide into a tie for fourth place, 26 games back of the champion Yankees of the American League, after finishing only a game out of the top spot in 1940, was proof that Roger Peckinpaugh's boys deserve the distinction.

Lou Nova, who after a great buildup was knocked out in the sixth round by Champion Joe Louis last summer, received 16 votes. One writer split his ballot between Nova the Yogi and the Indians.

The remaining votes were scattered among 16 athletes and teams. Louis Norman Newsom, the big Detroit pitcher better known as Bo Bo, was the No. 1 failure in the opinion of eight writers. Newsom won only 12 and lost 20 games and his earned run average slipped to 4.61 last season after he pitched the Tigers to the American League pennant in 1940 with a 21-5 record and an earned run mark of 2.83.

Texas' football Longhorns, already mentioned as one of the biggest surprises of the year either in winning, tying or losing, also were considered the top disappointment by seven writers. They based their decision on the Longhorns' defeat by Texas Christian and tie by Baylor after veing voted one of the nation's two top-ranking elevens.

Right behind the Longhorns with six votes trailed Stanford's football team, which lost three games after having gone undefeated and winning the Rose Bowl game the previous season. Lou Novikoff, the majors' most publicized rookie, who failed to make good with the Cubs, and Tulane's up-and-down football team were the only others to receive more than one vote. They got two each.

After a breakfast at a downtown hotel at which coach Lon Stiner of the Beavers, Coach Wallace Wade of the Blue Devils, Dr. R. L. Flowers, president of Duke, and other notables and the Oregon State footballers were introduced, the visitors motored to nearby Chapel Hill where they will bivouac.

Stiner said that his boys were unusually tired after the long trip from Corvallis, Ore., but that a practice session was scheduled this afternoon at the University of North Carolina's Kenan Stadium.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—It probably wouldn't surprise Coach Lonnie Stiner a great deal if it rains the day his Oregon Staters meet Duke University in the transplanted Rose Bowl football game on New Year's day at Durham, N. C.

It rained on the West Coast for two weeks after the Webfeet—who stand to have a good chance to live up to their name—received the bid; it rained Monday in Chicago during a stopover for practice and skies were gray and dripy in Washington yesterday.

He was mildly peeved at the weather and more than mildly surprised at the odds, although he admitted he didn't know much about the Blue Devils.

"They must be all right, though," he said. "We could lose, of course, but I was just thinking we could win, too."

Stiner doesn't think the bowl game is going to be any tougher than the opposition the Webfeet faced in the Pacific Coast conference the past season.

"Do you know," he said, "if we hadn't licked Oregon U., in the last game for the title, there'd have been a five-way tie for the conference lead. That shows the league is tough."

Declaring Durdan was "as fine a threat as I've ever coached," Stiner warned that "Duke will have to stop him to beat us."

Yale Post May Go to Williamson

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 24 (AP).—If Ivan B. (Ivy) Williamson, former Michigan end and an assistant here for eight years, wants to be Yale's next head football coach, reliable sources disclosed yesterday, all he has to do is say so.

The youthful, slim Williamson, who developed all-America Larry Kelley and several other crack wingmen here, was reported by observers close to the situation to have the inside track" for the job suddenly vacated by Dr. Emerson (Spike) Nelson, head coach for one year.

Whether he'll accept the post and there were some who doubted he would want the "headache") awaits a conference here " after the holidays" between Williamson and Athletic Director Ogden Miller, both were out of town, Williamson at Bowling Green, O., and Miller at Chicago.

From a service standpoint, Williamson is a veteran at Yale, originally having been hired by Raymond W* (Ducky) Pond in 1934. He was an end on the Michigan eleven for three seasons, and captain in his senior year when the Wolverines won the Big Ten conference championship.

The resignation of Nelson, whose Yale eleven won only one of eight games last fall, was interpreted in some quarters here as presaging sweeping changes to come in the Eli sports set-up. Football was destined, according to the reports, to be the chief victim.

by the time the next season starts. I haven't had time to do any running, but I've been working, climbing ladders to paint the house, and except for a little dizziness in the mornings, I'm all right."

Moore is in unusually fine offseason condition. Last year he was many pounds overweight, at this time, but now he's down to 185 pounds and delighted with the fact that he won't have to pound gymnasium floors to combat winter bulge.

Had the Cardinals won the 1941 pennant, Terry easily might have won the most valuable player award. It was the loss of his services that finally sidetracked the Cardinals in their pennant drive. That's the players' opinion, by the way. If you ask them what beat them, they'll tell you it was that curve, thrown by the lefthanded Art Johnson at Braves' Field, that darted and struck Moore on the side of the head. Several key games that were lost, including that victory Whit Wyatt scored at Sportsman's Park, probably would have been victories, with Terry Moore patrolling center field.

He was regarded by many observers as the best natural hitter in the minors last year. He's a first baseman, throws right-handed and bats lefthanded. . . . Don Gutteridge, former Cardinal, who served with Sacramento last season and announced he'd quit baseball rather than remain in the minors, may get a chance with another major league club next year. . . . Halfback Rated as Real Star

After a breakfast at a downtown hotel at which coach Lon Stiner of the Beavers, Coach Wallace Wade of the Blue Devils, Dr. R. L. Flowers, president of Duke, and other notables and the Oregon State footballers were introduced the visitors motored to nearby Chapel Hill where they will bivouac.

Stiner said that his boys were unusually tired after the long trip from Corvallis, Ore., but that a practice session was scheduled this afternoon at the University of North Carolina's Kenan Stadium.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP).—It probably wouldn't surprise Coach Lonnie Stiner a great deal if it rains the day his Oregon Staters meet Duke University in the transplanted Rose Bowl football game on New Year's day at Durham, N. C.

It rained on the West Coast for two weeks after the Webfeet—who stand to have a good chance to live up to their name—received the bid; it rained Monday in Chicago during a stopover for practice and skies were gray and drippy in Washington yesterday.

Nevertheless, the ex-Nebraska tackle sent his squad of 31 through a workout at Griffith Stadium and neither the weather nor the 4 to 1 odds quoted against his team appeared to shake his confidence.

He was mildly peeved at the weather and more than mildly surprised at the odds, although he admitted he didn't know much about the Blue Devils.

"They must be all right, though," he said. "We could lose, of course, but I was just thinking we could win, too."

Stiner doesn't think the bowl game is going to be any tougher than the opposition the Webfeet faced in the Pacific Coast conference the past season.

"Do you know," he said, "if we hadn't licked Oregon U., in the last game for the title, there'd have been a five-way tie for the conference lead. That shows the league is tough."

Declaring Durdan was "as fine a threat as I've ever coached," Stiner warned that "Duke will have to stop him to beat us."

No Licenses for Aliens.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24 (AP).—Enemy aliens may have to leave their guns and fishing tackle in storage next year. The State Division of Fish and Game is not issuing them licenses, pending an opinion from the Attorney General.

BILL CHINUGE (14), Bradley Tech guard, scored two points on this first half play against University of California at Berkeley last night. The Peoria, Ill., team won, 46-34. BOB BILES (5), California center, failed to stop the score. Other players are CHRIS HANSEN (21), Bradley center; BOB ALMEIDA (21) and DAVE THURM (11), California guards.

27 Teams to Compete in Normandy Basket Tourney

Twenty-seven teams will compete in the annual Normandy High School invitation basketball tournament which begins Friday morning. Soldam will defend its title in the Red division, but Ferguson, last year's champion in the Green section, has not entered.

Of the teams in the tournament, eight were from outside the St. Louis district. The first day's program schedules three games in the morning and four each during the afternoon and evening.

Coaches of the teams have selected four game officials by ballot. They were Clay Van Reen, Art Shipherd, Bob Cochran and Armin Wahlbrink. Roy Newsom, who also was chosen, asked to serve only as an alternate because of press of business and illness in his family.

In high school games yesterday Webster Groves removed Maplewood from the undefeated list with a 28-27 triumph at Webster Groves. Forward Gerstung scored 15 points for the winners.

The Prep League season was opened as St. Louis U. High defeated Central Catholic of East St. Louis, 39 to 13.

Old grads of University City High celebrated alumni night at the Indian school. The vintage of 1928-36 was not good enough for the '37-'40 boys and lost 34-32, while the University City varsity edged out Kirkwood, 21-19, in the other game of a doubleheader.

Non-league contests saw St. Charles beat Wellston, 32-24; C. B. C. turn back McKinley, 29-14, and Greenville, Ill., win from East St. Louis, 32-22.

Illinois Quintet Wins From Irish

CHICAGO, Dec. 24 (AP). — Big Ten teams have wound up their pre-Christmas basketball shopping —and the record reads 25 victories against 10 defeats.

They bargained for two more last night, but only Illinois finished ahead. Chicago had victory in its grasp until the last few minutes, then saw Western Michigan Teachers score five successive points to win, 44 to 41.

Illinois, meantime, had it comparatively easy all the way in turning back Notre Dame, 48 to 29. The Illini broke in front, 21 to 7, and the Illinois sophomores never gave the Irish a chance to catch up. Two of the sophs—Ken Menke and Andy Phillip—collected 29 points between them.

It was Illinois' fourth victory in five starts. Chicago drew the reverse, its fourth defeat in five tries.

Conference teams resume play Friday when Indiana goes to Pittsburgh. The Hoosiers also will be in action Saturday, along with three other members. Indiana plays at George Washington Saturday, Purdue at Butler, Ohio State at Stanford and Minnesota takes on Nebraska.

Novikoff Is Dizzier Than Dizzy Dean, Wilson Says

That's what Jimmie Wilson, manager of the Cubs, said here on a visit. And he ought to know. For Wilson was a teammate of Ole' Diz on the St. Louis Cardinals and last year manager Novikoff, known as the "Mad Russian."

Novikoff was the leading slugger in the Pacific Coast League in 1940. He came up to the Cubs with a lot of fanfare last spring. But his hitting was virtually nil and his fielding worse. He was farmed out to Milwaukee where his clouting earned him another chance.

"I don't know whether he will make the grade or not," Wilson declared. "He is still caught off stride and fooled by a change of pace outside, hits in front of the ball and beats it into the dirt, although on some days he knocks the pill out of the park without half trying."

"Still, he's quite a guy," Wilson went on. "He's given me a lot of laughs and I can't stay mad at him."

"During the spring (Novikoff was hitting a mere .190) when he was going bad I asked him 'have I hurt you in any way?' He thought a moment. 'Yes, you broke my heart.' 'What, I said in surprise! What did I do?' 'You took me out for a pinch hitter,' he replied."

"He doesn't drink," Wilson continued. "But he loves to sing. One night in Pittsburgh I saw him go to bed at 11 o'clock. At midnight someone told me he had left the hotel. Where do you suppose I found him? In one of those small night clubs, sitting on top of the piano singing at the top of his voice."

"How he loves to sing. If he could only hit as well as he sings he'd be a .350 slugger."

Denver to Quit the Big Seven

DENVER, Dec. 24 (AP).—Denver University, mentioned recently by mountain area sports writers as a possible addition to the Six Conference, withdrew from the Big Seven last night.

Officials of the mountain loop indicated it would continue as a six-school circuit, with Colorado, Utah, Brigham Young, Wyoming, Colorado State and Utah State participating. Representatives of the schools will meet soon to act on Denver's resignation.

Chancellor Caleb F. Gates Jr. of Denver said the school withdrew because of an increasing tendency of the conference toward complete domination of members' sports administrations.

Although the resignation is effective in May, Denver will play its 1942 conference football schedule.

Bradley Tech Wins From California

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 24 (AP).—A deceptive Bradley Tech basketball team consistently out-manuvered the University of California last night to defeat the Bears, 46 to 34.

The game was hotly contested during the first half as the California team took an 11-point lead in the opening minutes of play. The fast-breaking formations and tricky ball-handling of the visitors from Peoria, Ill., soon showed and the Bradleys led 24 to 22 at half time.

It was the second half that proved disastrous for the Bears who were constantly bottled up by the defensive play of Chris Hansen, Bradley center, who plays football in the fall season, and Paul McCall, guard for the Braves.

Prizes for Defense.

The St. Louis Real Estate Exchange bowling league, which plays at Grand-Park Recreation, voted last night to pay all prizes, totaling approximately $300, in defense bonds and stamps, it was announced by Secretary Elmer Kadane.

Buddy Baer Scratched in Auto Mishap

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Dec. 24 (AP).—Heavyweight Fighter Buddy Baer suffered scratches about the face and was shaken up today in an automobile collision, but his handlers said the injury was not severe enough to interfere with his championship bout with Joe Louis in New York, Jan. 9.

With no sparring work scheduled for today at his Lakewood training camp, Baer decided on an automobile ride with his trainer, Izzy Klein. Another handler, Jerry Casale, was driving the car.

Baer and Klein were taken to Monmouth Memorial Hospital. Klein's left leg was injured, requiring an X-ray examination. Casale was unhurt. All left the hospital later.

Klein said Baer's injuries would only prevent his boxing for a few days. He meets Louis in Madison Square Garden, with the Navy Relief Fund receiving all earnings of Louis and Promoter Mike Jacobs and a portion of Baer's purse from the affair.

Oklahoma Aggies Win.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 24 (AP).—Oklahoma Aggies, nationally rated basketball team, led all the way to defeat the green club of the University of Wichita here last night 30 to 17 in the Shocker's first home game of the season. Eggleston for the Aggies and Curry for the shockers were high with seven points each.

Horse Players Wagered More Than $500,000,000 In Season, Survey Shows

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—The boys and girls shoved so many of their dirty deuces through the mutuel windows this year that every racing state in the country reported a boom on betting for 1941.

In playing the turf's time-honored equivalent of "I can dream, can't I?" the folks wagered a mere $517,382,107, over $100,000,000 more than in 1940, in the 16 states reporting in the annual Associated Press survey on the business end of the gee-gee situation.

The same 16 states reported their take of this pile was $20,863,946.67, some $5,000,000 over what it was last year.

As was expected, New York, with a total of $133,982,574 bet (whew, what a pile of two-dollar bills!) and a take estimated at $7,500,000 going to the State, led all the rest for its second year under the mutuel system of educating the suckers. This represented an average of over $750,000 daily for the season.

However, every one of the 16 states showed a big boost in total wagering, and all but Michigan, despite an increase of $2,413,000 in betting, reported it did better in cutting up the proceeds.

Michigan, still taking only its small piece in license fees and passing up the heavy gravy from a cut of the handle, collected only $173,925, although $12,353,851 was bet. This compared with $178,250 State racing revenue last year, when only $9,940,083 was sent in on the gallant gallopers.

This is quite a difference from what Illinois experienced in discovering that improving the breed is one thing and improving the State's bankroll is another. The Illinois powers-that-be put a 2 per cent slug on the mutuel handles this year as well as continuing the usual bite from license fees and admissions. The result was that while the hoss players didn't mind —they bet $13,141,000 more than in 1940—the State's take skyrocketed from a mere $614,059.60 to a gaudy $1,790,152.32 for 1941.

Betting in three states soared more than $10,000,000 over 1940 with New York leading the way with a $30,281,648 increase. California and Illinois were the others. Two states—New York and California—had over $100,000,000 wagered. Five had over $40,000,000 tossed into the iron men, against four last year; and 10 had $10,000,000 or more gambled, compared with five last year. Eight states —New York, California, Illinois, Maryland, Florida, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Hampshire —took more than $1,000,000 from the sport. In 1940, only three tasted that much sugar.

Following are the figures for betting and revenue by states, listed in order of the states' revenue:

New Orleans Ready for Start Of Race Season

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 24 (AP).—Horse racing, which helped make gay old New Orleans the sporting town it was, comes back to the venerable Fair Grounds track Christmas day aftetr a year's layoff caused by an argument over betting laws.

The biggest and best group of thoroughbreds seen here in years will bring racing back to the crescent city, thanks to the war which is sending 200 horses here from California's blacked-out tracks. Arrival of these Westerners late this week will bring to 1400 the number of horses here.

The betting argument almost cost New Orleans racing, for the Fair Grounds just missed being knocked down under the auctioneer's hammer and broken up into residential subdivision.

The program lasting until Feb. 17 won't tie in with wild, carefree celebration of Mardi Gras because that carnival has been canceled by war's pressure, but it will dovetail into the expansive year-end sports program featured by the Sugar Bowl and East-West All-Star football games.

Feature attraction on the opening card will be the Pontchartrain Handicap, with $2500 added, for which 15 entrants have been named. Bearing top impost will be J. W. Bell's Steel Heels, which set a track record in winning the Lexington Handicap at Keeneland.

MANY SMALL GAINS MARK MIXED STOCK PRICE LIST

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—The stock market today failed its followers who had counted on a pre-Christmas rise as per Wall street tradition, but its performance was better than in the previous session.

The stock market recorded its first average advance since Dec. 15. There was a rise of .1 in the Associated Press 60-stock composite to a closing price of 35.6.

Reversing recent trends, the market got off to a poor start and then developed some rallying power. Initial heaviness was attributed to selling on the reports of new Japanese gains in the Philippine invasion move, plus a precautionary lightening of commitments over the holiday recess.

Early losses running from fractions to a point were in many cases replaced by advances of as much. Closing prices were slightly mixed, a sizeable number of stocks remaining in arrears.

Unresponsive to the market's swing toward improvement was American Telephone which for weeks has been under heavy pressure. It was about 1½ points lower on the opening and without much comeback spirit in the subsequent dealings. The stock registered a new 1941 low.

In a mixed curb Aluminum of America, and American Cyanamid posted higher marks while Brewster Aeronautical and Gulf Oil dipped.

News of the Day.

Excepting the late developments in the Far East and the rumors and speculation as to the next move of the Nazis, the war picture had some elements which speculative contingents interpreted hopefully. Marked as a heartening factor was the operation of Labor Peace Board designed to guarantee uninterrupted industrial production.

The common stock of Loew's Inc., received some attention on the company's announcement it had arranged financing to retire its outstanding 3½ per cent bonds and the $6.50 no par preferred stock. It was reported the company would be able to save interest and dividend charges of around $700,000 annually under the refinancing.

ST. LOUIS STOCKS

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Dec. 24.—Trading was broad but generally restricted in volume today with price changes mainly fractionally lower though a number of issues were unchanged.

The morning session was extended half hour to 11:30 a. m. and no afternoon session was held.

ELECTRIC POWER OUTPUT AT NEW HIGH FOR THIRD WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—Electric power production reached a new high for the third week in a row during the week ended Dec. 20, the Edison Electric Institute reported today.

Output of 3,448,597,000 kilowatt hours represented an increase of .5 of 1 per cent over 3,431,328,000 in the preceding week and was 13 per cent above 3,052,419,000 in the comparable 1940 week.

The increase was less than seasonally expected, however. And the Associated Press power index, based on 1929-30 as 100, declined to 151.1 from 151.5 in the previous week.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

HERSHEY, Pa., Dec. 24 (AP).—Directors of the Hershey Chocolate Corporation ordered an extra dividend of $1 per share on convertible preference stock and 75 cents per share on common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1 per share, all payable Feb. 16 to stockholders of record Jan. 24, 1942.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—Corporate bond prices moved irregularly in a quiet market toward the closing hour today, only a few soft spots breaking the narrow range.

United States Governments steadied at levels around 4-32 to 6-32 under the previous close in over-the-counter trading, but failed to attract much attention.

Bonds swinging more than fractionally away from yesterday's close were mostly issues which had been relatively inactive lately.

GRAINS AND SOYBEANS SHOW PRICE GAINS

CHICAGO, Dec. 24 (AP). — Wheat prices were up almost a cent a bushel and soybeans as much as 2 cents at one time in today's short pre-holiday grain market session but the gains were reduced before the close.

Belief that price ceilings on fats and oils will be raised, it was said, led to buying of soybeans inasmuch as this would affect soybean oil. Some mill buying appeared in the wheat pit, with short coverings also in evidence. Corn and oats were strengthened by the official estimate showing hog production is expanding even faster than expected. Receipts of all grain at most terminals were below those of a week ago, which imparted some strength to the market.

LOEW'S INC. REFINANCING

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP). — Loew's, Inc., announced it had arranged financing for retirement of its outstanding $10,456,000 of 3½ per cent debentures due in 1946 and of the 136,022 outstanding shares of $6.50 no par preferred stock.

The arrangements, an official said, include sale to a group of life insurance companies of $13,000,000 in 15-year 3 per cent debentures and bank loans amounting to $5,000,000.

Retirement of the present debentures would be effected at a price of 102 and the preferred stock would be called at $105 a share, he added.

He estimated the refinancing would mean a saving of $700,000 in the next 12 months.

MID-WEEK STEEL SURVEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP). — Steel makers estimate that as much as 90 per cent of production at some plants will be earmarked for war use within the next 60 days, "Iron Age" said.

Pearl Harbor, the steel journal said, changed December shipping schedules which originally indicated 68 to 70 per cent of output would go for war needs.

"The steel industry this week is foregoing, to a great extent, the usual Christmas shutdown to avoid any unnecessary loss of vital steel supplies. Ingot operations for the current week are estimated by 'The Iron Age' at 93.5 per cent, a decline of four points from a week ago. In the Christmas week of 1940, the rate dropped 17 points."

CONCILIATORS TRYING TO END BUS STRIKE

Union Offers to Man Vehicles Central Greyhound Rented to Army.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 24 (AP).—Conciliation conferences were scheduled to be resumed today in Washington in an AFL strike against central Greyhound lines, while 95 of the company's busses were prepared for the Army's use.

Representatives of the line and an AFL Motor Coach Employes union met with Federal conciliators in Washington last week, and adjourned their sessions until today, but meanwhile the strike spread halting service from Boston to St. Louis. It started here Dec. 3 in a dispute over the wages paid seven cleaning women and spread first to New York and Boston, with other unspecified issues becoming involved.

The company reported 50 busses from here and 45 from New York had been rented to the Army at Camp Lee, Va., in response to a request from the camp's commanding officer, Maj.-Gen. James E. Edmonds. The union announced its willingness to man and operate any or all of the busses.

A union committee notified the company that drivers belonging to the union would continue to man busses which transport draftees from Cleveland to Camp Perry, O., only if the request came from the selective service director.

In Chicago, two Greyhound lines asked for an injunction to restrain picketing of its property.

Central Greyhound Lines, Inc., and Illinois Greyhound Lines, Inc., alleged that the union called its strike without cause and solely for the purpose of coercing the plaintiffs to submit to the demands made upon it in relation to the controversy in Cleveland.

J. L. Williams, general traffic manager, said busses through Illinois to Peoria and St. Louis were not operating, and that trips to Detroit and Cleveland were canceled.

Greyhound Bus Service to Chicago at Standstill.

Greyhound bus service between St. Louis and Chicago remained canceled today because of the strike against Central Greyhound lines. Service from St. Louis remained unaffected to other points, including New York and Boston.

John A. Breidenthal, St. Louis Greyhound manager, said no more tickets to Chicago would be sold until he received word the strike was settled.

The company here has made refunds to about 300 passengers who purchased tickets to Chicago at other points and were unable to get beyond St. Louis. Refunds were made on the basis of bus fare to Chicago.

Some of the stranded passengers as well as others affected by the strike were accommodated by the Santa Fe Trailways and De Luxe Motor Stages Co., but others took trains.

U. S. CRUISER COMMISSIONED

The Atlanta Has Speed of 50 Land Miles an Hour.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—The 6000-ton cruiser Atlanta, a ship capable of speeding at the rate of more than 50 land miles an hour, became a unit of the American Navy today in commissioning exercises at the navy yard in Brooklyn.

Launched only three months ago, the Atlanta will be commanded by Capt. Samuel P. Jenkins, an Indiana-born veteran of the last war.

Churchill and Roosevelt Meet the Press

Seated side by side behind the President's cluttered desk in the White House executive office, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill yesterday answered the questions of a closely-packed group of newspaper reporters at an unprecedented joint press conference. The President smoked a cigarette in a long holder and the Prime Minister smoked a long cigar. Churchill told reporters that the Allies must deliver an external knockout to Hitler and not bank on the internal collapse of Germany. Arrow points to Raymond P. RADIO ROW is hysterical over Beatrice Fairfax's encounter with an N. B. C. page boy, when she went to Radio City to be the guest on Ilka Chase's penthouse party. The boy asked to see her pass. "Pass?" howled the venerable lady. "What kind of a pass?" The page boy stammered: "Well, er, uh, your N. B. C. pass." The adviser to the world's lovelorn fumbled in her purse and handed him a White House press pass. The boy shook his head: "Nh-nh," he nh-nh'd, "That won't get you in here!" . . . Times Square is so crowded with British sailors and marines these days that it is being called Thames Square. . . . Betty Bruce reports that social leveling is taking place already because of the war. "Look at that cigar butt there. Is it yours?" "No, ma'm," sneered the butler, "you can have it." . . . The End of a Pig

By H. Allen Smith

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.

WE finally butchered the pig at our house yesterday. Our pig's name was Harold, and we certainly hated to see him go. The children had developed a great affection for him, but there was no weeping when we slew him. The butchering was carried out strictly as a wartime measure and I, as the person who had to perform the unhappy deed, am glad to report that Harold butchered well. Harold was not a real pork-and-blood pig, though he was as big as a Missouri shoat. He was, in fact, the biggest and handsomest pig bank you ever saw in your life. He came to us eight months ago. There was an elaborate party in Manhattan, at which the guests filled out cockeyed questionnaires. After that, gifts were handed out by a glib gentleman named Henry Morgan, and Morgan, for a reason known only to himself, presented Harold to me. Harold was constructed of a plastic substance and lacquered in a way that gave him the proper coloring of a pig. He actually looked so real that farm-bred guests at our house often remarked that they felt the urge to go slop him.

H. ALLEN SMITH

★ ★ ★

IN THE MIDDLE of Harold's back was a slot just large enough to admit a quarter. Once money had been fed into him, there was no way in the world of getting it back without smashing him. The children have confessed that one day when they were alone in the house, they wasted half an hour trying to shake a dime out of Harold, but nary a chitlin would he yield. We kept our pig in the living room, on the mantel, and at first we resolved to load him with quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies against the coming of Christmas. It was our plan to butcher just before Christmas and to use his accumulated weight in rendering the happy holiday more happy. It was a rule of the house that Harold had to be fed at least once every day, and we fed him well. There were days, I suppose, when he went hungry, but for the most part he got what was coming to him.

★ ★ ★

ALONG TOWARD THE END of November we began to worry a little about the prospect of doing away with Harold. The children rose right up in rebellion. They said Harold was not to be butchered. They said they'd do without Christmas altogether, rather than see him go. We held a family conference about it. Harold was getting heavy by that time. We decided we'd let him live until he was full-grown. We agreed that in the end, when he reached capacity, he'd have to go, but our decision assured him at least another six months of life. We soon changed our minds about all that. Dec. 7th came and then Dec. 11th, and we listened to Roosevelt on the radio. We called another conference about Harold. The question of Christmas no longer entered into it. We'd get along all right Christmas. There was a larger consideration facing us now. And so, yesterday we butchered Harold. We now have a sack of coins which, if swung properly, might conceivably kill a Jap. We are swinging it properly. Today every cent of it goes into defense bonds and defense stamps. And at our house, that's only the beginning.

What They Think of the Girls

By Boris Karloff

This is another in a series of articles on what men think of women's clothes.

WHEN I found that I was definitely committed and could not escape perpetrating this offense against good clean paper and printer's ink, I decided my only safe course was to reverse my field and curry favor with those whom I was expected to pillory. Fashion. A furtive glance at the dictionary and I had struck oil. Not only did I confirm my suspicions of the way I had spelled the word, but I found out what it meant. "A pattern—an original or model proposed for imitation."

Now it must be perfectly obvious that imitation or acceptance of the original model is the one thing no self-respecting woman will do. What woman ever wears a hat out of the store exactly as she found it and what man fails to do so? Slaves of fashion, indeed; men I grant you, but never women. The only appreciable change in men's clothes in 50 years has been the lopping off of the button jackets. Do the buttons of men's trouser legs shoot up and down first three then 30 inches from the ground? Does he painstakingly select just the right hat, and after viewing it carefully from every angle triumphantly act upon the discovery that the only possible way to wear it is the one way the designer never thought of—inside out? Is that following fashion or is it individuality and courage? The average man entering, perhaps rather diffidently, a room full of strangers is partially set at ease by the comforting knowledge that his tailor has not done him in and that outwardly he is exactly like everybody else. A woman in the same position curses Fate and dies. And well she should, for she is throwing away a priceless boon of color and impudence and freedom in a sadly drab and regimented world.

BORIS KARLOFF

Fifty impeccably dressed men standing in a row sartorially as like as peas in a pod. How dull. But 50 gals even in masks and shin blinds will make you stop, look and gasp at what they have severally done to some couturier's creation. No, women are not slaves of fashion, but men are. After all, men invented and practice the goose step.

Christmas Belongs to Young Ones

By Angelo Patri

CHRISTMAS is the children's holiday. Grown people may share it, but the heart of the day belongs to the young ones. We have many worries this year, some of them pressing enough, some of them the fears of the doubts and maybes of things unseen, dreads scarce clear to our own minds. These we must set aside, forget, lest they spoil Christmas for the children.

To grown people this day is cherished mostly for its memories, the memories of childhood. The Christmas trees of long ago, the candles and the wreaths, the holly and pine and the good smells that filled the house, floated out of the shops and stands to make glad the spirit as well as the body.

Those Christmas smells awaken memories that bring smiles to old faces and light eyes that have almost forgotten how to dance, with joy. The sight of the toys that fill the windows start old hands and feet to long-forgotten action as the wheels and the skates and the dolls and the balls pile in gay heaps about them.

★ ★ ★

IT IS OLD MEMORIES of happy Christmas days that send mothers and daddies and aunts and uncles and grandpas to the shops for Christmas gifts for the children. For that one day the door to childhood stands wide open for any child-hearted man or woman to enter.

We need that remembrance to carry us through the long years ahead, and the children need the joyous experience that will set just such happy memories for them. So whatever our worry, whatever our dread, let's push it away. Let's set wide the gate of childhood, and, taking the hand of a little child, enter there for at least this one happy day.

Children do not care about the value of their gifts in money. What they want is the remembrance the gift signifies. A child is prouder in saying, "My father, my mother, gave me this for Christmas," than ever he is to tell the price of the gift. Love is what he wants from us and when he gets that he isn't at all particular about

IF THERE IS NOTHING else to give him, be sure to give him yourself that day. And if there is everything money can buy to give him, make certain you give him yourself that day. Don't be so tired that you cannot sit up and listen to the doll say "Ma-ma." Don't have such a headache that you can't bear to hear the drum. Don't be so busy that you haven't a moment to play with the new toys, see how the new wheel runs, how the doll carriage works.

For the children what counts most this day, and every other day as well, is the affection and understanding you offer him. Christmas may be filled with gifts, but if you cannot find time or strength to lend yourself to the children on that day, it is not Christmas for them.

Then, Merry Christmas, to you, and especially, through you, to the children, that they, too, may have Christmas memories in years to come.

It isn't fair to allow your child to form disagreeable little habits that will make other people dislike him, or her. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "Annoying Habits." Send for it, inclosing 10 cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Rocking Chair Exercise

By Patricia Lindsay

NOTHING can pep up a woman more quickly than 20 minutes of exercising if she will don loose clothing, ventilate a room with fresh air, and get down on the mat to work.

The stimulation of the blood stream and the stretching and contracting of muscles, bring new vitality to the body. Despite what you may hear to the contrary, many physicians tell me that exercise is excellent when one is fatigued from a sedentary position. So instead of falling into bed when you are dog tired, limber your body by bending it and stretching it. If you have some pet, corrective or scientific exercises which you know by heart, why all to the good. But if you haven't, you can simply pretend you are a cat and stretch, stretch, stretch. Do it lying on an exercise mat or a folded blanket placed on the floor. The surface should be hard and flat—not soft and giving like a mattress!

A good exercise is called the Rocking Chair. It not only tends to slim fat hips but it also helps to limber spines held stiffly too long. Every girl who sits down at her work a good deal should certainly include it in her daily exercise routine.

Sit on the floor with knees bent, heels touching each other. Draw abdomen in and up to straighten spine. Place hands on knees and rock from side to side—far right and far left—in rhythm. Rock to radio music so you will relax.

After doing the above 25 times, place the soles of the feet together, instead of the heels, and rock 25 times more. Throw head back to proud position and give in to the rhythmical rocking!

Now sit tailor-fashion, with ankles crossed. Cross wrists and grip ankles. Let the upper part of the body gradually slump forward, one vertebra at a time, with head lowered. When you feel completely relaxed, let the head roll limply from side to side or in a circle—whichever gives you the nicer sensation. After a couple of moments, slowly rise to erect sitting position, stretch out legs and go limp. Repeat entire exercise four or five times.

IN THIS POSITION, YOU ROCK AWAY WORK-A-DAY KINKS.

It is a good idea to do both of these exercises after your day's tasks are finished and before eating dinner or dressing for an evening's fun. After all beauty of skin and hair and eyes comes mainly from within and if a few minutes of exercising refreshes tired beauty it should behoove every woman to spare time for it.

Making a resolution to slim? Send for Miss Lindsay's "Slimming Diet Packed With Vitamins," and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Grow thin a sane, scientific way.

Poor Defense By Player in Bridge Game

By Ey Culbertson

ONE of the old bridge sayings is: "A singleton king always makes." It is a fact that most singleton kings held by the defenders take tricks, due to the declarer's natural and logical tendency to finesse against these cards. Thus, when a defender's singleton king is back of an ace, it has an excellent chance to survive. It is quite another story, however, when a singleton king is in declarer's hand. Almost always it requires a downright error by the defense for such singletons to be converted into tricks. The situation often is as shown in the following deal:

South, dealer.

	♠ K 7 3 ♥ K 6 5 ♦ J 8 7 4 ♣ Q J 6
♠ J 5 4 ♥ 10 9 7 ♦ Q 9 6 2 ♣ A 8 3	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ Q 6 ♥ 8 4 3 2 ♦ A 10 5 3 ♣ K 7 2
	♠ A 10 9 8 2 ♥ A Q J ♦ K ♣ 10 9 5 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding, particularly North's, was of questionable merit. The opening spade bid and no trump response were, of course, correct. It is doubtful, however, that South should have re6id his spade suit, despite his singleton, since it was a king. And there is no doubt that North's spade raise was a definite stretch. However, due to laxness of the defense (in this case, East's) the contract was brought home.

West opened the ten of hearts. Dummy's king won and now, to keep the defenders from learning of their mutual resources in other suits, declarer immediately led a low diamond toward his king. East woodenly followed "second hand low" and the blank king became a trick. After that it was all over. Declarer drew two rounds of trumps and quickly established the club suit, conceding, in all, one trump trick and two clubs.

Many defenders are blind to the significance of intermediate cards and combinations. In this case East should have considered himself fortunate in that he held not merely the diamond ace but the ten with it. This ten spot was the key to the proper play. East should have realized that declarer could not be "fooled" by failure to put up the diamond ace, because, with the ten in East's hand and the jack in dummy, it was impossible that declarer could have a finessing position. If East had not had the diamond ten, then declarer might have had that card along with the king, and in that case would have to guess whether to put in the ten or the king. The fact that he could have the ten was proof that he would have to go up with the king. Hence, East could gain nothing by ducking. True, he could not know that the ace would drop the blank king, but he could know that there was nothing to lose by the ace play.

The defense must always be guided by the visualization of what declarer would do if he had certain cards or card combinations. There is no sense in attempting to make declarer guess when the cards in sight make it obvious that he has only one line of play.

ALL poultry, turkeys, spring chickens, ducklings and geese, have gone up in price in the last few days, and on the average, are three to four cents per pound higher than at Thanksgiving. Best buys are capons which are cheaper than hen turkeys, and Long Island ducklings, which are cheaper than chickens, when usually the reverse is true of both.

By Dr. George W. Crane

Of Northwestern University

CASE U-163: Larry H., aged 18, is a college freshman. "It dese that I don't pick out the right kind of girls," he announced as walked home from class one morning. "I may get one or t dates with a co-ed, but when my money runs low, she will stall off, saying she has another engagement.

But I have since found out that several of these other dates which they cite as excuses, didn't even exist. Maybe they just don't like my company. Dr. Crane, how can a fellow get along well with a girl? Are you just born with this gift, or can you develop it?"

★ ★ ★

DIAGNOSIS: Some of the physical traits to which girls usually react positively, are man's superior height and breadth of shoulders. To such a degree, therefore, we might say that Larry's first attractiveness is inherited, since he is both tall and broad-shouldered. But this is a civilized age wherein muscle and height are not so important as trained human brain and a well disciplined tongue which will the right thing at the right time. There was an age in our hist when a man with a strong back might get along successfully in h environment, even if he had a weak mind. But in this machine a where women can operate the heaviest factory machines and run farm tractor easily, the pay-off is becoming increasingly a matter brains. All human beings, both women as well as men, start off life enmeshed in a life-long romance. And the subject of that pe petual love affair is self.

★ ★ ★

LARRY CAN GET along much more successfully with women he will simply realize the salient fact that his girl friend is primari interested in herself, not in him. Larry, of course, is also chiefly i terested in Larry. A conscious compromise must, therefore, be effect wherein he schools himself to such a point of self-discipline that h can talk about her instead of him. That sounds like an easy ta but most people automatically slip back into the natural habit discussing and lauding themselves instead of their partners. List to the average conversation and you will hear the speaker talkin about "my operation" or "my children" or "my vacation trip." M who have been preoccupied with sports or radio construction or m chanics and other masculine interests, may not have absorbed a gre deal of pertinent information concerning women. They may, there fore, select frivolous or fickle sweethearts.

★ ★ ★

NATURALLY, IF YOU don't study a subject intensely, you can not expect to demonstrate much knowledge thereof. This truism certainly holds for feminine psychology. To help such young men a Larry, I surveyed 1144 engaged men concerning what they liked an disliked in their sweethearts. The results of this elaborate analys are embodied in my "Test for the Girl Friend." Larry can, in eff acquire the experience of dating 1144 other girls by sincerely study ing the candid experience of these 1144 other young men who talke frankly about their fiancees. And all of you young women coul profit from a frequent self-analysis according to this psychologic rating scale. If you don't have a copy of it, send a dime, plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Dr. Crane, care St. Lou Post-Dispatch.

The purple-leaved wandering Jew, or zebrina pendula, is an excellent vine which will last many months if planted in water in the house. It has pink blossoms which open in the sun. The philodendron is a fine foliage plant to be grown indoors, with its sturdy, dark-green leaves, and graceful, spring vines. My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

MY interest has long been in theater and stage work. However, since I have lived in St. Louis only a short time and have had no experience in this sort of work due to the disadvantages of environment and family disapproval, I am at loss how to make a start. I am self-supporting, so any kind of a school is out. Can you suggest a dramatic group I could contact?

GOING FAR.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

I suggest you contact the Little Theater of St. Louis, 812 N. Union. There you will find all sorts of jobs to be done, from stage hand work and the like to acting. If they cannot work you in, they will be able to suggest a group which could.

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE MET QUITE a few soldiers, but so often they make a date, then stand me up, or promise to write and don't, or do write for a time then stop. Why do they act like this? Of course, in spite of it, I still like soldiers, for my Dad was one in the last war, and I know how they like to be thought well of and remembered when at camp. Where can a girl of 17 go for a good time, besides just a movie? How can I lose some weight? I would like to do something to help my country right now, but I work all day and feel so helpless. What can you suggest?

LONESOME.

I would say you should select your soldiers with more care! Soldier boys differ just as other boys differ, in manners, upbringing, etc. If any boy stands you up, then you shouldn't give him a second chance to do so. Have you tried joining the Y. W. C. A. or the Cathedral Girls' Club at Christ Church? Both have interesting and enjoyable things to do, and both are good places to make friends. Both also have dances to which the girls bring their boy friends, and that is an item to consider, too. As to losing weight, I have a Reducing leaflet I will mail you, if you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope. But don't go in for any drastic dieting or exercising without first consulting your doctor. As to helping your country—how about some knitting for the Red Cross, and some of First Aid classes which are held for those employed during the day?

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER TO "M. R.": There is evidently still a very strong attraction between you and the first man, and you are very foolish, while still a married woman, to put yourself in temptation's way. If you decide you can't return to your husband, then do not be dating any man until you have a divorce and are free to do so. You are starting off on the wrong foot with this other man. It would be better to see nothing of him for the present. If you are free later and still care for him, make him realize that you are making a new beginning and will never return to the same sort of friendship you had before. If he loves you as he says he does, he will marry you; if he is not willing to do this, forget your infatuation for him and keep out of his path.

IN ANSWER TO "W. K. Y.": When you are in the Public Library some day, visit the Reference Department and look through the various college catalogs. They will give you a good idea of the necessary requirements. I am afraid this is one course you could not take at night.

Dear Martha Carr:

SOME FRIENDS recently purchased a new home and are having a house-warming. When they married last year, I sent them a nice gift. Is it necessary and will I be expected to bring a gift to this party? What would be appropriate?

ANXIOUS.

It might be a good idea to find out what others who are going intend to do, and act accordingly. If you want to take along a gift, whether others do or not, that is up to you. Usually, some simple thing is given—you might take along some ash trays, or a kitchen gadget, or mats or a wastebasket.

Science Puts the Finger on Influenza Germ

Stripped From Camouflaged Cell, It May Be Conquered Before It Starts Another World Epidemic

By Jane Stafford

IF THE widely expected influenza epidemic of the present war holds off a little longer, scientists may actually be ready for it. They have at last put the finger on the 'flu germ itself. With the aid of a giant centrifuge, the germ has been separated from a larger cell which for long had camouflaged it.

This camouflage was so successful that until recently its existence was not even suspected. Because of it, scientists trying to protect people from influenza by vaccination were making their vaccine from material containing only about one-tenth as much influenza virus as they thought they were using.

The camouflaging cells are probably normal components of the mouse lung tissue on which the 'flu germs were grown in the laboratory. They were themselves extremely small—too small to be seen with powerful microscopes ordinarily used, and small enough to pass through the pores of fine-grained porcelain filters. But the 'flu germ, or the particles that make up the influenza virus, are still smaller.

Their size could not be estimated until recently. Now, with the aid of the electron microscope, scientists are able to see what they look like and measure them. They are among the smallest of disease-causing agents. Placed side by side enough of these spherical particles to give influenza to about 500 mice would stretch across the period at the end of this sentence.

Stripping the unsuspected camouflage from the influenza virus particles was done by growing the virus on developing hen's eggs instead of on a preparation of mouse lung tissue. The extra-embryonic fluids from the infected eggs was put into a centrifuge like a cream separator, only much more powerful. This centrifuge subjected the fluids to a pull of 90,00 times that of gravity. After a few hours of this, the influenza virus particles were all pulled out of the fluid and forced to settle to the bottom in a sediment.

From this material scientists have made a new vaccine. They hope it will be powerful enough to protect you from influenza the way you can now be protected from smallpox by vaccination.

This new influenza vaccination is now being tried on several hundred volunteers. It will be some time before its ability, if any, to confer resistance to influenza is known.

Vaccination against influenza was hopefully tried during last winter's epidemic, using the virus which scientists previously believed was the true influenza virus. Among several thousand people so vaccinated, influenza was 50 per cent less than among the unvaccinated population of the same institutions. The best this or any then conceivable vaccination could do, it seemed, was to raise the 'flu-fighting antibodies in the blood of susceptible persons to the normal level. The level of these antibodies in your blood is related to the degree of resistance you have to the disease, but even a person with a high antibody level sometimes gets influenza.

The newest material for influenza vaccination will, it is hoped, step up your resistance to the disease above the present normal. First inkling of what it can do will come when the vaccinated volunteers have their antibody level read.

SCIENTISTS, however, now have more than one string to their bow for fighting influenza. The same scientists at the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Leslie A. Chambers and Dr. Werner Henle, who have shown the world with the electron microscope what the 'flu germ really is, have also started analyzing it to find what it is made of. So far, they find it consists largely, if not entirely, of nucleoprotein. This is a general name for a class of chemicals found in the nucleus of cells.

They are complex substances, combinations of nucleic acid with simple proteins. Chemists have been trying to produce a drug that will cure influenza as the sulfa drugs cure certain other germ diseases. So far they have been unsuccessful, but they may now have a better chance. They may, for example, be able to find a chemical which will split off the part of the influenza nucleoprotein that makes you sick. Or they may find a chemical that will change the way the 'flu nucleoprotein is put together so that it loses its ability to cause sickness. Such a chemical could perhaps be used like a drug to treat influenza patients and speed them to recovery.

Human noses may provide still another line of attack on influenza. The nose is equipped with a mechanism for defense against foreign invaders, whether they be disease-causing germs or bits of dust. Besides this general defense mechanism, the human nose sems to have a special anti-influenza defense. Secretions from the nose can inactivate the influenza virus, Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., of New York University College of Medicine, discovered about a year ago. This ability develops or is sharply increased after an attack of influenza, he finds.

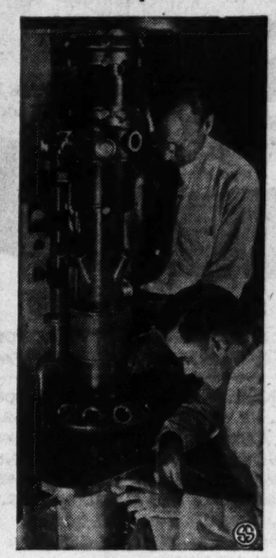
Ability of nasal secretions to stop the influenza virus is due, Dr. Francis thinks, to the presence of anti-influenza antibodies like those found in the blood. Further study along this line may add to the knowledge scientists need for conquering influenza.

Scientists have come a long way in their fight against the 'flu germ since this invisible agent of death swept around the world toward the close of the first World War. No one then knew really what the 'flu germ was. A tiny rod-shaped germ found in nose and throat washings and blood from influenza patients was suspected of being the actual culprit and even got a name, Haemophilus influenzae. That turned out to be a false lead.

★ ★ ★

FIRST real break in the long, discouraging fight came when Dr. C. H. Andrewes, Dr. P. P. Laidlaw and Dr. Wilson Smith in England trapped what seemed to be the influenza germ itself, a virus so small they could not see it under their microscopes but could use it to produce influenza in ferrets.

This, in turn, led to the accidental discovery, by Dr. F. H. Horsfall Jr., and Dr. E. H. Lennette, of the Rockefeller Foundation, that ferrets which had recovered from attacks of the dog disease, distemper, were immune to influenza. From this came the development of the influenza and distemper viruses into material for vaccinating people against influenza, with some, but not all the success hoped for.



AN ELECTRON MICROSCOPE, SIMILAR TO THE ONE SHOWN HERE, WAS NECESSARY TO MAKE THE TINY PARTICLES OF THE 'FLU GERMS VISIBLE. IT WAS ALSO USED TO PHOTOGRAPH THE TYPHOID FEVER GERMS.

Discovery of the sulfa drugs was another break in the fight against influenza, because, while these drugs are ineffective in cases of 'flu, they can cure the pneumonia that so often followed influenza and delivered the death blow to the victim.

The Medicine Cabinet and Its Contents

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

TODAY Dr. Don Carlos Peete will be guest conductor of the column—a part of his radio address on the ever-present subject, "The Home Medicine Cabinet."

"While a well-selected list of medical supplies is not a luxury, but a necessity in the modern home, your physician is concerned that your medicine cabinet does not contain remedies that are dangerous for self-medication, either because they are toxic or because they mask the picture of true illness.

"An example of the latter is giving a strong cathartic like castor oil or Epsom salts to a member of the family for stomach ache. Stimulation of the intestines follows, with relief of pain, but only until a return of all symptoms with high fever, and finally the operating surgeon finds an inflamed appendix which has ruptured, producing peritonitis.

"The least toxic of our pain relievers is aspirin, so a supply is in order.

"Only parents can know the anxiety that can come during the night when a child has the croup. For this condition, a very good drug to have on hand is syrup of ipecac; one-half to one full teaspoon may be given to produce vomiting, thus freeing the bronchial passages of the mucous that has a choking effect. This dosage may be repeated if necessary, to give complete relief until the physician can be called.

★ ★ ★

"A SMALL BOTTLE of tincture of benzoin compound may be kept in the home medicine chest to be used as an inhalant for colds and coughs. One-half teaspoonful in a pint of hot water is the proper proportion.

"A teaspoonful of boric acid powder in a pint of warm, distilled water makes a mild antiseptic solution for irrigating a draining ear, or to be used as an eye wash until it is possible to get expert advice. Every medicine chest should contain some rubbing alcohol for bathing and cleansing the skin, and it may be mixed with oil of wintergreen as a liniment.

"Now for minor surgical supplies. It will be much easier to care for your child's cuts and bruises if you don't hurt him, so I recommend 5 per cent mercurochrome. Tincture of merthiolate, metaphen and mercresin are all excellent antiseptics, but because of the alcoholic content, do irritate an open wound. A tube of amertan or butesin picrate ointment will relieve the pain of burns until a physician can care for the injuries.

"FOR DRESSING WOUNDS, only sterile dressing should be used. If such supplies are not available, freshly laundered white cotton materials, ironed with a hot iron for sterilization, may be used. Of course, the old stand-by, adhesive tape, one inch wide, five yards long, will hold the bandages, or may be used for immobilizing a sprain.

"Finally, every home should have a hot-water bottle and an ice bag and some means to give an enema. The electric heating pad is very useful when its use can be supervised. There is a risk in its use for children, elderly patients and the extremely ill, since there is danger of burning."

The Price of Decency -o- By Elsie Robinson

SCADS of criticism of America going the rounds these days, even among her most loyal backers. Everybody asking:

"Why weren't we better prepared? Why didn't we get wise to those rats long ago 'and outsmart 'em?' How'd they manage to sneak up on us? What's wrong with our secret service system? Hasn't anyone in Washington got sense enough to know when the dice are loaded and the deck is marked? No organization . . . no system!

"All these 'social reforms' . . . these 'lease-lend handouts.' While our own guns rusted in their racks, our own people headed straight for hell. What's the big idea? What's wrong with our whole line-up? Who's asleep at the switch?

"All this defense talk—but why weren't we trained for blackouts? Why haven't we gas masks . . . shelters? Germany and Japan can get going . . . why can't we?"

Questions like that everywhere. The fellow who asks them may be only three jumps removed from the Village Idiot, under normal conditions. His own life may be about as "organized as a dish of scrambled eggs." But right now he's holding the spotlight and getting rounds of applause. Which is natural. For look how superior his croakings make the rest of us feel! What swell alibis they provide for our own laziness, stupidity and general laxity. How wise and efficient we appear against the shabby record of these Other Slobs.

Yes, there's plenty of criticism spattering around lately. Much of that criticism is healthy and vitally needed. And we should be grateful to those informed persons who had the courage to give it while there was time. If we'd listened to some of the honest critics who tried to warn us, during the last four years, we'd be in a far better spot than we occupy today. And our faces wouldn't be half as red . . . or our hearts half as heavy.

Yet, granting all this, our present outburst of bile is beginning to rile me plenty. Admitted, we've made a flop of many things. But that doesn't prove we're a bunch of dopes and rogues. Messy going? Sure! But messiness is part of the price which any people inevitably pay for the glorious opportunity and high challenge of democracy.

Democracies are always slow, clumsy, stubborn, wasteful and inefficient in their methods. That isn't because they are cuckoo experiments . . . it's simply because men, under democracy, have a dream which is still larger than their individual or collective evolution. That's why one determined bully can always get things done quicker and slicker than a million undecided free souls. Which explains many of our own blunders—including Honolulu. But look out for that time when the free souls get hep to themselves. They may be slow in starting . . . but oh-you-finish!

That much for those who think that Tokyo is smoother than Washington. It is. At present. But stick around and see what happens. They may have a Sun Goddess. But we have the Star of Bethlehem. So much for Indictment No. 1. As for the charge that we're not smart enough to smell out rats and outgnaw their rattiness, here's one American who is proud that we aren't and didn't. It may cost us plenty. Everything that is decent costs. Nobility, like democracy, takes a lot of time cooking. But it's worth the price!

It's true, we might have more money, more guns, more trained soldiers today if we'd spent time and effort on hate and suspicion and greed instead of on our dream of joy and freedom and brotherly love. But if that's dumb, I'm proud of being a sap!

And I'm betting right now that, when the smoke has cleared, you'll find the muddled dreamers holding the field. . . . And the regimented rats taking the count.

The Child's Toys

By Emily Post

I WISH I might have received a certain letter sooner. And yet, it may not be too late to reassure not only this one disheartened mother, but others who may be feeling disappointed because their children's Christmas this year must be meager compared with those of years before. This particular mother writes: "My husband says that because of national defense we must cut our expenses to the bone, and I am certainly willing to do my best, but all the same it made me unhappy today to pass our big toy store window instead of going in and buying the beautiful real skin lion and the gorgeous doll, which I could have done last year. I know I ought to be perfectly happy with all four of us together and not in want of anything—short of extras for expensive Christmas toys! Oh, well, I got my little boy a Noah's Ark and I have made new clothes for my little girl's favorite doll. And I also got a number of nice little things at the 5 and 10."

★ ★ ★

I'M NOT SURE that the writer of this letter wants an answer. I have an idea she was just getting rid of a blue mood by putting it down on paper. But the thought that her letter suggests to me is that not being able to buy expensive toys for children is quite possibly to their advantage! I am serious in saying that no advantage given me as a child was greater than having had very few toys of the bought-in-a-store kind. I had plenty of things to play with—"make" with is the better word. Paints and crayons, paper and glue, sewing things and all sorts of tools. It was not that my parents—or at least my grandparents—couldn't have given me more toys, but that they believed in training fingers to be skillful, and imagination to be resourceful. I can't help asking my reader what her little boy would do with the lion? The rigid, jointless kind I think of, is not a bit more playful or cuddlesome than an iron stag! A Noah's Ark, on the other hand, filled with animals, has many possibilities. As for the "gorgeous" doll—to have no doll would be sad for the average little girl, but the need for one more beautiful than the one which is now her favorite, is not a bit more real than that a mother's happiness be dependent upon her baby's beauty!

Bet on Uncle Sam -:- By Henry McLemore

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.

HOW do you go about feeling sorry for horse track owners? Ever since word came that Santa Anita would not be allowed to open I have devoted part of my time each day to trying to work up some sympathy for the owners of that lavish plant where the breed is improved and the bankroll is vice versaed.

It shouldn't be hard to work up a tear or two. The owners are friends of mine. Dr. Charles Strub, the general manager and high monkety-monk, has always gone out of his way to make me comfortable there. He has never complained about cashing my checks when I ran out of the ready and has often invited me to share his private box so that I could get an unobstructed view of my also-rans.

There is Fred Purner, the publicity director. You could beat the highways and the hedges without finding a better publicity director or fellow than Fred Purner. His greeting when I arrived from the East and walked into the press-box was always very warm and cordial.

"Welcome," he always said. "Doubly welcome. Now we don't have to worry about where the money is coming from for that flower bed we want to plant near the homestretch turn. You will furnish the means whereby lilies and roses and posies will grow where only weeds have stood before."

It always seemed to me Purner had the perfect background for a racetrack public relations officer. In his early days he was the best tombstone and crypt salesman in San Francisco. One of his best selling points was that his crypts, while they cost more, were the only ones to command a superb view of the San Francisco harbor.

Even if sympathy for Santa Anita did not spring from the fact that I know the men who run it, it should come from the fact that it is part and parcel of me. Suits of clothes I might have had are wrapped up in the starting gate. A portion of the clubhouse turn is smoother because of my rent money. Seabiscuit whirled to victory in the handicap over clay that, in part, was paid for by money I had planned to use to take a correspondence course in bareback riding.

But the tears won't come. In fact, just the opposite. Up until now all we have heard is that the horse player is bound to die broke and there is no getting around a certain satisfaction for us horse players in contemplating the possibility that horse track owners may go broke.

Not that we really hope they will, but wouldn't it be fun to have Alf Vanderbilt, who operates Pimlico and Belmont; Col. Matt Winn, who does the same for Churchill Downs, or one of the haughty Wideners who run Hialeah, buttonhole a hoss-player, just a plain old hoss-player, and ask him for something good in the fifth? Something good enough, in fact, to get him "out" for the day.

Knowing how horse players love a "sure thing," I think I have a pretty good idea for the men and women, the tout and toutesse who will miss the afternoons at Santa Anita this year. Why don't those of us who would have put up our money on the fillies, colts, platers and stakers walk up to the window that really counts and back the surest thing that ever went to the post—Uncle Sam in this war? Why not invest those millions of dollars that would have been bet on the horses in defense stamps and bonds?

We all could go to the window eight times an afternoon and buy a ticket on the biggest race we ever have been in on. The $2 players can buy defense stamps and the $50 players a defense bond.

And we could be sure of cashing every ticket we bought. We could save time in buying them, too. We never would have to consider place or show ticket. They would be win tickets strictly. Right on Uncle Sam's nose. Let's not run the risk of having a photo finish.

NAMES IN THE NEWS.

Nippon is the correct Japanese name for the country of Japan. The word means "day or sun origin," hence "The Land of the Rising Sun." Do not say "NIP-un." It is correct to pronounce both "p's." Say: NIP-pahn.

Ion Antonescu is premier of Rumania. The correct pronunciation of this name comes direct from the Royal Legation of Rumania (spelled Romania in the country itself, and pronounced: roe-MUH-i-nee-ah) at Washington.

In Ion the "I" has the sound of the consonant "Y." The name rhymes with bone, cone, lone. Ion is the Rumanian form of John. Note that the -scu of Antonescu is not pronounced "skew," but skoo. Say:

How It Started

By Jean Newton

Four-Leafed Clover.

When sitting in the grass we see,
A little four-leafed clover,
'Tis luck for thee and luck for me,
Or luck for any lover.

So runs an old rhyme, but very much older is the idea that the four-leafed clover portends good luck.

Many of the reasons offered for this superstition are ingenious, like the one attributing its vogue to the resemblance between the four-leafed clover and a cross, which might seem reasonable were it not for the fact that the belief long antedates the Crucifixion.

Also, an interesting legend relates how Eve, when banished from the Garden of Eden took with her a four-leafed clover, which being from Paradise, ever since has been esteemed a symbol of luck, finding one naturally being regarded as a good omen.

Plum Pudding :: By Meta Given

IF you don't have a steamer and feel you can't invest in one at present, don't let that discourage you from enjoying the traditional plum pudding for Christmas! Any deep preserving kettle or even a large saucepan can be converted into a steamer by borrowing a trivet from the roaster and propping it up with anything handy that will permit water to boil merrily in the bottom of the pan without touching the trivet. Place the covered pudding mold on the trivet, cover the kettle tightly, and let 'er steam! The pudding, served hot with lemon sauce, foamy sauce, or hard sauce, will be exactly as good as you could have made with a real steamer.

Plum Pudding With Lemon Sauce.

One cup buttermilk, one cup fine dry breadcrumbs, one-third cup butter, three-fourths cup brown sugar, firmly packed, one egg, one-half cup all-purpose flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, few grains nutmeg, two teaspoons baking soda, one and one-half cups raisins.

Pour buttermilk over breadcrumbs, and let soak. Cream butter, add sugar and egg, and beat vigorously until very fluffy and light in color. Sift flour, measure and resift three times with salt, spices and soda. Stir flour mixture into butter-sugar-egg mixture, beating until smooth; then stir in the soaked breadcrumbs and raisins. Turn into two well-buttered molds (two-cup size), filling them about three-fourths full. (No. 1 or 2 tin cans which have been opened with a roll-type can opener make satisfactory molds.) Cover top of molds with a cloth and tie securely in place. Steam in a covered steamer for about one and one-half hours or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Unmold and serve warm with the following lemon sauce: One cup granulated sugar, one-fourth cup cornstarch, pinch salt, two cups water, one-half cup lemon juice, two tablespoons butter.

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan; add water and cook over direct heat, stirring constantly, until sauce boils and becomes clear. Remove from heat, add lemon juice and butter, and stir until butter is melted. Serve warm or cold on hot pudding. Makes about eight servings.

MENUS FOR THURSDAY.

Breakfast.

Broiled grapefruit with cherry in center of halves, two grapefruit, candied cherries; scrambled eggs, four eggs, salt, milk, bacon drippings; panbroiled bacon, one-fourth pound bacon; cranberry muffins, one cup chopped cranberries, one-half cup sugar, two cups all-purpose flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one egg, one cup milk, one-fourth cup melted shortening, butter; cocoa (for all), three tablespoons cocoa, sugar, two cups evaporated milk, two cups water.

Dinner.

Roast chicken, four-pound roasting chicken, two quarts soft breadcrumbs, one-half small onion, one cup celery, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon salt, one egg, one cup water, one teaspoon poultry seasoning, pepper to suit taste; candied sweet potatoes, two pounds sweet potatoes, butter, salt, brown sugar; buttered green beans, one pound green beans, salt, butter; hot buttered rolls, one-half dozen rolls, butter; apple and avocado salad, two medium tart apples, one avocado, boiled dressing, lettuce cups; plum pudding with lemon sauce (see recipe above), save half for Friday dinner; coffee (for adults only), four tablespoons coffee; milk (for children), two cups milk.

Supper.

Pineapple and red cabbage salad (left from Wednesday lunch); toasted cheese sandwiches, one-third pound cheese, eight slices whole wheat bread, butter; hot spiced milk, four tablespoons moist shredded coconut, one tablespoon butter, four cups milk, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, two tablespoons honey.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Wynn

Thursday, Dec. 25.

POSTPONE feelings of displeasure or disappointment, if possible, this morning; don't say or do more than you'll mean in the long run. Otherwise, and for the balance of the day, make the most of social opportunities. Merry Christmas.

Change Worry to Work.

A man I know is studying five different subjects, including physics, art, music, astrology and Greek, in addition to keeping up his business and social obligations as usual. It takes him only an hour and a quarter a day and he says he has no idea what he used to do with the time. My answer is: he used to worry; now he doesn't—he hasn't time. Probably that was how he wasted it.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if born on this date, demands sensible health care, new health habits. Cultivate allies, partners, but avoid gullibility. January-March and from August no impulsive occupational moves. Danger: April 17-May 2; Sept. 15-23.

FRIDAY, DEC. 26.

TAKE it slow and easy today—urges are sharp, snappy, too strong for the judgment that is likely to accompany them. Best uses of this vibration are the hard, silent work variety, along lines that have been well tested in the past.

How to Be Happy.

The man or woman who is not growing is unhappy. Happiness can be achieved only in the state of becoming constantly greater. This is to be done by pushing outward the horizon of knowledge into ever widening circles while seriously digesting mentally the lessons that are being learned. No one knows all he or she could know: no one is learning as fast as he can unless he is consciously studying.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead is too emotional, wishful, restless, for best occupational progress, if born on this date. Be sure, then decide. Conserve vitality, try new treatments. Care with law. Danger: April 19-May 4; Sept. 16-25.

The American Women's Voluntary Services has given instruction to more than 80,000 women of the United States recently.

This wonderful antiseptic kills millions of germs on throat surfaces . . . the very types that many authorities say are responsible for the cold misery you know all too well. At the same time it often relieves irritation of sore throats due to colds. Remember, in tests made over a ten-year period, regular twice-a-day users of Listerine Antiseptic had fewer colds, milder colds and colds of shorter duration than non-users. So, at the first sign of trouble, use Listerine Antiseptic and consult your doctor.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

Deanna Durbin Heads Array of Stars on KSD Program Tonight.

A number of movie and radio stars are billed for a special hour-long Red Cross show which will be broadcast on KSD from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight in the periods regularly occupied by the Eddie Cantor and Mr. District Attorney programs.

Among those billed for this broadcast are Deanna Durbin, Irving Berlin, Loretta Young, Fibber McGee and Molly, Ezra Stone and the Aldrich Family cast. Fibber and Molly will be picked up in Hollywood as will the movie stars. Stone and the Aldrich Family actors will be cut into the program from New York and will be heard in a skit written for the occasion by Clifford Goldsmith, author of the serial.

Cantor will act as master of ceremonies, and his Time to Smile radio program cast—Dinah Shore, Bert "The Mad Russian" Gordon and Edgar Fairchild and his orchestra—will have parts in the broadcast.

Don't strain your back."—"Look out! Now see what you've done! It was the big red ball we've had for years. Why didn't you watch where you were walking? Never mind. I'll get the brush and dustpan."

"Hello? Oh, Jenny, it's you. Oh, everything's fine. I've a headache, but I'll take some aspirin and go to bed as soon as I've filled the stockings. It's nice to have the children home. TELLS CONGRESS THAT U. S.-BRITIS POSITION SHOUL IMPROVE IN '4

Prime Minister Declares i Year or 18 Months D mocracies' War Powe Will Exceed Anythin Axis Ever Saw.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP).—Prime Minister Wi ston Churchill told Congres today the Allies would b ready "to take the initiativ on an ample scale" by 194 and in the end give the Axi powers a lesson the worl "will never forget."

Standing in the center of th green-carpeted Senate rostrum, th Briton asked his intently listening audience these questions about the Germans, Japanese and Italians:

"What kind of people do they think we are?

"Do they not realize that w shall never cease to persever against them until we have taugh them a lesson which they and th world will never forget?"

This brought a roar of applaus from the packed-and-jammed Sen ate chamber, where House mem bers were sandwiched in between the regular Senate desks. Member of the Supreme Court, the Cab inet and the diplomatic corps were also in his audience.

Choice of What to Defend.

If the United States is faced with certain "short-comings" in Pacific preparedness, Churchil said, this is in "no small part du to the assistance you are giving u in the defense of the British isle and in the battle of Libya, and above all, the help you are givin us in the battle of the Atlantic." He continued:

"The choice of how to dispos of our hitherto limited resources had to be made by Britain in tim of war and by the United State in time of peace. I believe that on the whole history will judge tha the choice was right."

The Prime Minister, frequently interrupted by applause, said when one took into account the re sources of Britain and the United States as well as China—"which so long and so valiantly has with stood invasion"—it was difficult to reconcile the Japanese attack on America with prudence "or even with sanity."

Preventing Future Wars.

One point he set forth was that this country and Great Britain should make it certain that the catastrophe of war does not come again.

"These pestilences break out in the Old World," he said, but soon spread to the New World. He added that both nations should join forces to see that "germ centers of hate" are disposed of in the future before war "spreads throughout the entire world."

Churchill said the present war could have been averted five years ago without shedding a drop of blood, if this country and England had forced Germany to abide by its signed agreement.

With scorn he referred in passing to the "boastful Mussolini," who, he said, has "crumpled already" and "is nothing but a vassal and a serf." His listeners laughed.

Masses Awaiting Liberation.

The Prime Minister spoke also of the "masses awaiting the hour of liberation when they, too, will be able to play their part and strike their blows like men."

The United States-British production, within a year or months, Churchill said, would result in war power output beyond
